Sigma Kappa Delta Draws Up
Constitution With 12
Charter Members

Signifying their approval of the establishment of a journalism fraternity at San Jose State College, Miss Helen Dimmick, dean of women, Mr. Charles Goldard, dean of men, and Mr. H. F. Mowen, vice-president of the college, have placed their signatures on the tentative constitution, and with this okay, definite plans are being formed for the organization for the remainder of the quarter.

Sigma Kappa Delta, which is the name of the new society, is being started with twelve charter members. These charter members are students who are new, and have been active in college journalism since the beginning of the fall quarter.

The names of the charter members follow: Bob Leland, Corinne Kibler, Harry Hayes, Carl Palmer, Dolores Jenkins, Carl Holliday, Alice Parrish, Jan Cavanagh, Helen Tracy, Frank Hamilton, Thelma Vickers, Jim Fitzgibbon.

The purpose of the organization is the fostering of friendship and mutual assistance among students interested in college and professional journalism, to increase interest in this activity, and to promote the welfare of the college in aiding it to obtain suitable publicity. Meetings will be held bi-monthly on the date to be fixed by the executive committee.

Hiking Club Visits Stanford Hills In Sunday Outing Trip

The Stanford hills will be the next objective of the Hiking Club. San Antonio and Seventh will be the meeting place at 8:20 a.m., Sunday, February 11th.

Those who are going will be expected to bring their own lunch and a car if possible. If a car is brought the passengers will contribute to running expenses.

Open to all

Students

Quoting the officials of the Club, "We wish to make it clear that the Hiking Club is open to any student interested in taking hikes. There is no regular membership or any dues. You are welcome to come to any of the hikes."

Overnight Hike

Planned

The following week-end the Club plans quite an affair. An over-night hike is on the schedule. A cabin at La Honda has been secured. Radio, piano, dancing, food, fireplace, all in the cabin will make it a gala event. The only catch to the whole thing is this; as everyone will want to go and there will only be accommodations for a limited number, it will be necessary to have been on one previous hike to be eligible for the over-night affair. This coming Sunday will afford a splendid opportunity to establish a prerequisite.

For further information see Mrs. Walsh in Room 151.

Bill O'Brien the manager of the touring professional tennis troupe headed by Tilden and Vines announced that unless the Japanese Association would meet the demands for twelve thousand dollars, the trip to Japan would be off.

Raymond Miller Presents Varied Music Program

Presenting a program largely of his own compositions, Mr. Raymond Miller, brass instructor of the music department, will sponsor a program of various kinds of music the evening of February 20, Tuesday, in the Little Theater.

Mr. Miller, who will appear as French Horn soloist will be assisted by Robert Rath, piano student, Mr. Jan Kalas of the music department faculty, cellist, Mr. William Erlendson, pianist, Miss Helen Kalas, soprano, and Miss Bozena Kalas, pianist.

Though Mr. Miller himself will play none of his own works, the other numbers on the program will all be his compositions for piano, voice, and cello. Mr. Miller will play a group of Wagner solos, accompanied by Robert Rath. Miss Helen Kalas is to sing two groups of songs, one in German, the other in English, accompanied by her sister, Miss Bozena Kalas who will accompany her father's cello solos as well.

The complete program will appear in a later edition of the Times.

Richard Hughes And Charles Pinkham In Dictatorship Debate

Contending that the currency crisis would have been averted had the president of the United States had the power to act immediately in 1929, two debaters from the North West Nazarene College met San Jose varsity debaters at ten o'clock Wednesday morning.

Richard Hughes and Charles Pinkham met the contention of the more experienced debaters ably, saying that the president of the United States was already the most powerful diplomatic leader in the world, and that more powers would make him a virtual dictator, which should be avoided.

Nazarenes Confident Poised

The Nazarene men spoke with confidence and poise, answering the questions of the State men expertly. On Tuesday night they debated with the College of Pacific, in a formal clash speaking on the opposite side of the question to the one they took Wednesday, the Nazarenes were "beat flatter than a pan cake" by the C.O.P.'s.

Had honors been given for the best speaking, Mr. Spencer from Idaho would have walked away with the bacon. As it was, students who witnessed the debate voted individually on Mr. Spencer as first and Mr. Pinkham second.

