Under the leadership of Carl Palmer, Dick Sanders, and Dario Simoni, the dance promises to be one of the best since depression set in on the country. Aside from Paul Cox's orchestra and colorful decorations, a novel feature will be introduced for the first time into one of our dances. "Swede's Country Store." Prizes are rolling in from every store around town, we are told by those in charge.

Dick Glycer will furnish some pep and wit as master salesman of the country store. With every bid is a chance to win some quality prize. Tickets are going fast. Get yours before sale closes.

Twenty Girls Initiated Into Home-Making Club

Twenty girls were initiated Monday evening into the Home-Making Club. The initiation took place at an impressive candle-light service.

Five members of the faculty were taken in as associate members. They were Mrs. Dowdle, Miss Fee, Miss Lonkey, Miss Temple, and Miss Thomas.

Ceremonies for the initiations were written by Erna Epperson and Katherine Hooker. Others participating in the ceremony were President Ollie Bishop, Vice President Bertha Florian; Secretary-Treasurer Lucille Christensen, Thelma McKnight, Adele Schwallie, and Ermina Selby.

The initiation was followed by the regular business meeting, with the newly elected officers officiating.

Y. W. Will Give Annual Dinner Friday in Schofield Hall

Friday the City Y. W. C. A. are holding its annual banquet at Schofield Hall. There will be a special table for college girls who are members of the Y. W. C. A. All members are urged to go, and the tickets will be only 35 cents.

The girls from the college are furnishing the music for the program, and as their part of the program are presenting Mrs. J. J. Miller, who will give a reminiscence of the College Y. W. C. A. Mrs. Miller graduated from San Jose College in 1899, and has many interesting things to tell of past college life from many of her own experiences.

Student Auctions Self To Pay College Expenses

Believing that he cannot work his way through and still get full value out of his studies, a junior college student placed himself on the auction block, offering five years of his after-college services for the $3000 he needs to pay his expenses through the University of Texas.

The offer was made through the quasi-anonymity of the initials M. J. B. He is a twenty-one year old student at Texarkana Junior College, a member of the student council and a football player—all in spite of the fact he is making his own living. His ambitions are legal ones, and he said he had carefully thought out the idea of selling himself. Next June he will graduate from Junior College.

Filice Named Capt. of Baseball Team

At an election held last Wednesday afternoon at Spartan Field, Sammy Filice, scrappy third sacker of the local Spartan swap brigade, was again chosen to head Spartan's varsity baseball team. This is the second season Filice has been so honored, Sammy being the captain of last year's victorious nine. He also led the team in hitting, although the great Harry Hardiman swears "it shall not be done again!"

Spartans To Open Conference Schedule With Pacific Tigers In Stockton Gym This Evening

Stockton College Installed as Pre-Game Favorite Over Local Squad

By Adam Vagts

Memories of last football season will be recalled to mind when students of San Jose State College become Pacific minded, and take the long trail over to the Tiger lair to watch the opening game of the Far Western Conference between the two rival basketball varsities.

It is nothing new for the Spartans to take the floor classed as the underdog, and such will be the case this evening due to comparative scores based on the games played by the two schools against the Athens Club of Oakland. Pacific snowed the clubmen under by a 40 to 27 count, while the Spartans were in turn nosed out by the Athenians in an extra five minute period by a close score.

Pacific will start a fast, heavy team against the locals, which will average 180 lbs. a man and six feet two in height. Captain Odale is playing his fourth year for the home team and is remembered for his hard play. McCain, a forward, is a snifty floor man and a dangerous shot, while the Spartans will also have to watch Russell, who comes up from guard position to sink shots from mid-court. Schiffman and Bainbridge round out the remainder of the starting line-up for Pacific.

Coach McDonald, who scouted the St. Mary's-Pacific game Saturday night and saw the Tigers take a 20-point pasting from the Galloping Gaels, give his boys an even chance to win. "Mac" will probably start the same line-up that scored 13 points in the first five minutes against the Athens Club, composed of Captain Countryman and Rea at forwards, Mathieson at center, George and Liebrandt at guards. Downs, Tueller, Hague, Concannon, forwards, and Francis, Gibson, Marshall, and Jackson, guards, will also make the trip.

With Pacific determined to avenge their 7 to 0 defeat in football and the Spartans fighting with equal determination for a foothold on the first rung of the Far Western Conference ladder, it is certain that the capacity crowd expected, will see a spectacular game with thrills for all.

