Soph-Frosh Battle Holds Limelight Today

Quad Dance Is To Be Held After Fight of Lower-class Members

CHARLES ARTHUR PINKHAM LEADS SOPH TEAM AGAINST FROSH

This afternoon at two p. m. the freshman and sophomore classes will clash in mortal combat to decide the supremacy of the two classes.

The slug-fest is to be held on the lawn near the women's gym, and the winning class is to receive a silver cup presented by Leon Jacobs.

Greased Pig
Although it will not count toward winning the meet, the greased pig contest will undoubtedly be the most spectacular of the afternoon's performances.

This race will display the intelligence quotients of the classes, because brutal strength will not count.

Other events will be a woman's tug-o-war, a specialty race, an inter-class battle, a sand-bag race, and a specialty relay race. All of these will count one point toward the cup.

Coffee and—
Coffee and doughnuts will be served to all participants and spectators at the annual fracas, and Charles Arthur Pinkham and Bill Towner, chairmen of the sophomore and freshman teams, assure us that food will be needed after the excitement of the meet.

Quad Dance
The student affairs committee will close the festivities with a quad dance after the big meet. Lenz' four-piece orchestra will play.

Lock Your Cars or Pay a Fine To the City Traffic Department

Is your car locked today? If it isn't you may be forced to pay a heavy fine and a tow charge as a result of an order issued by Captain Stough, head of the City Traffic squad, yesterday.

Heavy Fine
All cars that are found parked in front of driveways are to be towed to the police station and are redeemable only upon the payment of a tow charge and a heavy fine.

Many cars that are found in this situation have been pushed there by other drivers trying to park.

To avoid this, all machines must be locked, or the punishment will fall upon the innocent.

McGill, State Hypnotist, Will Present Benefit Performance For Publicity Fund Tonight

Catholic Women's Center Scene of Philosophy Group Dinner

From the optimism of Robert Browning to the truth about Jonah and the whale, a symposium held by Dr. Elmo Robinson's philosophy class wended its way about the dinner table at the Catholic Women's Center Monday night.

After dinner in a private dining room, Dr. Raymond Barry, guest of honor, opened the discussion by an exposition of the philosophy of the poet, Browning. "God's in His heaven; all's right with the world," drew the conversation into the channel of immortality. Thence it proceeded to individual interpretations of the Bible, literal and selective, ending, as such discussions generally end, in a heated but friendly argument. These symposiums will be held bi-monthly in the future. Outsiders as well as credited philosophers are invited to attend the meetings.

Members of the El Circulo Cervantes, Spanish honor society, are asked to meet at the home of Miss Goldsmith at 340 S. 16th Street Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock.

TICKETS FOR PERFORMANCE WILL SELL FOR 25 CENTS

Much comment has arisen concerning the mysterious barrel in the main hall in front of the auditorium. This is to be used by McGill in his performance Thursday night in the Little Theatre. McGill claims that the barrel is to be filled with water and then a person is to be locked in by a committee, the cover being fastened down with hasps and padlocks. This person is to try to escape. Release must be extremely rapid, otherwise the occupant will drown.

This is only one of the many feats that will be offered Thursday night by McGill. It will be well worth your while to attend, and remember the price is only 25 cents. The show starts at 8 p. m. Come early and get a good seat.

Velda Vanderver's Sudden Illness Surprises Her Friends

The news of Velda Vanderver's illness came as a decided shock to the many friends that she has on the campus. Last Tuesday evening, Miss Vanderver was operated on for an emergency appendectomy at the county hospital. Dr. Doxey Wilson, resident physician and surgeon, performed the operation. Reports received yesterday state that she is recovering nicely.

Washington Square Never Under Private Ownership

Washington Square never belonged to any individual.

In the first issue of the Times, a statement reprinted from "An Inspiring Past," by Greathead, to the effect that Washington Square once belonged to a private family and was donated to the City of San Jose, was printed.

Dr. Kuntz of the San Jose State Social Science department wishes to make a correction to this statement. Dr. Kuntz has for the past six months been studying the history of the college since it was first founded. She has discovered the fact, and has definite proof to back up her convictions that the Washington Square upon which our college now stands never belonged to any private individual.

Washington Square was acquired by the city of San Jose through a U. S. patent after the Mexican war. It was given by the city to the State of California for the purpose of establishing the Normal School.

A small, red leather bound volume of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" was lost Monday morning between the 4th Street entrance and the College Arch between 8:25 and 8:30 a. m.

New Arrangements Schedule "Stay" for Large Football Dance

ORIGINAL PRICE OF $2.00 HAS BEEN REDUCED TO $1.95

Bud Applegarth, ticket chairman for the special train for the State-College Pacific game tomorrow night, has announced that ticket sales have reached the point where the trip is assured and the train has been scheduled. Leaves at 4:30

Because of the reorganization of the railway lines as a result of the washout in the southern part of the State, the train for Pacific will leave the campus at exactly four-thirty.