The debate was conducted in the compromise style that is rapidly becoming more popular. Each side presented its case, uninterrupted, and then questions through the chairman were asked. In this debate, Mr. Ralph Eckert was chairman.

"Y" Dance Tonight Attracts Students

Have you purchased that ticket to the "Y" dance yet? If not, you better get going for the place is all set for a good time tonight. It is not necessary to have a date, as these dances are all very informal, and everyone goes just for a good time.

The Y.W.C.A. floor is fine for dancing, and there is plenty of room to sit out a dance if you care to. At the past dances there has not been much sitting out, however.

Your friends will be there, so come to the Y.W.C.A. at nine o'clock, and be prepared for a good time.

Masquerade Ball To Close Dance Season

Presents Choir

of the Speech Arts faculty, who appears with her verse choir tonight at Westminster Church

Verse Choir Group Appears Tonight At Big Entertainment

Dr. Dorothy Kaucher's verse choir will be one of the main features at the Jamboree to be held at the Westminster Presbyterian church tonight at seven-thirty. Dean Cowger, chairman of the committee, revealed today. The choir of six girls, and a quartet, composed of two boys and two girls will present several numbers.

Other Main Features

Among other main features included on the Jamboree will be vocal solos by Eleanor McNight and Joel Carter, both prominent San Jose State students. Jean McCrae and Ronald Linn, speech majors well known on the campus, will present dramatic monologues.

Outstanding on the Jamboree will be the humor skits, written by Dean Cowger, speech major at San Jose State. In "Elmer Blurt", Mr. Cowger will play the title role, with Dorothy Brub assisting. Herb Gunderson and Dean Cowger will present "Cherrily and Jabut". Mr. Cowger's "Elmer Blurt" skits have been received enthusiastically on several occasions at campus affairs.

Carter is Yogi Jorgenson

Joel Carter, versatile speech student, will portray Yogi Jorgenson in several skits. Mr. Carter's play, "The Mad Inventor" which was received with great acclaim at the Junior Follies a year ago, will be repeated. Eunice Hunter, Dorothy Grubb, Kenneth Hayes, and Joel Carter will interpret parts.

Another number sure to attract attention will be the banjo solos played by Sheldon Tals, well known San Josean. A boy's trio, including Charles Pinkham, Chet, and Bob Smith will also perform.

At the conclusion of the program, a cake auction will be held.

Tickets for the Jamboree may be secured at the door for twenty-five cents. The affair is under the auspices of the

Oriental Theme Features Last Student Body Dance On Saturday, March 10

A masquerade ball, the last and biggest Student Body dance of the quarter, is the big item on the program for March 10. Oriental background, popular college dance orchestra and all the dancers in fancy costumes. No one not in costume will be admitted.

Elmer Stoll is again in charge of arrangements for the dance. He is making plans for the most sensational dance of the string of successes for which he has been chiefly responsible. Bob Leslie is the co-chairman.

For Student Body members there will be no admission charge. Any member who wants to bring an outside guest must hand the name of this guest to Elmer Stoll as soon as possible. The committee will take charge of this guest list and will issue cards admitting outsiders. No outside guest will be admitted without one of these bids. For convenience, the names may be left for Elmer Stoll at the office of Dean Dimmick. Admission for guests will be twenty-five cents.

The Oriental decorations will feature pagodas, bridges, lanterns, and miniature gardens. The best campus orchestra available for this date will be engaged. There will be refreshments.

Special effort is being made to provide an Oriental dancer in costume as a star intermission number. Other good features for intermissions are being planned.

The members of the committee arranging for the dance are:

A Cappella Choir To Start Tour Monday

In its farewell concert before departure on a tour of the southern part of California, the college A Cappella Choir presented an unusually fine program to a large and enthusiastic audience in the Morris Dailey auditorium, the evening of Wednesday, February 7.

Under the direction of Mr. William Erlendson, of the music department faculty, the choir has made rapid strides of progress since its last appearance before the student body. In Wednesday's program, the numbers in which humming figured largely were especially outstanding.

