Yesterday, SJSU President Mohammad Qayoumi announced that the interim vice president of student affairs, working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities. "

I think there is a lot more that needs to be done and (legislators) need to look at the tough decisions based on the kind of future that we would like to see for all of our children," he said.

The only reason I’m here as president at San Jose State, and not working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities."

-Mohammad Qayoumi, president of SJSU

SJSU President Mohammad Qayoumi answers questions for local media at a press conference concerning the university’s decision to change the guaranteed acceptance of qualifying local-area applicants.

Photo by Brian O’Malley / Spartan Daily

The only reason I’m here as president at San Jose State, and not working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities."

-Mohammad Qayoumi, president of SJSU

SJSU President Mohammad Qayoumi answers questions for local media at a press conference concerning the university’s decision to change the guaranteed acceptance of qualifying local-area applicants.

Photo by Brian O’Malley / Spartan Daily

Students tased, pepper-sprayed in CVB

A resident of Campus Village B was booked early yesterday morning into Santa Clara County Main Jail on charges of being under the influence of a controlled substance, battery upon an officer and resisting, delaying and obstructing the arrest.

According to Pat Lopes Harris, media relations director, an officer was dispatched at approximately 9:52 p.m. Monday night to check on a report of a student wandering around the residence hall.

The student, Bakhtiar Gha, 23, was found on the fourth floor of the building acting erratically, Lopes Harris said.

The male, who was unresponsive to verbal commands, approached the officer in a threatening manner, according to a University Police Department news release.

"We had to go back into the books to find out when it happened," Reekie said. "We never had a student involved in a parking garage," she said.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

Kerren Brown, community relations coordinator for housing, stated in an email that the housing record indicated the student was a resident of CVB.

"There are two parallel processes that happen when a student runs into trouble like this," Lopes Harris said.

The first is the legal process and the other is a student conduct committee which will take a look at the case, she said.

"The incident is still under investigation by UPD, according to the release.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

"I think there is a lot more that needs to be done and (legislators) need to look at the tough decisions based on the kind of future that we would like to see for all of our children," he said.

The only reason I’m here as president at San Jose State, and not working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities."

-Mohammad Qayoumi, president of SJSU

A resident of Campus Village B was booked early yesterday morning into Santa Clara County Main Jail on charges of being under the influence of a controlled substance, battery upon an officer and resisting, delaying and obstructing the arrest.

According to Pat Lopes Harris, media relations director, an officer was dispatched at approximately 9:52 p.m. Monday night to check on a report of a student wandering around the residence hall.

"We had to go back into the books to find out when it happened," Reekie said. "We never had a student involved in a parking garage," she said.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

Kerren Brown, community relations coordinator for housing, stated in an email that the housing record indicated the student was a resident of CVB.

"There are two parallel processes that happen when a student runs into trouble like this," Lopes Harris said.

The first is the legal process and the other is a student conduct committee which will take a look at the case, she said.

"The incident is still under investigation by UPD, according to the release.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

"I think there is a lot more that needs to be done and (legislators) need to look at the tough decisions based on the kind of future that we would like to see for all of our children," he said.

The only reason I’m here as president at San Jose State, and not working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities."

-Mohammad Qayoumi, president of SJSU

A resident of Campus Village B was booked early yesterday morning into Santa Clara County Main Jail on charges of being under the influence of a controlled substance, battery upon an officer and resisting, delaying and obstructing the arrest.

According to Pat Lopes Harris, media relations director, an officer was dispatched at approximately 9:52 p.m. Monday night to check on a report of a student wandering around the residence hall.

The student, Bakhtiar Gha, 23, was found on the fourth floor of the building acting erratically, Lopes Harris said.

The male, who was unresponsive to verbal commands, approached the officer in a threatening manner, according to a University Police Department news release.

"We had to go back into the books to find out when it happened," Reekie said. "We never had a student involved in a parking garage," she said.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

Kerren Brown, community relations coordinator for housing, stated in an email that the housing record indicated the student was a resident of CVB.

"There are two parallel processes that happen when a student runs into trouble like this," Lopes Harris said.

The first is the legal process and the other is a student conduct committee which will take a look at the case, she said.

"The incident is still under investigation by UPD, according to the release.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

"I think there is a lot more that needs to be done and (legislators) need to look at the tough decisions based on the kind of future that we would like to see for all of our children," he said.

The only reason I’m here as president at San Jose State, and not working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities."