This will make it necessary that all rooters be ready to leave at four or four-fifteen. The train will have to leave exactly on time and all who are planning on going should be on time, or they will have to hitch hike to Stockton.

Dancing After Game
From after the game until eleven o'clock San Jose State Rooters will be entertained by a dance given in their honor by the Pacific student body. At that hour the train will leave Stockton for San Jose.

Stop-over privileges have been extended to all who live in the vicinity, and would like to stay at home for the week-end.

Band Travels
The sixty-piece San Jose State College band will make the trip and will play at the game.

Chairmen for the trip are, Tickets, Bud Applegarth; and food, Frank Covello.

College Music Department Presents Second Annual Concert Series

San Jose State Teachers College is inaugurating its second annual concert with a ticket sale which is being held this week. Last year's series drew crowds to the Morris Dailey auditorium, and this year's series—splendid as it is with world-recognized artists—should draw even more. The concerts will be held on Tuesday evenings.

Celebrated Pianist
Charles Cooper gives the first concert on November 15. Charles Cooper was born in San Francisco, has an international reputation as an artist, has concertized for fifteen years in the United States and three years in Europe. He is a man worth hearing.

Boy Choir
On January 10 San Jose State brings the Vienna Boys' Choir, A choir of 24 boys—and with a far-famed European reputation, at that—is something California seldom hears, and something the state should take advantage of while the choir is in this part of the country. These boys are on their first American tour, and their appearance in this territory will be among their first on the coast.

Renowned Violinist

Japanese Davis Cup Team in Exhibition Match at San Jose

SATUH AND KAWAWORA PLAY BRILLIANTLY FOR LARGE STUDENT GALLERY

Some five hundred San Jose students yesterday enjoyed an exhibition of tennis between Mr. Satuh and Mr. Kubawora, Japanese Davis cup stars, who, with Dr. Graham and Mr. Blesh, to win an interesting match.

In the first set Mr. Satuh and Dr. Graham defeated Mr. Kubawora and Mr. Blesh 8-6. At the conclusion of the doubles, Mr. Satuh and Mr. Kubawora played an exhibition set of singles. The set was finally won by Mr. Kubawora, 9-7, after a terrific struggle in which both players brought in a remarkable repertoire of strokes. The volleying and backhand shots of both players time and again brought gasps of amazement and coupled with the burst of applause from the spectators.

Mr. Satuh has recently caused considerable comment by his wins over Ellsworth Vines, who is ranked as world's champion. Last Tuesday Mr. Satuh defeated young Vines in an exhibition match. Mr. Kubawora is Japanese national champion.

The generosity of these players in consenting to play for the State students is greatly appreciated by all, and Dr. Hazeltine, who was instrumental in securing this exhibition, is to be congratulated.

Date for Game With Weber May Be Changed

Contradictory to the tentative football schedule, S. J. State will not meet the Weber Junior College, November 26. According to Webster Benton, athletic manager, the date will be November 29 if the contest takes place.

Benton is endeavoring to complete a two year contract with the Utah institution, which will insure a return game there next season. This appears possible at present, as they are in favor of this plan.

Weber meets Santa Rosa November 24, and wants a game with State Spartans on the 29th, which will make a perfect stop for them as they are enroute to Honolulu.

WATSON LOOKS GOOD IN FRESHMEN BACKFIELD

The Frosh certainly got off to a flying start Friday afternoon. The score clearly indicates the extent of some of the talent that decided to cast its lot with San Jose State. A young fellow named Watson was the shining light of the backfield. He hails from faraway Pennsylvania, where he evidently learned plenty about lugging the old apple. Kellogg and Hildebrand also showed up exceptionally well in the ball-packing department. The outstanding man in the line was a guard from Hollister by the name of Lompa.

F.W.C. Conference Changes Are Numerous in Its History

With the growth and development of football in our American colleges in the early 90's came the inception of the conference idea. Being a highly competitive game, teams soon became dissatisfied with free-lance schedules which led nowhere in particular. The natural consequence was the banding together of schools with kindred academic, as well as athletic, interests, into self-governing bodies—called conferences.

These bodies covered such matters as eligibility, scholarship, officials and officiating, contractual relationships, schedules and schedule-making, etc.

Today very few schools do not belong to some sort of a conference and even those which do not generally respect a majority of the rules of the conference with which they have most frequent relations. Notre Dame, Santa Clara, and St. Mary's are three typical examples of non-conference institutions. The latter two, playing especially Pacific Coast conference colleges, abide almost completely by the rules of that conference, even though they are not members.

