MEETINGS OF THE SPECIAL LIBRARIES ASSOCIATION, PASADENA, CAL.

The Special Libraries Association held an informal meeting during the Pasadena conference of the A. L. A. for the purpose of discussing some phases of special libraries. No set programme had been arranged owing to the fact that the annual meeting follows in September and this meeting was merely to give a chance for informal discussion to those present at the A. L. A. meetings who were interested in special library development.

In the absence of the officers the meeting was called to order by Mr S H. Ranck, librarian Public Library, Grand Rapids, and Mr. A. J. Small, state law librarian of Iowa, was elected president pro tempore and Mr. R. H. Johnston, librarian Bureau of Railway Economics, Washington, D. C., appointed secretary pro tempore.

Reading of the minutes was passed over. Mr. Ranck, as chairman of the Committee on the Municipal Year Book, which committee co-operates with similar committees of other bodies, presented his report which showed progress. It was resolved, on motion of secretary, seconded by Mr. F. R. Graves, librarian Mercantile Library, San Francisco, "That the Special Libraries Association has heard with interest the report of Mr. Ranck on the work of the committee on the proposed Municipal Year Book; that we endorse the work of this committee, recommend its continuance, and approve of the suggestion that the work be published and feel that details may safely be left to the committee in charge. We suggest, however, that in its first appearance the proposed Municipal Year Book be limited to such scope and detail as may encourage a publisher of standing to undertake the work of placing it on the market

At the request of the president Mr. F. W. Faxon, of the Boston Book Co., gave an interesting account of the work of the special libraries in Boston and an unofficial report of the winter meeting of the Massachusetts special libraries. Mr. Purd B. Wright, librarian Kansas City Public Library, described the growth of a special collection of works relating to the packing industry at his former charge at St. Joseph. Mr. R. A. Campbell, legislative reference librarian, State library, California, responded to a request for an account of the legislative reference work of the state library and the acting secretary outlined the work and methods of the recently established library of the Bureau of Railway Economics at Washington, D. C.

It was proposed by Miss Wilson, reference librarian at Denver Public Library, and seconded by Mr. Purd Wright that the secretary of the association be instructed to present the formal request of the association to the Municipal Journal and Engineer that it publish its index portion in press edition similar to the Engineering Index and the Technical Press Index.

The annual meeting will be held in New York City as announced in the May issue of Special Libraries, beginning September 25th.

The council of the A. L. A. passed favorably upon the request of the Special Libraries Association for affiliation with the A. L. A.

SOCIAL QUESTIONS OF TODAY.*

Selected Sources of Information Compiled by the Free Public Library, Newark,
New Jersey.

Many of the calls upon a library for information can be answered adequately only by using recently published pamphlets and leaflets. This statement applies especially to questions in the field of social science. A large number of organizations, established to investigate or to improve certain existing social conditions, issue single sheets, booklets and pamphlets, individually and in series, which libraries find of great value. State and city governments, colleges and universities, and other private and public institutions also issue pamphlets on social affairs, many of which are of great interest and value, especially when first published.

The list which follows gives the names and addresses of a few of the many organizations which issue material of the kinds mentioned. In compiling the list we have tried to select the sources which are more suggestive, thinking that the librarian may be reminded when consulting it of other sources and other topics of interest. Many of the organizations listed send their publications free of charge.

Many of the international and national congresses meeting in 1911 will publish valuable material. These congresses are not mentioned here, as this list is limited to publications which have been seen by the compilers.

The index of subjects covered by the publications of the societies here listed is placed first. Following this is the list of societies selected in alphabetical order and numbered. Each topic in the first list is followed by one or more numbers. These numbers refer to those societies, in the second list, which publish material on the topic named in the first list.

It has, of course, been impossible to include all the U. S. and State departments that publish valuable information.

In the field of social science alone this list could have been made much larger. For present purposes it was thought wise to make it brief. Similar lists could be compiled for other fields of knowledge and activity. Perhaps this present list will serve as a suggestion to others who may be able to carry the work further.

The Newark library is filing the publications of the societies named in this list, and much other kindred material from societies not here named and from other sources, in a vertical file, arranging it all alphabetically by the subjects of which it treats.

The files of the Library of the New York School of Philanthropy, United Charities Building, New York, and the List of National Organizations for Civic and Social Betterment, compiled by Mr. A. W. MacDougall, secretary of the Bureau of Associated Charities, 13 Central Ave., Newark, N. J., have afforded valuable suggestions to the compilers of this list. Inquiries addressed to either of these organizations or to Clark University, Worcester, Mass., which has a very large collection of material on social service work of all kinds; or to The Survey, 105 East 22d street, N. Y., a journal which contains valuable discussions on social questions, would surely meet with helpful replies.

