San Jose State Graduates Make High Percentage In San Francisco Teacher's Examination

Fourteen Other Colleges Enter Candidates

Comparing with sixteen other colleges in the Elementary Teachers Competitive Examination for the San Francisco Public Schools, San Jose State College showed itself in excellent condition in George A. Martin's eye. The figures are given below the Science, Military, and Languages branches.

Fourteen other colleges entered candidates. In each of the three branches here compared, San Jose was 100 percent, and in the last branch, 98 percent.

The reporting of examinations in three branches of the test is as follows:

Science, Mathematics, and Languages: 100 percent.

Military, Engineering, Agriculture, Forestry, Home Economics: 98 percent.

The report of the test shows that San Jose State College is in a very favorable position to make the best possible showing in the second test of the same examination to be given. The report shows that San Jose State College is in a very favorable position to make the best possible showing in the second test of the same examination to be given.
A Chronicle of Thrift Beer!

Two little kids had sold a quart of beer in a half hour. Then they ran to their father for funds to buy a gallon of beer. "A gallon of beer is a half-commerce," said the father. "You have already made half a commerce."

The MOVING FINGER

Just to fill up this column we have the verse of Oscar Khas, who is well known:

Leaves, leaves, falling leaves,
Of every kind and hue.
Of course, it's only natural
To think of family, friends, and health,
And to wonder what the future brings.

We hope that all of our readers will enjoy the moving finger, and that it will offer them some food for thought.

"Uptop in The Right"

Perhaps not a little of the charm that the stage holds for us is due to the music. The sounds of the orchestra enhance the effect of the scene, set the tone of the dialogue, and add to the general atmosphere of the play. At the time of their entrance, the orchestra should be in full swing, with a proper selection of music that will fit the mood of the scene. If the music is well played, the audience will feel that they are in a theater, and will become involved in the story being told.

A Book of Verses underhandedly

A ring of brass, a lute, a small flute, a violin, and a clarinet. The musicians were dressed in black and played with a great deal of energy. The audience was enthralled by the music and forgot the cold.

Another incident that has often been mentioned is the time when the crowd was asked to vote for one candidate. The audience was divided, and it seemed as if no one could make up their minds. But the candidate who was elected was the one who got the most votes, and the audience was pleased with the result.

The Sapphoites made an early return:

These were the days of the Sapphoites, who were known for their love of poetry and music. They would often meet in local taverns and sing songs together. The Sapphoites were a great influence on the culture of the time, and their legacy lives on to this day.

A New Day Dawns

The sun was rising, and the world was waking up. The city was alive with the sounds of people rushing to work, the birds singing, and the cars honking. It was a new day, and the future was bright.

WOMEN AND DAYS

I met a young woman who has the engine with a smile, and a heart as soft as down.

She was beautiful, and had a kind word for everyone she met. She was true to her word, and always put the needs of others before her own. She was a shining example of what it means to be a good person.

The morning brought a new day, filled with hope and promise. I knew that this woman would go on to do great things, and that she would always be a light in the world.

The Pageant of Differences

The pages of history are filled with stories of people who have struggled to overcome the differences that have been placed upon them. From the struggles of the Civil Rights Movement to the fight for women's rights, people have come together to demand equal treatment and opportunities.

Theatre of the Imagination

Theatre is a powerful tool for expression and communication. It allows us to explore the human condition, and to connect with others on a deep level. Through the power of theatre, we can inspire change and create a better world.

My sweetheart smokes 'em...

NOW, YOU know, Bob was raised in a tobacco country. He had worked in a tobacco factory, and he had heard him say all of them are just the same. He says there are a lot of pipes and things like that running through the mouth of the factories and sometimes they look different, but that the new cigarettes are made in all the same. He says they actually do in the factory, they clean the tobacco—reduce the moisture in them—and that the machine that they all use is called a "Drier."

"That's where the quality in the tobacco comes from, and they're quite a different story, too. Bob says some factories use ripe, white tobacco, while others use that dark tobacco as you get in Chesterfield. He knows tobacco and he tells us that it takes a good tobacco—suitable for smoking—to make a cigarette as good as Chesterfield."

"You know how it is when a piece of fruit tastes just right—not too sharp or too ripe or tangy—but just right and satisfying. Well, that's the way it is with Chesterfield—they just put too much down to the ground—they satisfy."

—And my sweetheart smokes 'em too!
Japanese-Manchuria Trouble Brings Comment

By ALFRED T. CHANDLER

Japanese and Chinese officials at Manchuria, as well as in the diplomatic world, are aware that the recent activities of the Japanese are likely to cause concern among the Chinese and Japanese. In particular, the question of the fate of the Chinese residents in Manchuria is of great concern.

The Japanese have said that they will not tolerate any interference with their activities in Manchuria. The Chinese, on the other hand, have expressed concern about the safety of their citizens in Manchuria and have raised the issue of their rights to be treated fairly and justly.

There is a growing awareness among the Chinese and Japanese that the situation in Manchuria could lead to further conflict and instability in the region. It is essential that both sides work towards resolving the issues peacefully and without resorting to violence.