Probable line-up:

San Jose		Pacific
Countryman	F	Schiffman
Rea	F	McCain
Mathieson	C	Odale
George	G	Russell
Liebrandt	G	Bainbridge

ROAMIN' GREEK NOTICE

There will be a meeting at 7:30, Thursday, January 19th, at the home of Maurine Thompson, 55 South 6th Street, Apartment 115.

Freshmen Luncheon Club Will Meet Tomorrow at Noon in Room 1

Thursday the Freshman Luncheon Club will meet in Room 1 of the Home-Making building, from twelve to one o'clock.

The program is being given by three freshman girls on the campus who are students from Hawaii. It is "A Day in Hawaii." Many people have not as yet had an opportunity to see the native land of these girls, and Thursday is your closest and best chance. It will be very interesting as well as entertaining.

At this time the girls will also choose committees for the party the freshman girls are planning.

Men's Rooting Section at Athens A. C. Game Was New Creation

Let's give the yell leaders a big hand! That men's rooting section at the Athens Club game was certainly a knockout. Howie Burns and his capable assistant, Frankie Crawford, decided, after a deep and lengthy consultation, to try something that has long been talked of but never attempted with any degree of success.

And when the men got together (and nary a female was in sight) there was a mighty roar, and we mustn't forget that it was accompanied by a very vociferous bell-ringer.

We must give our diminutive and versatile yell leaders due credit for inaugurating something new and putting it over.

And, you men, keep up the good work! If you have a "fem" that you simply must drag along, and you really want to sit in the masculine rooting section, but you don't know what to do with her, see Mr. Burns and Mr. Crawford. Perhaps you can persuade them to introduce a section for the ladies only. What do you say to that, you yell-leaders.

All Students Interested in Verse Choir Will Meet Today

Today at 12:30 there will be a meeting of all those interested in the formation of a new Verse Speaking Choir. Last year this organization traveled throughout the southern part of the State, where they met with huge success and advertised San Jose State very favorably. Anyone who desires to learn about it, and formulate plans for the reorganization is asked to meet in Room 165 of the Art wing. Miss Jenks and other members of the Speech Arts department, will be there to discuss plans with the students.

Student Body Meet Honors Football Men

Twenty-Eight Men Are To Be Awarded On Thursday

Coach Dud DeGroot will present 28 members of the football team with gold footballs at the first general assembly of the quarter to be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in the Morris Dailey auditorium. All classes will be excused to attend the meeting.

Not only will the football men be presented with gold footballs, but 29 blocks will be awarded to as many awardees, and sweaters will be given to 11 men. Coach McDonald will introduce the varsity basketball team to the assembled student body.

Under the direction of Don Madsen, newly-elected music representative, a brief program will follow the introduction of the two athletics teams. The band will play several numbers throughout the assembly, and the meeting will be presided over by Student Body President Leon Warmke.

It is to be particularly noted that all classes will be excused in order to attend. Freshmen are requested to take their regular orientation seats on the lower floor, and seniors are asked to take seats in the balcony. Sophomores and juniors will be permitted to range themselves as they will behind the freshmen and senior groups.

University Tests Prove That College Smokers Have High Intelligence

According to a test of the Creighton University students who smoke had their inning when it was shown that as a class they were better scholastically than the non-smokers.

Moreover, Dr. Thomas L. Houlton of the university medical school upheld the findings, with the following statement: "Moderate smoking tends to make a student more composed and aids him in application to his work and concentration on difficult problems."

The survey results showed that 14 per cent of the students, classified as moderate smokers, not indulging more than five times a day, had a general average of 85.4 for the first quarter of the school year.

The heavy smokers numbered 55 per cent, and their average was 83.9, while the "abstainers" trailed with 82.4.

Cornell To Abandon All Inter-collegiate Sports

Cornell's Athletic Council voted to abandon all intercollegiate competition, except basketball, for the balance of the school year, including participation in the Poughkeepsie regatta of the Inter-collegiate Rowing Association.

Editorial Comment

The College Times needs communications from members of the Student Body, other than the staff. Often one hears refutations to various features voiced about the campus, but seldom are any of these arguments written and handed into the Times. It is the policy of the paper to publish any side of any question, provided they are signed, when space permits it.