In the Wisconsin Library Bulletin, Madison, Jan.-Feb., 1911, is a list of "Sociological Material, free or easily obtainable," which will be found very useful. It contains references to the latest literature on about 75 topics of current interest.

LIST OF REFERENCES ON STREET RAILWAY SERVICE.

(By Robert H. Whitten, Librarian-Statistician, New York State Public Service Commission, First District)

Recent laws require street railway companies to render "adequate service" and make it the duty of a state or municipal commission to see that the companies live up to this requirement. The question as to what constitutes "adequate service" and how adequate service may be most effectively enforced has therefore assumed great importance. The following list includes the more important material on the subject in the library of the New York State Public Service Commission for the First District. Particular attention is called to the pioneer report of the Merchants Association of New York City, to the investigation of Milwaukee service by the Wisconsin Railroad Commission, to the report on Pittsburgh by Elton J. Arnold, to the report on Philadelphia by Ford, Bacon and Davis, to the 1910 report of the committee on schedules and time tables of the American Electric Railway Association and to the adequate service orders adopted by the New York

COURT DECISIONS OF INTEREST.

Automobile, Speed of. Rate of speed of an automobile on a highway is a matter of which the people generally in this country have some knowledge. Where the rate of speed of such a vehicle is material in action, any person of ordinary ability and means of observation who may have observed the vehicle, may give his testimony as to the rate of speed at which it was moving. Miller v. Jeuness, 84 Kansas 608.

Billboards The Illinois law of 1909 prohibiting billboard structures within 500 feet of any public park or boulevard in cities of over 100,000 was declared unconstitutional in Haller Sign Co. vs. Physical Culture Training School, 94 N. E. R. 921. Unreasonable attempt to limit proper uses of private property.

Cities—Commission Government. The Kentucky law was upheld against the attack that it was special legislation and a violation of the separation of powers Bryan vs Voss, 136 S. W. R. 884

Elections—Non partisan ballot. The Montana law requiring non-partisan ballots for judges was declared unconstitutional in State vs. O'Leary, 115 Pac. R. 204. Defective in its application, defective title, infringes right of elector to nominate candidates.

Health—Pollution of streams. In the case of Town of Shelby vs. Cleveland Mill and Power Co., the right to prohibit a company from discharging raw sewage into a stream from which a public drinking supply is taken was upheld in 71 S. E. R. 218. Legislature has right to declare such pollution a public nuisance.

Intoxicating liquors. The Alabama prohibition law and its provision that places where intoxicating liquors are sold are a nuisance and may be abated was upheld in Fulton vs. State, 54 S. R. 688, decided Feb. 16, 1911.

Intoxicating liquor—Prohibition. The Georgia prohibition law was upheld in Cureton vs. State, Feb 14, 1911, 70 S. E. R. 332.

Labor—Eight hour day. The supreme court of Massachusetts decided adversely on the proposal of the legislature to limit hours of labor to eight per day. In re opinion of justices, 94 N. E. R. 1044. Denies freedom of contract.

Labor strikes—False representation. The Illinois law making it unlawful to misrepresent to employes as to the existence of a strike, or to hire armed protection of property without the consent of the governor, was declared unconstitutional in Josma vs Western Steel Car and Foundry Co., 94 N. E. R. 945. Puts a different measure of liability on one class of employes. Classification not reasonable.

Railroad commissions. The Arkansas railroad commission law was upheld in St. L. I. M. & S. R. R Co. vs. State, 136 S. W. R. 938. The right of the commission to order a spur track was attacked. The court held that the state has a right to require adequate facilities and clothe commissions and administrative bodies with necessary powers to secure it.

Taxation—Uniformity. The Massachusetts legislature proposed to levy a tax on personal property for state purposes and leave realty to be taxed for local purposes. The question was submitted to the supreme court and was decided adversely as being disproportional taxation. In re opinion of Justices, 94 N. E. R. 1043.

Teachers' pensions. The deducting of a per cent. from teachers' salaries for the retirement fund was upheld in Allen vs. Board of Education of Passaic, 79 Atl. R. 101

Trading stamps. Right to levy a license tax on business of selling trading stamps or redeeming such stamps, according to a West Virginia law, was upheld in Sperry, Hutchinson Co. vs. Milton, 71, S. E. R. 19.

NEBRASKA LEGISLATIVE REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The Nebraska Legislature of 1911 passed an act providing an organization for the Nebraska Legislative Reference Bureau, under the board of regents of the State University and affiliated with the college of law and the department of political science and sociology in the university. The bureau is to occupy rooms on the University campus. During sessions of the legislature it will occupy quarters in the State House, about a mile distant from the university. Provision was made for a permanent working staff of three persons and about $11,000 was appropriated for the next two years.
