

January 1992

Laurence G. Thompson: Biographical and Bibliographical Footnotes

Christian Jochim
San Jose State University, christian.jochim@sjsu.edu

Rodney Taylor

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.sjsu.edu/humanities_pub

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation

Christian Jochim and Rodney Taylor. "Laurence G. Thompson: Biographical and Bibliographical Footnotes" Journal of Chinese Religions (1992): 1-7.

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Humanities at SJSU ScholarWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Faculty Publications by an authorized administrator of SJSU ScholarWorks. For more information, please contact scholarworks@sjsu.edu.

Christian Jochim and Rodney Taylor

LAURENCE G. THOMPSON:
BIOGRAPHICAL AND BIBLIOGRAPHICAL FOOTNOTES

Although known to most of us as a scholar of Chinese Studies with a specialization in the field of Chinese religions, Laurence G. Thompson is a person with a rich and broad range of personal and professional interests who has had several remarkably different careers during the course of his life. Larry was born in Ichou-fu, Shantung Province, in 1920. His parents, Kenneth Kilgore and Denise Archer Thompson, had arrived in China as missionaries in 1911, the year the Ch'ing Dynasty fell. Larry lived in Ichou-fu from 1920 to 1927 until the family fled China because of the civil strife associated with the Northern Expedition. Some of Larry's most vivid early memories are associated with the plight of his family trying to leave China under conditions that approached civil war. For Larry the escape meant a three day wheelbarrow ride to a rail head, always under the threat of enemy soldiers. The family travelled from China to Thailand, but Larry soon came down with malaria and was taken back to the United States.

The family returned to China in 1929, staying until 1934 when they returned to the United States with the retirement of Larry's father. During these years in China the family lived in Chinan, Shantung. Larry attended Chinan Foreign School and then boarding school at Shanghai American School. The China years left a lasting love of Asia. Larry's affinity to Asian cultures provided a strong pull to his eventual career in Asian Studies. Those of us who have studied with Larry always remember his strongly felt opinion about the importance of spending time in Asia for anyone studying Asia. Being a scholar of Asia meant more than simply knowing the texts; a lived-experience was critical to understand the inner working of the cultures and such experience was outside the textbook.

After the family returned to the United States in 1934, Larry finished high school in Southern California. He entered UCLA in 1939. Studying history, philosophy and education, he speaks more glowingly of his membership on the UCLA soccer team as the high point of his undergraduate years. Larry graduated from UCLA in June of 1942. With the entry of America into the war, Larry soon volunteered for the Service. He was accepted into the Japanese Language School established at the University of Colorado at Boulder for training U.S. personnel in Japanese. He became a Japanese Language Officer in the U.S. Marine Corps and served in active duty in the Pacific theatre from 1943 to 1945.

Larry began serious study of the violin in his teenage years and always hoped to receive advanced training in music, but his love of Asia nearly always took precedence over his music. Instead of attending the College of Music at the University of Colorado at Boulder, his first choice after his discharge, Larry ended up receiving an M.A. in Asian Studies from Claremont Graduate School. Before going on for his PhD, he served as Cultural Attaché at the American Embassy in Taipei from 1951 to 1953. He then returned to Claremont Graduate School and received his PhD in 1954. Asia drew him back again and he served during 1955 as a U.S. Foreign Service Officer in a variety of locations including Tokyo, Singapore, Manila and Hong Kong. In 1956 he became the Asia Foundation representative to Korea and in 1958 the Asia Foundation representative to Taiwan. The later position lasted only a year and from 1959 to 1962 Larry began his academic career with a professorship at Taiwan Normal University. His professorship was not in Asian Studies, but rather in music. The years at Taiwan Normal University were Larry's most active period musically, teaching violin, viola, general music and giving frequent concerts.