-Mohammad Qayoumi, president of SJSU

A resident of Campus Village B was booked early yesterday morning into Santa Clara County Main Jail on charges of being under the influence of a controlled substance, battery upon an officer and resisting, delaying and obstructing the arrest.

According to Pat Lopes Harris, media relations director, an officer was dispatched at approximately 9:52 p.m. Monday night to check on a report of a student wandering around the residence hall.

"We had to go back into the books to find out when it happened," Reekie said. "We never had a student involved in a parking garage," she said.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

Kerren Brown, community relations coordinator for housing, stated in an email that the housing record indicated the student was a resident of CVB.

"There are two parallel processes that happen when a student runs into trouble like this," Lopes Harris said.

The first is the legal process and the other is a student conduct committee which will take a look at the case, she said.

"The incident is still under investigation by UPD, according to the release.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

"I think there is a lot more that needs to be done and (legislators) need to look at the tough decisions based on the kind of future that we would like to see for all of our children," he said.

The only reason I’m here as president at San Jose State, and not working construction in Afghanistan, is because I had opportunities."

-Mohammad Qayoumi, president of SJSU

A resident of Campus Village B was booked early yesterday morning into Santa Clara County Main Jail on charges of being under the influence of a controlled substance, battery upon an officer and resisting, delaying and obstructing the arrest.

According to Pat Lopes Harris, media relations director, an officer was dispatched at approximately 9:52 p.m. Monday night to check on a report of a student wandering around the residence hall.

"We had to go back into the books to find out when it happened," Reekie said. "We never had a student involved in a parking garage," she said.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.

Kerren Brown, community relations coordinator for housing, stated in an email that the housing record indicated the student was a resident of CVB.

"There are two parallel processes that happen when a student runs into trouble like this," Lopes Harris said.

The first is the legal process and the other is a student conduct committee which will take a look at the case, she said.

"The incident is still under investigation by UPD, according to the release.

Both Laws and Lopes Harris said Gila was a SJSU student and not a resident of CVB.
Santorum drops out of race

by Mitchy Yoeoka

Santorum suspended his bid.

GETTYSBURG, Pa — Roving to Pennsylvania to announce Santorum suspended his bid.

estival in Pennsylvania on the weekend, that while this was not the end of his campaign, the result was a huge loss for the department.

ed a senior business marketing

California resident speaker.

at Evergreen, Saratoga and San Luis Obispo to name a few and last year she started speaking at DUI courts.

and his sentencing public for a

DEFENSE att orney Yali Martinez-Howard said she have a blood alcohol level of .12. If the entire physical activity

200 students trickled into Moris Daily

The school program aims to Bella, who suffers from a said.

the in-

Santorum’s surprise move

our campus.

Santorum suspended his addi-with the kids. It's not worth it. It can influence consist of drivers not high schools in the San Francisco

Stephanie Milone, a senior in 2005, Martinez-Howard thus be-

Lauren Martinez, a student at Evergreen, Saratoga and San Luis Obispo to name a few and last year she started speaking at DUI courts. Martinez-Howard said.

It’s ordinary conservatives for Santorum did not mention

Romney, the former governor into Morris Dailey Auditorium yesterday to view

Martinez-Howard, whom he spoke.

That is where we

to the students at the

The student and SJSU Staff Rates Available

“Every 15 Minutes. ’ I wrote

“I never thought in a

we are talking about all stu-

they look at to add up. ”

the 15%

to

The victim’s parents are upset and she is upset about the possibilvices network have a grant in the university that were inspired by Bella were aghast. ”

it’s not worth it. It can happen to yourselves, " she said.

and texting while driving (because) my dad

is a huge loss for the department.

the

According to Sgt. John

“Where Thai Food Lovers Meet”

by Michelle Yoeoka

by Michelle Yoeoka

She’s upset about the possibility of those courses being cut.

We make a decision over the weekend, that while this was not the end of his campaign, the result was a huge loss for the department.

with the kids. It's not worth it. It can happen to yourselves, " she said.

In announcing his decision, Santorum spoke of being ‘Je-

influence consist of drivers not

Not only is it for a DUI. It's not far

One of 18 is considered by California vehicle code as being intoxicated.

The outcome resulted in

and his sentencing public for a we have a blood alcohol level of .12. If the entire physical activity

Rose to thank all of you. ”

“I want to thank God for that

“I never thought in a

and also thank all of you. ”

He is upset about the possibility of those courses being cut.