If anyone wishes to express his or her opinions, we would like to have them written legibly and deposited in the top drawer of the copy desk in the office at the Spartan Union.

A special communication column is kept up specifically for outsiders, and it is the sincere hope of the present staff that more interest will be shown in criticism of the paper itself, or any other items of irritation round and about the campus.

Much comment has circulated through the male student of the College concerning stags at our Student Body Dances. The problem is really quite serious. It has become so that it is practically impossible to enjoy one's self with the girl friend without some unprincipled misbegotten son of Allah attempting to cut in. This in itself would not be so bad, but the trouble is that these demons quite often succeed in their purpose. Having had their dance they become mixed in with the throng of battling warriors and it is well nigh hopeless to find the girl friend after one of these ill-bred wolves has brought her back, somewhat worn, toes-stepped-on, but nevertheless still the girl friend.

The stag-line is also a nuisance as a whole as well as by the individual. They slowly force their frontier farther and farther onto the dance floor until they capture the direct center, then one must circle around them like a Maypole. It is most annoying. Tag dances are their meat. To the rest of us they are abomination. They cut in during a tag with all the audacity of a brass monkey and act as though they are doing a favor. Some have informed me that they invariably get more dances as stags than when they bring the girl friend. Such a situation is radically unjust. My plea is, "away with stags and tags!" There are two ways to solve the problem. One is to rule them out altogether, which is too beautiful a thought to be possible, and the other is to inveigle more members of the fair sex into coming unescorted so as to use up this excess traffic.

As a last resort, open rebellion might be in order.

HORIZONS

—Of Sense and Nonsense—

There's only one thing worse than having people say things about you and that's not having people say things about you so we can inform everyone that we have every reason to believe Dick Glycer dies that shall-we-say, moustache (?).

We've been riding Glycer, (I mean his moustache) too much lately, but I still can't help wondering what would happen to it should the wearer be suddenly seized with a bad cold.

On the subject of colds, if we could match up the male and female nose sniffings on the campus, it might furnish some good stuff for a dirt column.

And still I sigh at the mention of Dirt Columns. Philosophically speaking, they do not exist. No one ever admits reading them, know one ever confesses he enjoys being in one, know one ever confirms the truth of what is printed, and certainly no one can ever find the person who has written them.

All they talk about, write about, and read about today is technocracy, technocracy and technocracy.

They laughed when Einstein asked, "Was ist das?"—but so far no one has given him an answer, when they do we can laugh some more.

He who laughs last is usually English.

He who doesn't laugh at all has a sense of humor.

Cigarette Butts

Hello, fellows!

Suppose you were married (which I hope you were not dumb enough to be one) and had a son, would you send him to a college or a university? Would you gladly sacrifice all your worldly possessions and pleasures to see him through four or five years till coveted sheepskin is obtained as an everlasting testimony of his superior education?

With these weighty questions in mind, I once again sought the majestic retreat of the bull pens for opinions. Perhaps, some of might wonder why I often allude to the bull pen. The reason is perfectly simple. It's there that I always find the solution of many problems, not only about myself, but also of the multitude perplexities of life; it being the retreat of unlimited lore. Befitting the dignity of its location, its graced by the presence of college brains from all walks of wisdom where they discuss daily (except Sundays and holidays) the numerous problems of humanity.

I sprang the question to a close friend of mine, whose identity I'll not divulge today; and the astounding responses he gave me are, I'm sure, would interest some of you, especially those who are prospective fathers and mothers.

"No!" thundered my friend to me, "I'll not send my son to college unless fired with an unquenchable ambition to be a physician, a lawyer, or an engineer, which, at present, he could satisfy only by obtaining a degree." I confess I did not really expect such an answer from him, he, whom I have always thought to be an ardent supporter and believer of higher education. As both my interest and curiosity were aroused to a point I no longer could conceal, I asked him the reasons for such an emphatic and brutal remark.

"Nearly all our colleges and universities," he retorted with renewed vigor, "are mere sheepskin dispensaries preparing students for active participation in a world dominated by a philosophy of materialism which has already produced more human misery than all the illiteracy of ages." He paused for a few minutes and added, "The real American tragedy is the hideous inhumanity of our great universities and colleges, an inhumanity which is neither completely understood by educators nor resented by the majority of students. Popular education, as it was long supposed, would add to the sum of human happiness. Has it? Are we not superficially educating ourselves to a point where the enjoyment of simple vital beauties and truths is impossible? Are we not stuffing our minds with an excess of indigestible facts and theories, while our souls are starving for a little peace?" He was about to say more, but he yell suddenly rang and before I could recover from my bewilderment, he was gone.