In 1962 at the encouragement of Chen Shou-yi, Larry came back to the United States, joining the faculty of Pomona College where he taught Asian Studies for three years. In 1965 Larry became a faculty member of the University of Southern California, a position he has continued to hold, now as Professor Emeritus. During the years at U.S.C., Larry has had a truly distinguished career in the field of Chinese Studies. His service to his colleagues and the field itself has been undying. He played a critical role in the establishment and development of the Society for the Study of Chinese Religions, serving as president 1974-1976 and 1978-1985. He served as the president of the Western Conference of the Association for Asian Studies, 1979-80. He was both vice-president (1979-81) and president (1981-82) of the Western Branch of the American Oriental Society and he served as president of the China Society, Taipei (1961-62).

Larry is an exemplary citizen of the profession. He is always there to listen, to provide constructive suggestions and to inspire us to the realization of the importance of our work as scholars and teachers of Asian cultures. Much of the work Larry has contributed to the field is of service to all of us. His bibliographic guides in the field of Chinese religions are a major and lasting contribution and his textbooks on Chinese religion have set the model for an introduction to the subject. It is rare to meet someone who has done so much for the field and yet for whom humility is the only reward.

In a videotape made of Larry by his family on the occasion of his seventieth birthday, he is asked about his long and productive academic career. His response, representing his typical humility, was to say that his career was just a "routine academic career." Certainly his life and his contribution to Chinese Studies and Religious Studies is far more than just a "routine academic career!" For those of us who have had the privilege of knowing Larry as teacher and friend, he is a true teacher, a source of wit and wisdom and most frequently his wit and wisdom are combined.

Bibliography of Laurence G. Thompson

- 1951 "Asia in our School Curricula." Phi Delta Kappan. January.
- 1956 FIFTY YEARS OF CHINESE PHILOSOPHY (1898-1950). Translated from the French of O. Brière, S.J. London: Allen & Unwin.
- 1958 TA T'UNG SHU: THE ONE-WORLD PHILOSOPHY OF K'ANG YU-WEI. Translated from the Chinese, with Introduction and Notes. London:

Allen & Unwin.

- 1961a "Sinology and the China Society." Journal of the China Society. 1: 3-9.
- 1961b "American Sinology 1830-1920: A Bibliographical Survey." Tsinghua Journal of Chinese Studies. n.s. 2.2, June, 244-290.
- 1962 "Music and the Cultural Exigency in Taiwan." Sino-American Conference on Intellectual Cooperation: Report and Proceedings. Seattle: University of Washington, 292-299.
- 1964a "Music in Taiwan." Claremont Quarterly, 11.3, Spring, 71-78.
- 1964b "Notes on Religious Trends in Taiwan." Monumenta Serica 23: 319-350.
- 1964c "The Earliest Chinese Eyewitness Accounts of the Formosan Aborigines." Monumenta Serica 23: 163-204.
- 1964/65 "China and the West: Some Reflections on Their Historical Differences." Journal of the China Society 4: 3-14.
- 1965 FIFTY YEARS OF CHINESE PHILOSOPHY 1898-1948 (sic). Edited, with Introduction, by Dennis Doolin. New York: Praeger.
- 1967 "Ta Tung Shu and The Communist Manifesto: Some Comparisons." In J.P. Lo, Editor, K'ANG YU-WEI: A BIOGRAPHY AND A SYMPOSIUM. Tucson: University of Arizona Press. Association for Asian Studies Monograph No. XXIII. 341-354.
- 1968 "The Junk Passage Across the Taiwan Strait: Two Early Chinese Accounts." Harvard Journal of Asiatic Studies 28: 170-194.
- 1969a CHINESE RELIGION: AN INTRODUCTION. Belmont & Encino: Dickenson. A volume in The Religious Life of Man Series, edited by Frederick J. Streng.
- 1969b "Formosan Aborigines in the Early Eighteenth Century: Huang Shu-ching's Fan Su Liu K'ao." Monumenta Serica 28: 41-147.
- 1973a THE CHINESE WAY IN RELIGION. Belmont & Encino: Dickenson. A

Volume in the Religious Life of Man Series, edited by Frederick J. Streng.

