Placement Photos Taken At Time Of La Torre Sittings

Seniors who are having placement pictures made this year are requested to have them taken at the same time they have yearbook photographs made.

All students who intend to use the college Placement office in securing positions after they graduate are required to have at least eight of these pictures on file in that office. This applies especially to students seeking teaching positions.

Photographs for the La Torre are being taken by Bushnell's Studio, 34 North First street, any time between 9:45 and 4:30 o'clock daily. Appointments for sittings are being made in the Publications office from 9 to 3 o'clock.

Students should know exactly how many pictures will appear in the yearbook so that all may be taken at the same time to eliminate the need of additional appointments.

Duplicate cards will be filled out

CHAPLAIN E. RICHARD BARNES

Chaplain E. Richard Barnes Will Talk To Students At Meeting; $2600 Is Set As Quota For Army, Navy Selectees

College Departments Divided Into Two Teams; Urge All To Do Their Part

Featuring Chaplain E. Richard Barnes, lieutenant (s.g.) of the U. S. Navy at Moffett Field, San Jose State's War Chest-Navy day assembly tomorrow will be the initial "go-sign" for the campus Army and Navy selectees competing for an all-out War Chest victory.

With departments in the college divided equally into Army and Navy branches of the Spartan service, competition on the two fronts for their respective destinations of $1300 each will begin after the assembly. Ten minutes after each class hour thereafter will be allotted to the lieutenants, who will act as solicitors, explaining the War Chest, distributing contribution slips, and urging students to do their share. Each contributor will be given a receipt and a service tag, indicating active duty in the War Chest attack. Placed at strategic points on the campus, contribution boxes will be available in the Publications office, the new Business office, Dean of Men's

Informal Drive For Membership Launched By SCA

An informal campaign is now under way to gain members for the Student Christian association.

Started yesterday noon following the cabinet meeting, the campaign will end Thursday evening with a membership supper. Cabinet members are now contacting people who have shown interest in the organization so far this fall.

The membership supper will be held Thursday evening, October 28, at the old Varsity house, 162 South Seventh street, at 5:45 p. m.

Speaker for the evening is to be Rev. Robert Rankin, pastor of the Methodist church of Sunnyvale. His topic is "Why Bother?"

Rev. Rankin is a graduate of Yale Divinity school, and was well received by the group when he spoke last summer.

Classes Meet Today At 12:30

Taking advantage of the senior and freshmen orientation periods, the sophomores and juniors will hold class meetings at the same time today.

Regular orientation periods are from 12:30 to 1:05 p. m. every Tuesday. The seniors will meet in room 55, the juniors in room 7, sophomores in room 24, and the freshmen in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

Student Body Dance

DRESSY SPORT IS STYLE FOR STUDENTS WHO WILL GO SPOOK STOMPING SATURDAY

"Wear your best duds at the Spook Stomp, girls," says Social Affairs committee chairman Beverlee Greer. "We want to show those engineers the tops in Spartan glamour. Dressy sport will be the style—for looks, plus comfort."

The Hallowe'en dance is scheduled for Saturday night in the Men's gym with 300 Santa Clara Army engineers on the guest list.

The affair will be stag to the engineers and Spartanettes, but men students must bring their own guests. Women students may bring their own escorts if they wish. Charge for outsiders will be 40 cents. ASB cardholders and Santa Clarans will be admitted free.

Decorations, under supervision of Jackie Harper, will emphasize the theme, with pumpkins, ghosts and skeletons placed in strategic positions.

Entertainment will be handled by Carmendale Fernandes.

The committee will meet today at 4 o'clock in the Student Union to complete arrangements for the dance.

Student Council

Senior, Junior Judges For Student Court Named At Council Meeting Yesterday

Bette Jane Toland and Barbara Mitchell Kirtley have been named to fill the positions of senior judges on the Student Court, and Marjorie Howell, junior judge, it was announced at the Student Council meeting yesterday.

The new court members were suggested at a previous council meeting, and were approved following their official acceptance of the positions.