As soloist, Miss Winifred Fisher, soprano, student under Miss Maurine Thompson, carried off a large share of the honors. Her two groups of solos were difficult and unusual, but Miss Fisher presented her customary stellar performance. She was accompanied by Mr. Erlendson.

The choir will leave Monday, February 12 for appearances in Bakersfield, Modesto, Stockton, and the University of Southern California. They are to return here the evening of Friday of the same week. The tour is under the management of Dr. Raymond Mosher, assisted by Don Madsen, music manager.

HONOR CLUB PRESENTS PLAY

French Society Stages "Ces
Dames Aux Chapeaux
Verts" Tonight

"Ces Dames aux Chapeaux Verts", the first full length modern play to be attempted by the French honor society, will be presented at eight o'clock in the Little Theater.

"The Life of an old maid is very unhappy." There are four old maids in this comedy by Acrement, the French dramatist. They have a special affinity for the type of costume which features long skirts, high collars, and, for a touch of color, green hats. Always green hats. Into the midst of this calm and controlled circle pops the young niece, modern pretty, and full of pep. The threat of heart failure hangs over the household for days as this young cyclone breezes around the house. The niece investigates the affairs of the four sisters, aided by an old diary found in the attic. To their horror and delight she proceeds to set everything right again, including love affairs. Romance and heated arguments in the best French style and plenty of action throughout provide a fast-moving comedy.

The production of this play is attracting wide attention, as it is important to those interested both in dramatics and in modern language projects. Students from the language departments of Stanford and California are planning to attend. Admission for students in any college or school will be only ten cents, and for others the price is twenty-five cents.

For those who do not understand much French there is to be a synopsis of the action in English on the program. With this as a guide, it will not be difficult to follow the development of the play.

The cast is made up entirely of honor society French students, who are preparing a first-rate production under the direction of Dr. Boris Lubowski of the modern language department. Mr. McCoard and Mr. Gillis of the speech arts department are assisting in the production. Mr. McCoard is advising the cast as to stage action, and Mr. Gillis is supervising the work on the set, which is being carried out by Carl Palmer, stage manager for the production.

CAGERS PLAY JACOBS' TONIGHT

STATE SWIMMERS MEET SAN FRANCISCO "Y"

Spartan Nine And Nelson Packers In Saturday Contest

SPARTAN SPURTS

By

Bertrand & Conroy

Having been defeated twice, once in a practice game and once in an informal scrimmage, by the Leon Jacobs Clothiers, the greatly improved Spartan cagers will be out to chalk up a win over the former college greats tonight.

And the college greats—that's just what we mean. Looking over the history of the Clothier performers it is found that Bill Niles spent three years of sensational playing under Harlan Dykes at Santa Clara; Bud Schnabel played center at Stanford for a year; Dick Johnson wore the Red and Blue of Saint Mary's for one season; Earl Goodell and Bill Hubbard carved their niche in San Jose State's hall of fame by their remarkable play, both men making all-conference teams in their respective years.

Tonight will be the first chance for many local students to see Dick Johnson, better known as "Soapy" in action. Take careful note of this boy Johnson—he will be eligible to compete for the Spartans next year and should, as far as we can see, be the outstanding basketball in conference circles.

Considerable attention will be focused on the Spartan pool this evening, where a crowd of the intra-mural paddlers will trade splashes in an inter-class competitive meet.

A similar event last year proved a big success, the Sophomores swimming off with the honors. At this time practically the same gang of Cox, Ducoty, Azevedo, and others that topped the meet last year are signing again, only in the guise of Juniors.

Would it be safe to presume that they will enter the tank heavy favorites? Sure it would! and if they don't cop the affair we can always find a "dark horse" for an excuse, as the case may be.

Let's up and hope that the willow-wielders can break their hard luck streak by trouncing the Nelson packers tomorrow. The packers are credited with one win over the Spartans from last week, by a 6-2 score. However, Coach Bill Hubbard utilized the contest to inject his entire squad, getting a slant on some of his unknown quantities.

One difficulty that has been facing the boys is lack of practice, their field being under repairs or something of the sort, and accompanied with the damp ground their handicap has been great.