- 1973b "Funeral Rites in Taiwan." In volume edited by author, The Chinese Way in Religion, 160-169.
- 1973c "The Cult of Matsu." In volume edited by author, The Chinese Way in Religion, 196-201.
- 1972/73 "P'eng-hu in mid-Ch'ing times According to the P'eng-hu Chi Lüeh of Hu Chien-wei." Monumenta Serica 30: 166-219.
- 1974a K'ANG YU WEI: TA T'UNG SHU, DAS BUCH VON DER GROSSEN GEMEINSCHAFT. Herausgeber der Englischen Ausgabe Laurence G. Thompson; aus dem Englischen übersetzt von Horst Kube; herausgeber der deutschen Ausgabe Wolfgang Bauer; Redaktion, Ulf Diederichs, Düsseldorf/Köln: Eugen Diederichs Verlag.
- 1974b "Chinese Religion." Encyclopaedia Britannica, 15th Edition: Britannica 3. Macropaedia 4: 422a-428a.
- 1975a STUDIA ASIATICA: ESSAYS IN FELICITATION OF THE SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF PROFESSOR CH'EN SHOU-YI. San Francisco: Chinese Materials Center. Edited by Laurence G. Thompson, with contributions by twenty-eight scholars.
- 1975b CHINESE RELIGION: AN INTRODUCTION. Belmont & Encino: Dickenson. Second Edition, revised and enlarged.
- 1975c "Yu Ying Kung: The Cult of Bereaved Spirits in Taiwan." In volume edited by author, Studia Asiatica. 267-277.
- 1976 STUDIES OF CHINESE RELIGION. A COMPREHENSIVE AND CLASSIFIED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF PUBLICATIONS IN ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND GERMAN THROUGH 1970. Compiled by Laurence G. Thompson with the Research and Editorial Assistance of Justine Pinto. Belmont & Encino: Dickenson. xlv + 189 double-column pages.
- 1978a "Confucianism as a Way of Ultimate Transformation." In East/West Cultures: Religious Motivations for Behavior: A Colloquium. Santa Barbara: Educational Futures, International [Foundation], 1-38.

- 1978b "Objectifying Divine Power: Some Chinese Modes." In Deity & Death: Selected Symposium Papers, edited by Spencer J. Palmer. Provo: Brigham Young University, Religious Studies Center, 135-147.
- 1978c "Efficacy and Afficacy in Chinese Religion." Bulletin. Society for the Study of Chinese Religions 6: 31-49.
- 1979a FIFTY YEARS OF CHINESE PHILOSOPHY. Westport, Connecticut: Greenwood Press, reprint.
- 1979b CHINESE RELIGION: AN INTRODUCTION. Belmont: Wadsworth. Third Edition, further revised and enlarged.
- 1979c "The Scrutable Chinese Religion." In China and Christianity: Historical and Future Encounters, edited by James D. Whitehead, Yu-ming Shaw, and N.J. Girardot. Notre Dame: University of Notre Dame Center for Pastoral and Social Ministry, 36-60.
- 1980 "Taiwanese Temple Arts and Cultural Integrity." Bulletin. Society for the Study of Chinese Religions 8: 70-78.
- 1981a "Popular and Classical Modes of Ritual in a Taiwanese Temple." Bulletin. Society for the Study of Chinese Religions 9: 106-122.
- 1981b "Obiter Dicta on Chinese Religion as Play." Transactions of the First International Sinological Conference. Taipei: Academia Sinica: 59-72.
- 1982 "The Moving Finger Writes: A Note on Revelation and Renewal in Chinese Religion." Journal of Chinese Religions 10: 92-147.
- 1984 "Observations on Religion in Communist China: Introductory Comments." Preface to a group of three papers by Jan Yün-hua, Alan Sponberg, & William Powell. Journal of Chinese Religions 12: 33-36.
- 1985a CHINESE RELIGION IN WESTERN LANGUAGES. A COMPREHENSIVE AND CLASSIFIED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF PUBLICATIONS IN ENGLISH, FRENCH, AND GERMAN THROUGH 1980. Tucson: University of Arizona Press, Association for Asian Studies Monograph No. XLI. A much enlarged, corrected, and up-dated version of Studies of Chinese Religion, 1976.