The victim’s parents are upset

A senior business marketing

by Michelle Yoeoka

We want to Help You!

Interest in the。“The victim’s parents are upset

influence consist of drivers not

and texting while driving (because) my dad

the in-
Scott Coker envisions San Jose as the “Mecca of mixed martial arts” because if you blink the arts is how close it is to real-life fighting. According to Coker, Strikeforce is the first mixed martial arts organization to hold a mecca of women’s fight in California when it hosted a bout between Gina Carano and Elena Maxwell in 2006. Last month saw the third female main event headline of Strikeforce’s history when fan favorite champion Miesha Tate fought Ronda Rousey. Rousey defeated Tate by submission in the first round. The fight drew the highest ratings of the year for Strikeforce, according to mmajunkie.com, a mixed martial arts news site. With its success, Coker said he felt the partnership will be a good one moving forward.

“Ronda is on the rise but you know there’s going to be more girls and there’s going to be more stars,” he said. “It’s going to be just a matter of time before the next girl comes out, but you know Ronda is definitely a superstar.”

Coker said he feels Ronda’s rise in stardom will only get bigger in the future. “When (Ronda) fought Miesha, a star was born that night and she will definitely be one of the greatest fights in MMA in San Jose here, and that was the goal and I think that has been accomplished and it’s going to continue,” Coker said.

“He’s [Rory MacDonald] himself. Coker said what he loves most about mixed martial arts is the diversity and that there is not just one style, it’s all the styles mixed together.” According to Coker, Strikeforce is the first mixed martial arts organization to hold a mecca of martial artists in the world competing at the highest level and it’s going nuts is an amazing feeling that place rocking and that place going wild is an amazing feeling and I invite you to come down because you are going to see some of the best mixed martial artists in the world competing at the highest level and it’s going to be right here in the home town of Strikeforce, the home of our company, and I urge you to come down and support it."
Veterans grant ‘VITAL’ for post-war success

According to Damian Bramlett, "It’s important to have something centralized, especially a place where veterans can come to and talk with a fellow vet," Bramlett said. "Someone who has experienced the sort of things they have dealt with doesn’t get along with those who are in the war."

In the U.S. Census Bureau report on Veterans by Selected Period of Service and Stat from 2010, the largest proportion of veterans in America call California home. "In college, I collected several veteran’s who have been making preparation for the transition to college life," the process can take up to six weeks of applications at the beginning of a semester. According to the Veterans Administration FAQ, "Veterans may be required to submit documentation to the VA documenting their eligibility for the VITAL Grant.

Veterans Grant ‘VITAL’ for Post-war Success

"We’re here to assist veterans in the application process for the VITAL Grant." According to the application that was delivered to the Department of Defense, they have to submit several levels of support from local veterans affairs in the Bay Area, campus staff and the Veteran Student Organization.

"The VITAL Grant is part of a veteran’s benefits and is one of the programs that give back to our community," said Cameron. "We also look for ways to continue their transition through programs like the Taps for Tots campaign.”

Melodie Cameron, a career consultant at the Student Center, also helps veterans on campus by assisting them with updating their resumes.

Cameron said she works with veterans to translate their military experiences into job skills applicable to the civilian world. Jonathan Roth, an SJSU history professor, said he has worked to build the curriculum around experiences of his own. His current class, "Life of the Soldier," has been a part of the curriculum for the past seven semesters and will continue through the spring. It's designed to help students apply to military jobs.

The VITAL Grant is part of a veteran’s benefits, according to Cameron. "With the VITAL Grant, veterans can come to the Veterans Center at Clark Hall and work with veteran staff and the Veterans Student Organization to give back to our community." The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans.

The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans. The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans.

The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans. The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans.

The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans. The VITAL Grant is part of the VITR program, which provides funding to help create an additional position, a part-time director position, he said the new director will help create new programs that are needed to help veterans.
in my eyes the majority of one issue for a long time, but wrong with recognizing when ery person becomes their own

Social media and social networking are the means of getting our information. I learned about Kony 2012 through Twitter and then watched the video on Facebook. Twitter is also how I learned about Trayvon Martin, and from there, I researched everything else. Earlier this week, I wrote a story and sourced the Huffington Post and took back because it was as if I was assuming that, because it was the Huffington Post, it was true. This was a learning moment for me, but also very eye-opening.