Tea and Wafers with the Duchess.

"Lord Reginald," smiled the duchess, as she balanced a piece of butter on her knife, "you'd better watch out for your reputation. They're beginnig to refer to you as a social lion."

Lord Reginald leaned back in his chair and sighed languidly, "Duchess," he smirked, "I'd rather be a lion than a leopard—because a leopard can't change his spots."

As the Duchess roared with laughter, a crowd of chorus girls in green tights danced out, and the second act was over. (Pretty cheesy, I'd say.)

Note on Column Control

A paperal bull has been issued by the editorial staff of this Christian journal, which suggests a strict system of column regulation. Columnists are to be slightly limited in the future, and they are to peddle their groceries in definite days. This means a radical change in the promiscuous columny that has been prevalent in the past. Which indicates that the Feature page is to be taken out for a bit of Ayre-ing. (That last one is probably a little heavy for you folks who don't know who the Feature Editor is.)

The Billiken

Not the least remarkable of the courses offered to the students of this institution are Art I and Music I—Art Appreciation and Music Appreciation. The starry reader of the college catalogue discovers that by appearing promptly for class each Tuesday and Thursday at nine for a quarter, he will "establish a basis for judgment and good taste."

This is marvelous; another miracle of modern education; twelve weeks of barely perceptible study, one may gain good taste in Art and understanding in Music! It is really unfortunate that no such results are being obtained. But it is easy to understand why they are not.

The instructor, however, wisely avoids difficulty by contenting himself with explaining and demonstrating to the students the sundry devices used by artists to obtain their effects. Works of art are vivisectioned, and their parts neatly labeled and filed. A corresponding course in the Appreciation of Literature might concern itself with Shakespeare's use of the verb "to be," or Earnest Hemingway's handling of the dependent clause.

If these courses were methodless, however, we should be bothered to single them out for special attention. Unfortunately they have a particularly pernicious effect, for they tend to increase the number of steely-eyed individuals who attend art exhibitions and concerts grudgingly determined to impress their culture upon everyone within earshot. With eager frenzy they memorize information from the catalogue program, insert several technical phrases, regardless of appropriateness, and glibly recite the resultant jargon with a slightly superior air. These persons are invariably accompanied by a comrade of the same sort, who—surely you know the type as well as I. With the college graduate out more of these creatures each quarter, our only hope is an increasing death rate.

Eminent Economics Professor at Chicago University Marks Failure of College To Influence Graduates

"Colleges have been almost completely ineffectual in influencing their own graduates or the general current of American life," stated Dr. Paul H. Douglas, economics professor at the University of Chicago, in a speech given at the nineteenth annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges.

According to Dr. Carlton J. H. Hayes of Columbia University, higher education has failed just a little less than democracy, the United States, and the world. Nevertheless, Dr. Douglas and Dr. Hayes believe there is still hope for the future for college usefulness provided that there is a further development of self-knowledge and that the main purpose be the making of cultural men who can carry major achievements and interests in addition to their own professions.

ILLUSION: One of Houdini's most spectacular escape feats was performed with a huge milk can filled with water. He invited persons of the audience to bring padlocks and lock him into the can. He got into the can, the lid was put on and fastened with several padlocks. A screen was placed in front of the can. Assistants stood by with stop watches and fire axes to save him from drowning after a certain time. About a minute later, the screen was removed, Houdini was seen panting and dripping...the padlocks remaining intact!

EXPLANATION: The usual method of escaping from a milk can is as follows: The lid of the can is apparently securely padlocked to the lower portion, but actually the metal band to which the staples are attached is the top of a short inner lining. The performer, after being locked into the can, pushes the lid upward with his head and the short inner lining is forced out of place, permitting his escape. The screen is then removed.

What exciting magic there is in cigarette advertising!

Let's look at one of its greatest illusions...that cigarettes can be mysteriously given superior "FLAVOR."

THE EXPLANATION: Just three factors control the flavor of a cigarette. The addition of artificial flavoring...the blending of various tobaccos...and the quality of the tobaccos themselves. Quality is the most important. Artificial flavoring can never wholly disguise the poor flavor of cheap tobaccos.

