

San Jose State University

SJSU ScholarWorks

Cultural Heritage Center Event Flyers

Africana, Asian American, Chicano, & Native
American Studies Center

5-1-2008

Latino Stories of World War II: The stories you don't get from Hollywood

San Jose State University, Cultural Heritage Center

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.sjsu.edu/chc_flyers

Recommended Citation

San Jose State University, Cultural Heritage Center, "Latino Stories of World War II: The stories you don't get from Hollywood" (2008). Cultural Heritage Center Event Flyers. 22.

https://scholarworks.sjsu.edu/chc_flyers/22

This Poster is brought to you for free and open access by the Africana, Asian American, Chicano, & Native American Studies Center at SJSU ScholarWorks. It has been accepted for inclusion in Cultural Heritage Center Event Flyers by an authorized administrator of SJSU ScholarWorks. For more information, please contact scholarworks@sjsu.edu.

Latino Stories of World War II

The stories you don't get from Hollywood

No one knows how many American Latinos fought in World War II, but estimates range from 250,000 to 500,000. Yet they are virtually absent from the history books. "Latino Stories of World War II" is an hour long documentary film that fills in some of this missing history.

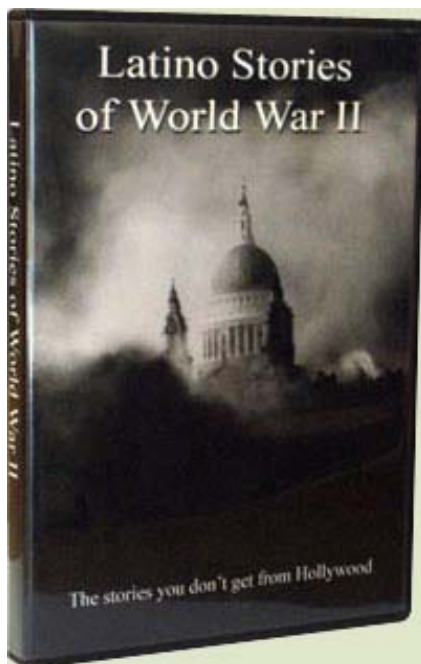

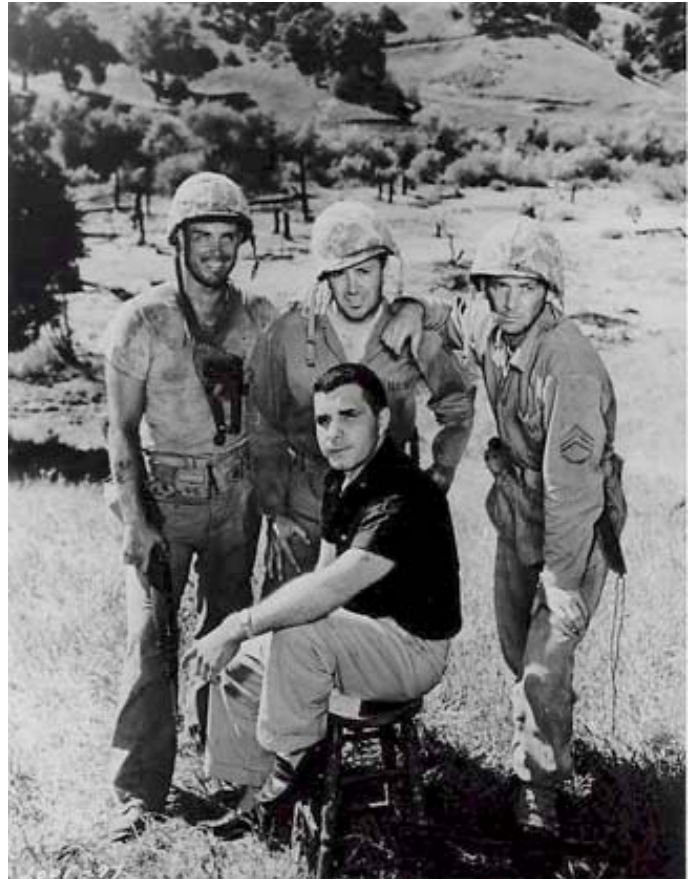

Join us for a the screening of the documentary (60 mins) and a discussion with filmmaker Mario Barrera.

May 1, 2008

Time

Location

San Jose State University

Mario Barrera, is currently teaching in Chicana/o Studies at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is an Emeritus Professor from the University of California Berkeley from the department of Chicano Studies. He is the author of Race and Class in the Southwest: A theory of racial inequality (1989) and Beyond Aztlan: Ethnic Autonomy in Comparative Perspectives (1988). His film credits in the documentary film "Chicano Park" (1989).

"Latino Stories of World War II" was developed in cooperation with the U.S. Latino and Latina World War II Oral History Project (University of Texas), and funded by the University of California MEXUS research institute.