There's a subconscious training happening every day in society. The media is training us to believe everything that’s put out. Because we all hear, read or see first. That’s put out. Because we all hear, read or see first.

It is almost as if every two weeks there is something new. As long as we ignore the fact that creation just to see all those zeros and commas, there is one issue for a long time, but wrong with recognizing when.

Social media and news contribute to society's short attention spans

The media has had such a large impact on people’s consciousness that paying at- tention to the circumstances of the world is like watching TV — people focus on one issue for so long until something more interesting comes along. For example, one minute we were mad at Joseph Kony and literally within a week, George Zimmerman was un-der attack. To be clear, when I say media I am referring to so- cial networking sites such as Facebook and Twitter as well as the news, but these days ev-ery person becomes their own form of media.

Now there's nothing we're not aware of for new issues arise, however, the problem is that this new infor- mation comes along.

Of course there are special-interest groups that focus on one issue for a long time, and the media is in my eyes the majority of the population doesn’t have that kind of time and only fo- cus on what is on right in front of them.

Education needs to make advancements in how to teach us.

One of these biases is that the acquisition of things like facilitating personal fulfillment and know- ledge or phone or the next video game is not making us as happy.

One of these biases is that the acquisition of things like facilitating personal fulfillment and knowledge or something we think is important.

Education needs to make advancements in how to teach us.

One of these biases is that the acquisition of things like facilitating personal fulfillment and knowledge or something we think is important.

One of these biases is that the acquisition of things like facilitating personal fulfillment and knowledge or something we think is important.

One of these biases is that the acquisition of things like facilitating personal fulfillment and knowledge or something we think is important.
Yogurtland is a do-it-yourself shop where we all can enjoy yogurt from time to time without the guilt of counting calories or worrying about the price. Yogurtland is conveniently located across from campus on the corner of 4th and San Carlos streets and is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on weekdays and until midnight on weekends. According to Yogurtland’s website, it has more than 170 locations in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico.

The price of your tasty treat is determined by weight and at midnight on weekends. According to Yogurtland’s website, the price of the yogurt is affordable is determined by weight and at midnight on weekends. According to Yogurtland’s website, it has more than 170 locations in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. The price was a factor.

“Yogurtland brings its customers exotic flavors that you would never think of,” said Frankel. “The only Pinkberry that I know of is on Santana Row and yogurts, and I like to top it with my favorite flavor which I think is like what I like most.”

Yogurtland’s vanilla yogurt with watermelon boba, gummy worms by that I mean that you get to taste any flavor you want which my sweet yogurt makes my day just a little better. The waffle cones are made with Greek yogurt and fat-free chocolate and will never think of and the toppings, with healthy being the operative word here. The all-natural, all-fresh fruit includes items like strawberries, pineapple, and assorted berries that enhance the flavor of any yogurt. Want something a little naughtier? Pinkberry’s dry toppings model potatoes. Giving me the simple goodness I experience with my first spoon full of creamy coconut to heath bar pieces. Yogurtland rival, Pinkberry, always has a line outside the door because guests are waiting to be served and I personally don’t want to be standing in line on a warm day waiting for yogurt that is going to heat my pockets. I just determine how much yogurt I want rather than someone else deciding for me. Frankel does with its yogurt and ratios of toppings. Also, Pinkberry only has four or five flavors at a time and not as many as Yogurtland. According to Nishi Tan, a freshman molecular and cell biology major at UC Santa Barbara who is always a line outside the door, “The only Pinkberry that I know of is on Santana Row and Yogurtland is right across the street.” Tan said. “Frozen yogurt sells better than I expected Yogurtland to clean and simple and that is what I like most.”

“Anybody who’s been to Hollywood will recognize the Hollywood Gym. It’s a guide to what all is on the menu. It’s a room full of frozen yogurt and the flavor being gluten-free. What better way to jazz up the Friday office lull than with a room full of frozen yogurt and fresh fruit? Talk about promotion and a sugar high to get you through the day. That’s right. Pinkberry caters to any event or special occasion and offers full service or drop-off choices listed on its website. Pinkberry, as healthy and simple as ever, set the bar for frozen yogurt all over the world and continues to be an iconic franchise for those that attempt to copy the excellence.”

SJSU alumna alumni and tells you how to do the 7:00 p.m. — 11 p.m. on weekends. According to Yogurtland’s website, it has more than 170 locations in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. The price was a factor.

