Spartan Senate Meets At Home of Katherine Hodges Last Monday

Members Make Program for April, Study Petition, Advisory Board

The Spartan Senate, honorary debating society, met at the home of Katherine Hodges, Miss Edith Smith, undergraduate and Mr. Robert Whitehead, president, presented the program for debates for the rest of the year was discussed.

A new type of debate, called the "direct attack," in which each speaker presents a number of short, sharp arguments, will be used in a debate later this semester. This type of debate will also probably be used in the interscholastic debates.

"Convincing War of Debates" will be the subject debated at February 16. The resolution to be debated is, "That, in the Pacific, the affirmative side, by Harry Morgan and John W. Smith, should make the case." Students from the six departments, arts and sciences, engineering, business administration, and education, will be participating in the debate.

There will be an important debate on February 16. The topic is, "The Green Cockatoos," the biggest college on campus. The speaker for the affirmative side will be Miss Edith Smith, and the speaker for the negative side will be Miss Elsie M. Blount. The debate will be held in the old library.

"The Meaning of Life," by Will John M. Smith and John W. Smith, will be debated on February 16. The speaker for the affirmative side will be Miss Edith Smith, and the speaker for the negative side will be Miss Elsie M. Blount. The debate will be held in the old library.

"The Monte Carlo" will be debated on February 16. The speaker for the affirmative side will be Miss Edith Smith, and the speaker for the negative side will be Miss Elsie M. Blount. The debate will be held in the old library.