Bear Second String Laces Cal Aggies

Using a team consisting of second and third string players entirely throughout the game, Coach Nib Price's California players ran rough shod over the California Aggies of Davis to the tune of 51 to 15. Not one first string player was used by Price throughout the rough contest and the last half assumed the proportion of a rout towards the end. Dobbas will be remembered for his brilliant pivot play on the local court last Saturday night was again high point man for his team with a total of 8 markers.

SPARTAN BALL CLUB HIT BY BAD WEATHER

Despite the hovering over of old man Jupiter Pluvius and his ever present rain barrel, Coach Bill Hubbard's baseball proteges have hopes of boosting their baseball stock Saturday afternoon when they tangle with Nelson's, one of the rating teams of the Valley League. It will be the second encounter between the two nines, the semi-pros winning by a narrow margin last Saturday in a game that saw every man on the squad getting into action. This week-end, however, finds Hubbard firmly convinced to trounce the local stars.

The Spartans have been foiled in nearly every attempt to get in a few days of practice. The diamond at Spartan Field is undergoing a transformation and it looks as though the two-horse tractor and one-man scraper attempting to do all this so-called transformation are encountering difficulties. At any rate, the field looks like some place between the Marne and the Argonne.

The team presents a congregation of stars, future stars and would-be stars at the present writing. Over-flowing with catchers, weak on pitchers, a fair in-field, and a potentially hard hitting outfield, the State team offers many perplexities to cloud the brow of Bill Hubbard.

"Tobe" McLachlan, erstwhile right half of the football team, seems to have the inside edge on the receiving job, but is being hard pressed by Erwin DeSelle, a three year veteran. Also in the picture is "Sarge" Corbella, who represented 238 pounds of quarterback for DeGroot, and a young fellow named Colburn who seems to massage the apple with more than the customary vigor.

Out on the mound, a different problem arises. Burt Watson, main hope of the pitching corps, will be lost when the first of March rolls around, the south-paw being one of Erwin Blesh's hopefuls. Dario Simoni has added a slightly favorable tinge to the picture, as he now transfers his tackle playing activities into heaving curves over a foot or so of home plate. "S" annexed seven wins without a set-back in 1932. George Ichishita, tall Japanese in-curve artist and Bill Horstman, the wild man from Boulder Creek, look to be the best bets on the remainder of the staff.

The infield of Harry Hardiman at first, Ed Atkinson, "Red" Hague, or Roz Thurber at second, Sam Filice on third and Dick Main or Steve Beratta at short will probably see most of the inner works action. Hardiman is surprising everyone, including himself, by getting a hit now and then and now expects to bat in the fourth spot. Perhaps he will. Filice is the veteran of the infield, having seen three seasons under the Spartan banner and now entering the fourth and final year of his State career. Thurber and Beratta have both played here before, Thurber starting his fourth year and Beratta his second. Both boys are good fielders and are showing improvement with the stick. Atkinson has recently regained his eligibility and is giving the veterans a run for their money. Hague is probably the best fielder of the lot, but has not shown a whole lot at the plate. Main is a freshman but has been flashing with regularity in practice.

The outfield seems to be well fortified with four veterans back from last year. Frances Pura, a three letter man leads the parade. A hard hitter and a sensational fielder. Gil Bishop, who led the team in home runs last year, is starting his third season. "Lefty" Blethen, a

Hayward Cagers State Mermen Are Underdogs For Swim Meet

Tomorrow night at 7:30 the Frosh hoopsters will do combat with an all-star team from Hayward consisting of a group of high school grads who are planning to attend college together. Coached by Don Harder, former San Jose State sprint star and track captain, the Hayward quintet presents a formidable outfit, according to Don.

If his assertions are true, the local yearlings are in for some tougher competition than that which has been meted out to them in the past.

In Wednesday night's contests Coach Elliot found an opportunity to give practically the entire squad a heavy workout, playing both the Montezuma teams, heavys and lightweights. Undoubtedly he was given a good slant on some of his unknowns, and a good many of his second string boys came through in fine shape.