This background leads to a brief discussion of the Far Western conference of which San Jose State is a member. In September, 1925, representatives of the College of the Pacific, California Aggies, St. Mary's, Fresno, University of Nevada, and Santa Clara University met in San Francisco to discuss the advisability of banding together for the promotion of inter-college athletics in their respective institutions.

F. W. C. Formed

After considerable discussion, the Far Western conference was born. The first athletic competition within the conference was conducted that fall in football, St. Mary's emerging champions, without the loss of a game.

At the December meeting of the conference in 1928, Chico State and San Jose State applied for membership in the conference, both eventually being accepted to full membership.

Present Contenders

The fall of 1928 found Fresno State, Chico State, San Jose State, University of Nevada, California Aggies, and the College of Pacific bottling it out for the conference title in football. These six schools

New Rules Require Softer Padding for Football Uniforms

USE OF HANDS IS LIMITED TO PREVENT HEAD INJURIES

By Dud DeGroot

The close students of the game, player or coach, finds several other rule changes which are far more important than any of those I have mentioned, but which will in all probability escape the notice of the spectator. One change requires that the padding, especially thigh pads, which are generally made of hard fibre, be covered with a layer of soft padding on their exterior surface. This rule is designed especially for the protection of defensive players, who have heretofore been open to considerable damage by hard blocking on the part of inter-ferrers.

Another change which caused much newspaper comment on the sporting pages last spring, is the rule which pertains to the use of the hands by the defensive team. At first it was thought that this change would revolutionize defensive line play. Coaches and officials associations throughout the country have agreed upon a uniform interpretation of the new rule, which will actually not change the defensive aspect of play one iota so far as the spectator is concerned. Technically, so long as the defensive man is making a legitimate attempt to get at the ball or ball-carrier, there is practically no change in the rule this year over last. The object of the change was designed to eliminate needless and brutal "striking" of the head and face of the offensive player by the defensive lineman.

Watch for the conclusion of Dud DeGroot's explanation of the 1932 football rules in the next issue.

Pacific Coach Fires Tiger Stars for Break in Training Rules

With a statement to the effect that there are only "too many men willing to cut the buck and keep trailing to overlook the discrepancies of just a few," Coach Erwin "Swede" Righter of the College of the Pacific dropped two men from the Bengal squad after practice Tuesday night.

According to very good sources, other men on the squad are at present on probation. Coach Righter refused to divulge their names.

It is unfortunate that these men are lost to the squad as they were definite cogs in the new Righter attack—the Pacific shift. It is definitely certain that Righter's action was not merely a "gesture" to keep the boys in check, but is final as far as he is concerned.

Star Hurt

Pacific was dealt a blow when it was learned that "Easty" Eastbrook, alternate fullback, would be physically unfit to play against the Legion Saturday night. A leg injury to the big Los Gatos boy will keep him on the sidelines.

Another jolt was handed Pacific's chances when Carl Brown's knee injury failed to respond to treatment. The big San Francisco tackle is hobbling about like a young hippo with the gout.

Fresno State Is Picked Favorite in F.W.C. Race

According to dope, Fresno State is the team to beat in the 1932 Far Western Conference race.

Fresno defeated the San Diego Marines 12-0, who in turn defeated the West Coast Army by one touchdown. Last Saturday the Bulldogs lost a one point decision to the yellow-legs by a 7-6 score, after outplaying them the majority of the game. The Army having defeated the Olympic Club comprise the present membership size of their student body will enable them to meet their conference obligations, and present indications lead to the belief that that day is not far distant.

Waddington Makes Publicity Possible for State Gridders

THERON FOX WILL HANDLE BROADCASTING BOOTH AT SPARTAN FIELD

San Jose State football fans who are unable to attend the game at Spartan field will have the pleasure of listening to them over Station KQW of San Jose.

The entire cost of setting the apparatus on the field for the remote control system will be carried by M. T. Waddington of the San Jose Creamery. George Thompson, Duke of the Spartan Knights, has been working for some time attaining commission of the student body athletic board. He also negotiated all arrangements with Mr. Waddington and the radio station.

Four home games will be broadcasted, starting with the Sacramento game, October 15. There is also a possibility of the fifth if proper contact is made with the Weber Junior College.

Theron Fox, collegiate sports authority, will have the microphone, and will give a splendid account of the game.

For the benefit of spectators in the stands a public broadcasting system will be on the field to announce the game.

The entire affair will be sponsored by the Spartan Knights under the auspices of the student body.

6 to 0, has a great team and the Club held the California Bears to a 6-6 tie for three quarters, putting the Fresno Staters up with the best of them.

Fresno plays at San Jose Saturday, October 22.
