1991 CONFERENCE SITE - Riverside, California

The 1200 acre campus of the University of California at Riverside lies at the base of the Box Springs Mountains on the eastern edge of the city of Riverside. It is approximately twenty minutes from the Ontario Airport, and an hour's drive from Southern California deserts, mountains, and beaches.

The University of California, Riverside, was established in 1907 as a Citrus Experiment Station by an act of the legislature. In 1954, the College of Letters and Sciences opened for classes. In 1959, UCR became a general campus with graduate and professional studies, as well as liberal arts. From its inception, the campus has grown to its present size of more than 8,000 students, and 580 faculty and research positions. Enrollments are projected to exceed 22,000 by the year 2005. UCR is the site of the UC consortium on Mexico and the United States (UC MEXUS), and houses the Tomás Rivera Archives. It was the first major research institution and the only UC campus to have a Chicano as Chancellor. UC Riverside enjoys a reputation for providing the traditional academic excellence of the University of California, while affording students easy access to top-notch faculty.

At the heart of the Inland Empire, Riverside is located in the Santa Ana River Valley, approximately 60 miles east of Los Angeles and 100 miles north of San Diego. As the county seat, Riverside, and the surrounding area, has become one of the fastest growing cities in the United States. The population of the Riverside metropolitan area now exceeds 300,000.

CONFERENCE THEME

The NACS XIX Site Committee is pleased to announce the preliminary plans for the 1991 conference. The conference will be held at the Holiday Inn on University Avenue from March 27 through March 30, 1991. The title for the NACS XIX Conference is: "YOUTH, CHICANAS, AND COMMUNITY: EXPOSING THE CONTRADICTIONS IN CHICANO STUDIES." In keeping with NACS tradition, the conference theme as well as all other conference planning is the responsibility of the local conference site committee. If anyone needs any further information, please contact Dr. Alfredo Mirandé, the 1991 Conference Coordinator, or his assistant, Eufemia Reyes Moore, at (714) 787-4577, University of California, Riverside, Ethnic Studies Program, Riverside, CA 92521.

CALL FOR PAPERS

NACS XIX will be hosted by the University of California, Riverside. The theme of the conference is Youth, Chicanas, and Community: Exposing the Contradictions in Chicano Studies. The National Association for Chicano Studies was established as an alternative to traditional professional associations. Its intent was to: (1) incorporate the disenfranchised into academia, (2) foster the development of alternative paradigms, and, (3) promote activist research and critical thought. To what extent has NACS been successful in attaining its initial goals? Have women and gender issues been incorporated into NACS? To what extent do students have a meaningful voice in NACS? Is the Association in touch with the Chicano community? In short, is NACS a viable alternative, or is it simply a male dominated, elitist professional association?

The theme sets the tone for the conference, but it is flexible and not intended to be restrictive in any sense. Papers addressing any aspect of the Chicano experience are encouraged.

The Site Committee for the 1991 NACS Conference is soliciting proposals for individual presentations and/or panels. The deadline for submission of abstracts and proposed panels is November 1, 1990. A 100-200 word abstract should be submitted to:

Eufemia Reyes Moore
 Ethnic Studies Program
 University of California
 Riverside, CA 92521

If you are organizing a panel, it is your responsibility to insure that the names, institutional affiliation, and complete abstract for each participant is submitted no later than November 1, 1990.

NACS 18 WRAP UP

The NACS 18 Site Committee at the University of New Mexico wishes to thank all of you who attended the conference and who helped make it such a success. After we recovered we realized we had had a wonderful time. Thank you for your enthusiasm, your energy, and your patience. Also thank you for your nice letters. Special thanks are due the UNM students who helped so enthusiastically at registration, taking tickets and dancing the lambada at the dance. Come back soon to Nuevo Méjico.

2. Let it be resolved that the National Association for Chicano Studies will strongly continue to support the Coors Boycott.

Let it be further resolved that individual members of NACS and local Focos will use all available opportunities to educate members of our communities about the reasons for the Coors Boycott.

POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE REPORT

PAC Chair: Estevan Flores

The Political Action Committee (PAC) presented two specific proposals to the regional bodies and to NACS. Both proposals were discussed at the business meeting and were overwhelmingly supported and passed.

I. First proposal: "Chicanos and U.S.-Mexico Relations."

The first recommendation called for the creation of a subcommittee on "CHICANOS AND U.S.-MEXICO RELATIONS."

1. RATIONALE:

A) Historically, many NACS members have participated in programs sponsored by the Mexican government (e.g., Becas de Aztlán), Mexican academic institutions (conferences with Chicanos at UNAM and COLEF) and various political organizations (the PRI, the PRD, Punto Critico, etc.).

B) Currently, the Mexican government has funded two projects to better relate to the Mexican origin people in the U.S. The first project focuses on Chicanos with consular offices in Los Angeles, Chicago and San Antonio. Dr. Roger Díaz de Cossio is the Director. He briefly addressed NACS 18 at the luncheon.