- 1985b GUIDE TO CHINESE RELIGION. By David C. Yu, with Contributions by Laurence G. Thompson. Boston: G.K. Hall. A volume in the Asian Philosophies and Religions Series, copyright by Foreign Area Materials Center, University of the State of New York.
- 1985c "Taoism: Classic and Canon." In The Holy Book in Comparative Perspective, edited by Frederick M. Denny & Rodney L. Taylor. Columbia: University of South Carolina Press, 204-223.
- 1987a "Chiao." The Encyclopedia of Religion. Mircea Eliade, Editor in Chief. New York and London: MacMillan; 3: 239a-240b.
- 1987b "Chinese Religious Year." The Encyclopedia of Religion. Mircea Eliade, Editor in Chief. New York and London: MacMillan; 3: 323a-328a.
- 1987c "Confucian Thought: The State Cult." The Encyclopedia of Religion. Mircea Eliade, Editor in Chief. New York and London; 4: 36a-38b.
- 1987d "Taoist Iconography." The Encyclopedia of Religion. Mircea Eliade, Editor in Chief. New York and London; 7: 50b-54b.
- 1987e "T'ien." The Encyclopedia of Religion. Mircea Eliade, Editor in Chief. New York and London; 14: 508a-510a.
- 1987f "Confucianism and State Orthodoxy." In Proceedings of the First International Symposium on Church and State in China, Past and Present. Tamkang University 1986; 5-12.
- 1987g "Dancing Lions." Journal of Chinese Religions 15: 29-43.
- 1988a CHINESE RELIGION: AN INTRODUCTION. Belmont: Wadsworth. Fourth Edition, still further revised and enlarged. (copyright date: 1989).
- 1988b "Dream Divination and Chinese Popular Religion" Journal of Chinese Religions 16: 73-82.
- 1989 "On the Prehistory of Hell in China." Journal of Chinese Religions 17: 27-41.
- 1990 "Medicine and Religion in Late Ming China." Journal of Chinese Religions 18: 45-59.

- 1991 "Consecration Magic in Chinese Religion." Journal of Chinese Religions 19: 1-12.
- 1991 THE TAOIST TRADITION IN CHINESE THOUGHT. Translated from the Chinese of Yao-yü Wu. Los Angeles: Ethnographics Press.

Copyright and Use:

As an ATLAS user, you may print, download, or send articles for individual use according to fair use as defined by U.S. and international copyright law and as otherwise authorized under your respective ATLAS subscriber agreement.

No content may be copied or emailed to multiple sites or publicly posted without the copyright holder(s)' express written permission. Any use, decompiling, reproduction, or distribution of this journal in excess of fair use provisions may be a violation of copyright law.

This journal is made available to you through the ATLAS collection with permission from the copyright holder(s). The copyright holder for an entire issue of a journal typically is the journal owner, who also may own the copyright in each article. However, for certain articles, the author of the article may maintain the copyright in the article. Please contact the copyright holder(s) to request permission to use an article or specific work for any use not covered by the fair use provisions of the copyright laws or covered by your respective ATLAS subscriber agreement. For information regarding the copyright holder(s), please refer to the copyright information in the journal, if available, or contact ATLA to request contact information for the copyright holder(s).

About ATLAS:

The ATLA Serials (ATLAS®) collection contains electronic versions of previously published religion and theology journals reproduced with permission. The ATLAS collection is owned and managed by the American Theological Library Association (ATLA) and received initial funding from Lilly Endowment Inc.

The design and final form of this electronic document is the property of the American Theological Library Association.