Society Members Show Patriotism

Stiff legs and strained backs were much in evidence yesterday morning as a result of the patriotic gesture shown by the eight members of Pi Epsilon Tau, general elementary society, who spent Sunday morning in the tomato patches contributing to the War Chest fund.

Those who spent the day in toil were Iris Bakeman, Evelyn Morrison, Betty Moss, Virginia Shottenhamer, Yvonne Taylor, Eleanor Crolle, Betty Daw, and Enza Baglione.

With an eye to the future council members will investigate plans for the traditional Spartan Revelries, winter quarter presentation of student talent, in the musical and dramatics field. Jeanette Owen and "Scrappy" Squatrito were appointed to see Lawrence C. Mendenhall, head of the Speech department, to determine possibilities of handling the show in the customary style this year and to get a line on students who would be interested in performing or acting as directors, script writers, or stage hands.

As an added push in the drive toward 100 per cent ASB membership, the council will contact all students who signed up for library privilege cards with a notation to the effect that they intended to purchase ASB cards.

To complete the check on ASB membership, organizations are requested to have their lists of members and their ASB card numbers in by Thursday. According to the constitution, no student may belong to an organization unless he or she is an ASB member.

Major Stafflebach, Ex-Education Head, Assigned To New Air Corps Branch

Major E. H. Stafflebach, former head of the Education department, has been assigned to duty in a new branch of the air corps in Washington, D. C.

The unit, which was ordered established by General Arnold personally and is directed by him, has placed Major Stafflebach second in command. Leaving SJS during September, 1942, the major was formerly stationed at Orlando, Florida, in a bombardment group.

In a letter received by the Education department recently, Major Stafflebach stated, "... Our nation's ability to jump in and win this war has depended largely upon the program of universal education we have supported in the past. The rank and file of the American army is filled with young men of high school and college level. Ask anything of them and they can do it because they are educated and intelligent.

"I have had buck privates in my outfit who have MA degrees. Best of all, they are willing to do anything, make any sacrifice, to get on with the war. It makes me at once proud and humble to see them.

"After this war, I expect to work for the support of public education as I have never worked for it before, because I believe that up to now it is the thing of chief importance that the American people have accomplished toward the fulfillment of the spirit of the Constitution."

COME ONE -- COME ALL

It would be just like gilding the proverbial lily to plead with SJS women to "be sure and attend ye gala Spook Stomp this Saturday night" when everyone knows that the Santa Clara engineers, 300 strong, will be there.

Likewise, it would be just as needless to drop a gentle hint in the direction of the somewhat deflated male population here, when they are perfectly aware that their presence as retainers of customs of a bygone day will be in great demand.

But nevertheless, as our friend Mrs. 'awkins would say, it shouldn't go amiss to mention the fact that an excellent opportunity to demonstrate a little of that school spirit will be given to those who have been known to grumble about its absence, Saturday night at the Associated Student Body dance. All right—so it's men you've been griping about! This is one time that possibility of being one of the "forgotten six" of the seven-to-one situation here should be eliminated.

Added to the colorful decorations provided by the presence of the engineers will be Hallowe'en "trappin's" plus tentative ultra-special spook entertainment. Bring your own date or help entertain the "300" at the Spook Stomp!

OFF WASHINGTON SQUARE

By LORRAINE GLOS

Modesto Junior college had a poll the other day on the subject of whether or not there has been a "decrease in masculine manners around the campus since the man shortage," or a difference in feminine attitude since men have become scarce on campus.

The outcome was just as one would expect. The women thought there was a difference and so did the men. The men claimed the women were easier to get now and that they really don't care about age any more. The women claimed masculine manners have declined. If you sum up all the answers, there seems to be a contradiction somewhere.

Down at City college, Los Angeles, students maintain they are just not acting the same since the soldiers appeared on campus. The most noted change is in their vocabulary. The collegians now tell their complaining friends to "blow it out of their barracks bags," when they want them to do their griping elsewhere. When a co-ed walks down the street she uses military methods on the soldiers. She tells herself to "remember your objective and keep the initiative."

Well, some students go to college to learn English, and might as well learn the latest style.