C) Given the growing political force of Chicanos in the U.S. (although we still have a long, long way to go) and the role that Mexico, via Salinas' administration, envisions for Chicanos, that is, playing a role as a lobbying force for Mexico, it is imperative that we as a NATIONAL BODY begin to develop an understanding of our relationship with the Mexican people, its political organizations and its government. Unless we do this, other Latinos and "Hispanics" will quickly fill in as brokers for our community.

2. NACS RESPONSE: NACS 18 passed

A) The resolution establishing the subcommittee on Chicanos and U.S.- Mexico Relations. PAC Chair Estevan Flores secured the assistance of Andrés Jiménez, Vice Chair of the Chicano/Latino Policy Project (UC-Berkeley), to Chair this committee.

B) Andrés will enlist individuals to work on this project and do mail outs. Please write or call Andrés to join the subcommittee:

Andrés Jiménez
Chicano and U.S.-Mexico Relations Committee (NACS)
c/o Chicano/Latino Project (ISCC)
2410 Bowditch
Univ. of California
Berkeley, CA 94720
(415) 642-6903

3. IMPLEMENTATION:

A) Andrés will share the draft paper presented by Estevan Flores at NACS 18 and divide the paper into subtopics.

B) Committee members will then develop different sections of the drafts utilizing a framework sensitive to the intersections of race, class and gender. These drafts will be circulated to members and edited until finished products result.

C) At NACS 19 in Riverside, as passed by NACS, these papers and analysis will be presented in a PLENARY SESSION. This is the short-term project.

D) In the long run we see this committee as able to respond to the changing nature of the U.S.-Mexico relationship and issues such as IRCA. Note: All committee members MUST be NACS members.

II. Second Proposal: "Chicano Scholarship and the Community in the 1990s."

The second proposal passed by the NACS membership establishes a SPECIAL ISSUE of papers on "Chicano Scholarship and the Community in the 1990's."

1. RATIONALE: During the last three NACS conferences members have presented papers addressing the issue of community and scholarship. Yet, these works, both theoretical and practical, are unpublished. As we enter the 1990s, we, the NATIONAL BODY need to continue addressing our Preamble through these works.

What does it mean in the age of "Hispanic" brokering to be community centered scholars? What is the relationship between social action, research and theory? What cases are illustrative of such a mix? What or which theories best help us in our work? For example, does a theory utilizing the notion of organic intellectuals help us as Chicano scholars? Are feminist or gender theories useful for community change strategies? Which community concerns are issues for the '90s where research can be useful for social change?

2. NACS RESPONSE: NACS 18 passed

A) The resolution for the Special Issue. PAC Chair Estevan Flores secured the help of Teresa Córdova, Assistant Professor of Latin American Studies (UI-Chicago) who will Chair the Special Issue Committee.

B) Teresa will seek other scholars for the Special Issue Committee (e.g., Juan Gómez-Quñones, Rudy Acuña, Lourdes Argüelles and Chris Sierra). Interested persons should contact Teresa:

Professor Teresa Córdova
Latin American Studies
University of Illinois
Chicago, IL 60680
(312) 996-9144 - Office
(312) 421-0838 - Home

3. IMPLEMENTATION:

A) Teresa will issue a "call for papers." The call will include a 'Timetable' with deadlines for submissions and review.

B) The Special Issue Committee will set up a review process so that the special issue is refereed. The objective is to have the Special Issue ready in a timely fashion. Note: All committee members and submitters MUST be NACS members.

VOTING BALLOT FOR THE NATIONAL OFFICE

Background

The NACS National Coordinating Committee recently discussed the establishment of the National Office. Several members of the Coordinating Committee voiced concern over what seemed like a lack of formal resolution to debate and voting conducted during the March Business Meeting on matters dealing with the establishment of the National Office. During the proceedings at the Business Meeting of March 31, 1990, those in attendance voted to reject the recommendation of the Coordinating Committee to not locate at the University of California-Riverside.

After the Committee's recommendation was rejected by floor vote, there was no follow-up, formal motion from the floor for a resolution in favor of establishing the National Office at UC- Riverside. Thus, the membership did not formally endorse the Riverside location. Other members of the Coordinating Committee expressed concern that many individuals voting at the March Business Meeting were non-members, and thus violated the honor code of voting by formal members only.

After discussing these errors in parliamentary procedure, the Coordinating Committee voted in April to bring the matter of the National Office at UC-Riverside before the NACS membership for a formal ballot vote. Approval of a formal ballot procedure by the Coordinating Committee was based on a vote of 6 for and 3 against. The voting members of the Coordinating Committee include seven regional representatives, and the PAC and Chicana Caucus chairs.

We are therefore, requesting that each dues-paying member of the National Association for Chicano Studies take a few moments to complete and mail the enclosed official voting ballot dealing with the establishment of the National Office at the University of California-Riverside.

Each dues-paying member has until August 11, 1990, to return the ballot.
The outcome of voting will be reported in the next Noticias de NACS.