The blending of several cheap, raw tobaccos cannot improve the flavor of any of them. A fine cigarette is a cigarette blended from costly, ripe tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is why the Camel flavor has never been rivaled... why Camels have given more pleasure to more people than any other cigarette ever made.

In more costly tobaccos lies the secret of Camels' delicate "bouquet"...of their rich, cool flavor—of their non-irritating mildness. It's the tobacco that counts.

Pacific Schedules Grid Contest With S. F. U. Dons for '33

Tigers To Meet S. F. Team
In Seal Stadium on Night of Sept. 29

Not to be outdone by their Far Western Conference opponents, San Jose State, in that little matter of scheduling "Big Time" football opposition, the College of Pacific Tigers have for the second consecutive year signed a game with a team that moves in the more elite circles. During the season recently concluded, the Stockton lads encountered the University of Santa Clara Varsity in Kezar Stadium. Next season will find the Tigers, under a coach who is as yet un-named, doing battle with Spud Lewis' University of San Francisco Dons.

This game was signed last week and will be a night contest to be held in the Seal Stadium. Pacific will have a slight advantage here as the Dons have never played under lights, while the Stockton lads play the greater portion of their games beneath the ares.

The game will be the first meeting between the two schools since the San Francisco, then St. Ignatius, withdrew from the Far Western Conference several years ago.

The rest of Pacific's schedule is rapidly rounding into shape. The Tigers will meet all five Conference teams, including the University of Nevada, whom they did not encounter in the season just passed.

The Tigers will play two home-coming days, one in Reno and the other in Fresno. In addition they will provide the opposition at the opening of our new stadium here in San Jose on the fourteenth of October.

Only one main date remains to be filled on the schedule. That is the opening engagement, September 23. A possibility exists that the Navy will be met at San Diego but if the current plans of the gobs to follow the West Coast Army's lead and abandon football for 1933 go through, the officials of the Stockton school will be forced to look elsewhere for opposition.

October sixth finds Pacific playing their annual contest with Modesto in Modesto. The following week they will journey to San Jose. Seven days later the Tigers will board a rattler for Reno. October 28 finds the Bengals playing their first home game. Chico is going to furnish the opposition. The Cal. Aggies play to the Pacific's home-coming crowd the following Saturday. The Fresno game is slated for Thanksgiving Day, and the two intervening Saturdays will be kept open, but opponents are not vitally necessary.

We expect to get asphyxiated any time now if some instructors don't break down pretty soon and open a few windows. It may be cold outside, but State's furnace is functioning very nicely, and there really isn't any excuse for tightly sealed class rooms filled with over 50 students.

Captain

Captain Norm Countryman who will lead his Spartan cagers into their first Conference game of the season tonight when they meet Pacific's Bengal Tigers.

Olympic Club and S.F.U. To Meet Fresno State In Track Meets

To date Flint Hanner, ambitious coach of the Fresno State track team, has succeeded in lining up five meets for his cohorts of the cinder path, with the possibility of two more being arranged for in the very near future. His latest negotiations resulted in the placing of both the Olympic Club and the University of San Francisco on the Bulldog schedule. Charlie Hunter, who coaches both of these aggregations, agreed that one of the meets should be held in Fresno and the other in San Francisco. The dates are as yet only tentative, with April 1 being set for the Olympic Club, and April 9 for U. S. F.

Other meets definitely settled on include San Jose State on April 15, the Superior California Relays at Sacramento on April 25, and the Far Western Conference meet at Sacramento on May 6.

The other schools with which Hanner has opened negotiations are Stanford and Occidental. Definite announcements concerning these arrangements are expected in the near future.

Attempts to schedule the Uni-

The State varsity baseball team will open their 1933 season this afternoon at 4:00 o'clock with a game with Olmstead's All-Stars. The game will be at the Spartan Field diamond, at the end of 8th street. This is the first game for Coach Bill Hubbard's nine, and the starting line-up is not known as yet.