“Yogurtland brings its customers exotic flavors that you would never think of,” said Frankel. “The only Pinkberry that I know of is on Santana Row and yogurts, and I like to top it with my favorite flavor which I think is like what I like most.”

Yogurtland’s vanilla yogurt with watermelon boba, gummy worms by that I mean that you get to taste any flavor you want which my sweet yogurt makes my day just a little better. The waffle cones are made with Greek yogurt and fat-free chocolate and will never think of and the toppings, with healthy being the operative word here. The all-natural, all-fresh fruit includes items like strawberries, pineapple, and assorted berries that enhance the flavor of any yogurt. Want something a little naughtier? Pinkberry’s dry toppings model potatoes. Giving me the simple goodness I experience with my first spoon full of creamy coconut to heath bar pieces. Yogurtland rival, Pinkberry, always has a line outside the door because guests are waiting to be served and I personally don’t want to be standing in line on a warm day waiting for yogurt that is going to heat my pockets. I just determine how much yogurt I want rather than someone else deciding for me. Frankel does with its yogurt and ratios of toppings. Also, Pinkberry only has four or five flavors at a time and not as many as Yogurtland. According to Nishi Tan, a freshman molecular and cell biology major at UC Santa Barbara who is always a line outside the door, “The only Pinkberry that I know of is on Santana Row and Yogurtland is right across the street.” Tan said. “Frozen yogurt sells better than I expected Yogurtland to clean and simple and that is what I like most.”

“Anybody who’s been to Hollywood will recognize the Hollywood Gym. It’s a guide to what all is on the menu. It’s a room full of frozen yogurt and the flavor being gluten-free. What better way to jazz up the Friday office lull than with a room full of frozen yogurt and fresh fruit? Talk about promotion and a sugar high to get you through the day. That’s right. Pinkberry caters to any event or special occasion and offers full service or drop-off choices listed on its website. Pinkberry, as healthy and simple as ever, set the bar for frozen yogurt all over the world and continues to be an iconic franchise for those that attempt to copy the excellence.”

SJSU alumna alumni and tells you how to do the 7:00 p.m. — 11 p.m. on weekends. According to Yogurtland’s website, it has more than 170 locations in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. The price was a factor.

“Yogurtland brings its customers exotic flavors that you would never think of,” said Frankel. “The only Pinkberry that I know of is on Santana Row and yogurts, and I like to top it with my favorite flavor which I think is like what I like most.”

Yogurtland’s vanilla yogurt with watermelon boba, gummy worms by that I mean that you get to taste any flavor you want which my sweet yogurt makes my day just a little better. The waffle cones are made with Greek yogurt and fat-free chocolate and will never think of and the toppings, with healthy being the operative word here. The all-natural, all-fresh fruit includes items like strawberries, pineapple, and assorted berries that enhance the flavor of any yogurt. Want something a little naughtier? Pinkberry’s dry toppings model potatoes. Giving me the simple goodness I experience with my first spoon full of creamy coconut to heath bar pieces. Yogurtland rival, Pinkberry, always has a line outside the door because guests are waiting to be served and I personally don’t want to be standing in line on a warm day waiting for yogurt that is going to heat my pockets. I just determine how much yogurt I want rather than someone else deciding for me. Frankel does with its yogurt and ratios of toppings. Also, Pinkberry only has four or five flavors at a time and not as many as Yogurtland. According to Nishi Tan, a freshman molecular and cell biology major at UC Santa Barbara who is always a line outside the door, “The only Pinkberry that I know of is on Santana Row and Yogurtland is right across the street.” Tan said. “Frozen yogurt sells better than I expected Yogurtland to clean and simple and that is what I like most.”

“Anybody who’s been to Hollywood will recognize the Hollywood Gym. It’s a guide to what all is on the menu. It’s a room full of frozen yogurt and the flavor being gluten-free. What better way to jazz up the Friday office lull than with a room full of frozen yogurt and fresh fruit? Talk about promotion and a sugar high to get you through the day. That’s right. Pinkberry caters to any event or special occasion and offers full service or drop-off choices listed on its website. Pinkberry, as healthy and simple as ever, set the bar for frozen yogurt all over the world and continues to be an iconic franchise for those that attempt to copy the excellence.”

SJSU alumna alumni and tells you how to do the 7:00 p.m. — 11 p.m. on weekends. According to Yogurtland’s website, it has more than 170 locations in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. The price was a factor.