His possible starting lineup against the boys from the "Fog City" will be either Welch or Dailey at the pivot position, Waddington and Crawford at forwards, completing the forward wall, and probably Hudson and Pease at the Opening his away from home season against the strong San Francisco Y.M.C.A. mermen, Coach Charlie Walker and his Spartan swimmers meet the city outfit at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Dorras of the "Y" team has one of the strongest swimming teams on the coast, having won the P.A.A. meet over Stanford and the Olympic Club only two weeks ago.

His one greatest asset is his 400 yard freestyle relay team which cut 6.2 seconds off the old P.A.A. record against Stanford and the Olympics.

While Walker's squad has no illusions as to their chances of taking the San Francisco boys, they are determined to come home with at least one first place.

Last year in the home and home meets with the city lads the Spartans were twice defeated. They went to the lair of the San Francisco boys and lost 58-26 and when the visitors came down here they won 52-32. The San Francisco club has practically the same team this year.

LOCAL YEARLINGS OUTPLAY MONTEZUMA PREPSTERS IN TWIN BILL 3-14, 31-17

By GIL BISHOP

Adding two victories to their already lengthy string, Coach Bob Elliott's conquering Frosh basketball team eased through a pair of games with the Montezuma Preps Wednesday night. The first game, with the Indiana varsity, ended 34-17, while the second, played against reserves, lightweights and what have you, chalked up 31-13.

With Waddington and DeSelle leading the attack, the Babes ran up 8 points in the first quarter before Higgins of the Red-shirts flicked the net with two free throws, just 15 seconds before the end of the period. Elliott did some substituting in the second quarter and the attack was led by Bettencourt and Irwin, both of whom caged some nice buckets. The half ended with the Frosh out in front, 18-8.

The second half found every man on the Frosh squad seeing action and the Babe offense bogged down somewhat, although the defense worked well. Dailey and Welch did most of the scoring in the final stanza, at least enough to keep the Frosh well up on top. Welch, in particular, had his eye on the bucket.

The second game proved to be a little less well played and a trifle rougher, as the yearling team, mostly second string men, ran up an easy lead. Montezuma could score but two free throws before the Staters had tanked twenty points, but tightened considerably in the last period. DeSelle ranked first in the point scoring for the Elliott-men and the team showed some beautiful pass-work.

letterman and star of the California State League, is probably the steadiest and headiest of the garden men. Last but not least, is Joe Blacow, well-known manager of the Irvington Reds and another letterman.

S. J. HOOPMEN FACE STRONG LOCAL SQUAD

By PAUL CONROY

Facing what is no doubt their foremost opposition of the season, the Spartan Cagers tangle with the Leon Jacob Clothiers tonight in the Spartan Gymnasium. Opening whistle at eight o'clock.

With such names as Johnson, Niles, Schnabel, Hubbard, Goodell, Olsen, and Tod on the Clothier roster, plenty of fine basketball should be dished out on the local court, when they get together with Coach Hovey MacDonald's up and coming Spartans.

The game will present an inter-school rivalry as well as a brother act, as Johnson, Niles, Olsen, and Tod are all registered in school and baseball coach Bill Hubbard, Jacobs' center, will be lined up against brother Bud, who handles a guard post for the Spartans.

Although the two teams have met in informal scrimmages and in one practice game last November, little is detracted from tonight's "gigantic".

The meeting of the Spartans and Clothiers will be practically a revival of the former Spartan-S. J. Gold "naturals", which fell by the wayside three years ago, as a majority of tonight's visiting players have seen action under the Gold's banner.

Sparta's warriors, with five successive Conference victories dangling from their belts, will take the floor tonight in hopes of proving that a well drilled college team with daily practice is superior to five individual stars working together only in actual games.

The very debatable question will be put to test tonight. Man for man the Club team has a decided edge over the Spartans. However, Spartan stock can't be sold to short—it must be remembered that they have an advantage in being accustomed to the large State hardwood and have been playing together since last October. Can the Clothiers match the torrid pace maintained by the Spartans for forty long minutes of basketball play?

During the last scrimmage the second combination consisting of Downs and Caccitti at forwards, Rea at center, and Taylor and Arnerich at guards, seemed to have things all their own way against the termed first string made up of Holmberg, Concannon, Biddle, Hubbard, and Leibbrandt.