Inter-Mural Cage Tourney To Start Tomorrow Evening

Play Will Be Conducted In
Two Leagues; Seniors
Favored To Win

Now that the dust has settled after the final work on the Intramural basketball tournament, and the schedule has been decided upon, we find that this year's tourney will be even bigger than the last one. There are twenty teams signed up, and as they are divided into two leagues it necessitates ten teams in each league. This calls for nine games per team not counting the play-off: Due to the schedule running right up into the last weeks of this quarter, there will be but a one game play-off. The teams and the schedule will be found posted in the men's locker room.

Coach Walker brings up an eligibility rule concerning the class a player actually belongs in. Some may be signed in a Sophomore team, for example, and they are registered as Freshmen in the Registrar's office. These individuals will be transferred to their proper class.

Some of the rules for the tournament are as follows: A team must have five men on the court, attired in rubber-soled shoes, trunks, and uppers, within five minutes after the time scheduled or they will forfeit the game. If both teams fail to appear both will be registered with forfeiture.

All games will be played cross-court. They will consist of four eight minute periods, with one minute between quarters, and ten minutes between halves. Officials will be supplied by the Phy. Ed. Majors. They are listed and are assigned to each game. Any official who finds he is unable to appear at the game assigned him should see Coach Walker, Bob Elliot, or Jack Mengel.

This year all men who have not paid their towel fee and have no locker, will be asked to bring their own towel, and they may use the empty lockers in the men's locker room. However, nothing must be left in the lockers after the game.

And we might also add that the faculty has included themselves in the schedule by entering a team made up of "Mac" McDonald, Charlie Walker, Irwin Blesh, Bill Hubbard, and Al Schmolt.

Thursday's schedule is as follows:

For the Spartan league on the North court:
Junior A vs. Frosh J, 7 p. m.
Ref. Hague.
Soph D vs. Frosh D, 8 p. m.

Coach H. C. McDonald, whose varsity cage team enters its fifth season of Far Western Conference competition tonight against College of Pacific Tiger.

This year all men who have not paid their towel fee and have no locker, will be asked to bring their own towel, and they may use the empty lockers in the men's locker room. However, nothing must be left in the lockers after the game.

Spartan Spasms

By Murdock and Bishop

Well tonight finds a Spartan athletic team invading the lair of the Bengal Tiger for the first time since that memorable football fracas in Bater Stadium last October. By virtue of comparative scores through the medium of the Athens Club, the location of this evening's fray in about the same position as did the DeGroot's football team. Maybe the result will be the same. We hope so.

Tonight's game brings back memories of the first Pacific game a year ago. It was the opening contest in the new stadium and the Spartans had to come from behind to win, 25-21.

Fresno State and the College of Pacific indulged in an ice hockey game in Yosemite on the past week-end, but the results are not as yet obtainable. The teams from both schools were made up for the most part of men who had some experience in the sport.

Flint Hanner was in charge of the Fresno outfit, which consisted of Messrs. Jack Horton, Neil Wade, Bing Ness, John Cooper, Melvin Atteson, and Lawrence Brasted.

Carrying the orange and blue of Pacific were Farina, Queen, Brown, Randall, Chress, Eakes, Hoyt, and Strimling. Just where Mr. McQueen gained his ice-hockey experience is quite clear, as he is supposed to hail from the Hawaiian Islands where, we understand, the sport is quite rare, if not totally known.

In spite of the failure of the United States Lawn Tennis Association to rank Mrs. H. Wills Moody, California did not lose prestige as a tennis state in the new ranking. With Elsworth Vines, Lester Stofen, and Gledhill ranking first, sixth, and eighth, respectively, in the men's doubles; and Bob Jacobs, Mrs. L. A. Harper, Caroline Babcock, Josephine Cran-shank, and Alice Marble, second, third, fifth, and seventh in the women's singles, San California more than held its own.

Jack Horner, hard driving fullback, will captain next season's Fresno State football team. Spartans will meet this before next football season however, as he is a quarter miler on Flint Hanner's team. He succeeds Wall Gledhill as football captain.

Last year at the Fresno Relays we saw the best high school hurdler it has ever been a pleasure to watch. His name was Jack Ward and he was competing for Selma High School. That day he loafed in to win the high in 15.4. Later he won the State meet at 15 flat. Now he is going to Fresno State and will be an important cog in the Frosh team. Keep your eyes on this lad. He's good!

Adding strength to Fresno State's already powerful team is Darrel White, a transfer from Modesto J. C. This lad has thrown the shot 45 feet almost this year, and he can also throw the javelin some 190 odd feet.