Returning to the form which he demonstrated in the College of Pacific series, Paul Rea, Spartan pivot man, has been the main factor in enabling the second combine to out-class the five players that won recent victories over Nevada and Cal Aggies. The blonde center seems to have taken a new lease on life and is putting a little spirit and fight into his scrimmage playing, two factors which have been sadly lacking in his previous play. Rea is making a strong bid for what was once his first string post.

No announcement has been made as to who will receive the starting call tonight, but judging from last night's final practice Coach Hovey MacDonald will send Downs, Caccitti, Rea, Taylor, and Arnerich out to open against the strong town team.

Probable starting lineups.

SCREEN SHOTS

It's another "mother" picture, but done in such a clever way that the usual soft soap entirely escapes you. Kay Francis plays the leading role, and is really so good I think you'll never forget her in it. The story is intriguing and sympathetic, with leveling proportions of gladness and sadness. And, oh, by the way, the name of the picture is "House on 56th Street", now playing at the California.

The story starts in the old floradora days, during the time when so many men of wealthy family and noble birth were playing Prince Charmings to the dancing ladies of Broadway, marrying them, and establishing them in handsome homes on Park Avenue. Kay Francis, one of the most toasted girls of that colorful era, found the ultimate of her happiness in marriage to a wealthy monied gentleman, Gene Raymond, with whom she was tremendously in love.

But an ultimate instinct for gambling turned her ideal home around at her feet, when it was found that she had a finger, though an entirely innocent finger, in the death of a former enamorate. During the trial which ensues she is robbed of friends, family, husband, and is even forbidden to see her baby daughter.

She takes her penalty bravely, however, and after serving time returns to the world. At a gambling house which she runs with the aid of Ricardo Cortez, she happens to meet her daughter, now a young lady and very beautiful. The maximum of mother love is seen in her willingness to ruin the remainder of her life in paying for the enormous debts contracted by her girl.

Surprising as it may seem, Kay Francis is most effective and striking as the mother. Where she once started in the role of the siren, she has played a part almost its perfect antithesis, and done it well. She is striking looking, particularly when she returns from prison with gray hair and a creamy complexion.

The cast does equally well, and Margaret Lindsay, as the daughter, is beautiful and refined. Ricardo Cortez, although I've never particularly liked the man, did a fine piece of acting, one must admit, and I understand he was given a long term contract as a reward.

MEXICO—Land of many revolutions—true—but a land that is trying to get ahead, to be recognized as a country of wealth and affluence.

Its customs are rapidly receding into the background of history. But today there still remain many of the customs, of strange meals and fiestas, of old Mexico.

Miss Winbourne Bryan, San Jose State student, and American-born resident of Pachuca, capital of Hidalgo, Mexico, contradicts the statements of Americans that Mexicans are "dirty and lazy".

"They are judging from the peon class, who are the only ones migrating to the United States. Spending most of my life among the Mexicans, I have gotten to know them rather well," she says.

"They are very likable and interesting to know and talk with, and anxious to work. Though their morals may be considered lax, they are very polite and modest, with their ideas of right and wrong quite firmly fixed."

In an effort to make laws for the benefit of the Mexicans, the government has passed two rather strange ones that effect both Americans who try to get work and those who merely visit.

One law prohibits foreigners, with the exception of residents there before passage of the law, from holding a job in Mexico. The other does not permit any servant to be fired unless he is caught stealing.

A very religious people, Mexicans insist upon fiestas for every event. On Guadalupe day, everyone who can makes a pilgrimage to the shrine of Juan in Mexico City, and on Judas day they celebrate uproariously as effigies of Judas are burnt at the appointed hour.

Though their climate is favorable and their beautiful skies conducive to production of something be-

Just Among Ourselves

We must have unearthed or developed some pretty good reporters this quarter. Seems to me our news stories have been particularly good. Whenever I have had anything to give a Times reporter, it has been written up in good shape and with remarkable accuracy. The daily seems to be something of a stimulation.

I see Dean Dimmick is taking advantage of the C.W.A. opportunity and having her offices "fixed up". There will certainly be some kind of a tea when that is finished.

Have you noticed the carpet in the Information Office? One would like to run around on that in bare feet. Perhaps I had better explain. It's really not an extravagance. Cost only 50c a yard—second foot.

I have noted with a good deal of interest the development of our police training classes. We now have 47 students. Only a fairly small number plan to go into the service, but the classes appeal to many for their general character. It is important for any citizen to know something of our peace officer organization. You'll be interested to hear that two of our young men are doing student policing this quarter. We are applying the same technique to police training as we do to the training of teachers. Some day I feel sure all of California's peace officers will be trained for their job in great state schools set up for the purpose. There should probably be two of them, one in the north and one in the south. They will be organized somewhat after the manner of West Point, but the course will probably be two years instead of four. The state will meet all expenses, uniforms, equipment, sustenance, instruction, plant. Candidates will be selected carefully by a personnel board and by any peace officer organization in the state, and no new officers will be employed unless they have state credentials. That is the situation with the teachers now, and it is much more satisfactory than the old plan.

I marvel that policeman do as well as they do. On one side is the underworld, all the skilled crooks and the budding crooks ready to attack. On the

Tick, tock —

The chief cause of very much excitement in the music department this week has been the visit to several classes of the Pomona Girls Glee Club. When the members visited men's classes, their mere presence disrupted the morale of the "students." When they visited classes composed largely of girls—we'll skip that.

However, it is rumored that their presence in one class embarrassed the TEACHER quite out of the impenetrability for which said teacher is famous.

Overhead a very interesting conversation between Mr. Miller and Red Matthews on the enthralling subject of hitting a high D on an English horn. You lead with your thumb and leave your right forefinger open. When 'opportunity presents, you wind up with a sizzling little finger to the third valve.

Tick, tock —

Will some kind carpenter kindly explain what the walls of certain rooms in the music building are made of? It looks like a hairy variety of pine, but a pine is an evergreen, isn't it? and this whatever-it-is is decidedly deciduous. Try it on a navy blue or black coat some time if you would doubt our veracity.

other side is what we call the public, a great hulking, rather dull, somewhat selfish mass. Then there are the politicians and the lawyers. What can a poor policeman do? With all the patriotism and courage in the world, all must slip occasionally. I have the greatest sympathy for these men, and feel that we should be able to improve the conditions, under which we are working.

The A Cappella proved something last night. The concert was a grand success, and simply goes to show that people will pay money for something they wish to hear. I don't see how they are going to spend all the money they took in. Congratulations to Mr. Erlendson and the group.

C.W.A. PROGRESS

The extensive program of improvements which has been in progress on the campus during the past weeks is significant for two reasons. First, and most important, of course, is the fact that numerous men, most of them skilled in their field, have been given much-needed employment; and second, because San Jose State benefits directly by acquiring several necessary additions and improvements.

The new ventilating system in our library provides for circulation of washed air, eliminating the old bugbear of headaches and general discomfort caused by wavering temperatures. The basement of our new Science building has echoed for the past few weeks with noises caused by the setting in of concrete floors and the execution of plans for a very desirable photography laboratory.

Painting and redecorating is being done in various buildings, on the campus, the Homemaking building, the Speech Arts wing, and the office of the Dean of Women all coming in for a good spring cleaning.

Extension of the nationwide employment program would possibly mean erection of a Spartan Union building on the old Training school site, which is now being leveled off. The Union would provide modern, adequate facilities for all student affairs, leaving the present wooden building for storing of supplies and, perhaps, offices for the superintendent of grounds.

Other projects, such as enlarging the stage and improving the acoustics of the Morris Dailey auditorium; and installation of steam radiators and reorganization of the library to include the basement below, may be completed if the C.W.A. is extended.

In comparison to the dreary depression days of not so long ago, the college campus, as well as the entire country, has taken on a new, brighter outlook.

Activity cheers us all; and the noises are most welcome.

It is our sincere hope, both for the welfare of the college and of the community, that President Roosevelt's C.W.A. program will continue.

Market day is the most picturesque. Wearing huge straw hats denoting their position in life, a pajama-like costume, the bare-footed or sandaled peons come to the towns to mingle with the upper and middle class to sell their goods.