Last week there appeared in this column a poem dedicated to those Spartans who trained at Farragut. From the Washington university Evergreen in the page edited by the air corps appeared a poem that can be dedicated to all those fellows who left San Jose State college to train in Texas.

Squadron I, which came from

Shppard Field and are now stationed at Washington university, have added this preface to the poem. "We all believe that the following poem aptly expresses our feeling for this great state."

"War is Hell," said the man as he laughed;

He knew darn well I was caught in the draft—

So they sent me to Texas to prepare for the worst,

For to appreciate Hell you must see Texas first.

If Hitler could look at this desolate place

He'd give up the battle and turn green in the face.

One drink of the water, one look at the terrain,

He could easily see he'd have nothing to gain;

So, if you aren't a believer, and doubt every word,

And the picture I've drawn still seems to be blurred,

You must be a Texan, this state you must love,

'Cause only a Texan could love the above.

The College of Pacific won the football game with Del Monte last week but they also lost—their money. It seems a gentleman walked up to several ticket booths at the C.O.P. game and asked, "Do you boys have enough change?" They said they had enough and thinking the men were officials of the school, turned over to them sacks of money.

It was estimated that $1600 was taken in loose change.

Well, they won the game any-buzzin' by bee laurence

I saw my first football game this season Sunday afternoon. Strictly high-school stuff—must have been freshmen at that. I thought the colleges were the only institutions of supposed learning suffering from the manpower shortage.

The game was interesting in a scientific sort of way. I still can't figure out how the Blue's did it. Astronomy, physics, physiology—don't know what they used, but it certainly worked. Every time the Green's got within sight of the goal, they would lose 15 yards trying to push their way through the Blue line.

One time the Blue's were penalized 15 yards, which brought the Green's about five yards from a score. Two plays later they were five yards from the opposite goal. Maybe they were running backwards. I took time out to wink at a sailor, and when I opened my eye, the Blue's had chalked up another seven points.

The only reason I was a Green fan was that my high school had the same colors. The two schools are alike in a number of ways. We never won, either. All the rugged farmers' sons had to work at home and couldn't go out for practice. The city boys were all anemic individuals. Guess we were located too far from the coast.

Anyway, it was perfectly obvious that the Blue's had the better team. And the Green's the better yell leaders. Blondes; two of 'em. And a style that would have been put to more appropriate use in front of a Rose Bowl crowd. It seemed an awful waste of energy, with only a dozen rooters to back 'em up. However, they offered grand entertainment to the servicemen.

'Twas said that the Green team operated under a great handicap Sunday. They had all been to a party the night before. I don't say that is true. But it was odd that every time one of them was knocked down, he got up holding his head. Result of too much "night before the morning after," rumor has it.

But they'll probably live. Any number of years. You know how that poem goes:

LIQUOR AND LONGEVITY

The horse and mule live 30 years
And know nothing of wines and beers;

The goat and sheep at 20 die
And never taste of Scotch or rye;

The cow drinks water by the ton
And at 18 is nearly done;

The dog at 15 cashes in Without the aid of rum or gin;

--GUEST COLUMN--

By ELSA ANDERSON

Here I am starting my fourth year at San Jose State college. The time has passed by so quickly that it is hard for me to realize that I am now one of those "high and mighty" seniors" that I gazed upon with such awe in my freshman year.

College has turned out to be for me quite an interesting institution. There is a place here for everyone and everyone's interests—academically and socially! College life is an experience that is irreplaceable—one that you cannot get in any other way than by attending college.

In retrospect I can see that each year has been different from the preceding year. As a freshman I was as green as they come. My studies terrified me. I felt too incompetent to take part in any activities, for they ran so smoothly with no help from me at all. Consequently I sat back and watched. At times I wondered if I would ever finish—the future looked dark and the road very long. But it wasn't as bad as I had anticipated—in fact it wasn't bad at all.

As the time rolled on I became better acquainted with Washington Square and found different things I could do. I would like to urge each new student to start right now and get into an activity that you are interested in. You freshmen have four years ahead of you and they can be four memorable years if you start living them in your first year. Remember—you get out of college just what you put into it. That goes for your curricular and extra-curricular activities.

I think that the most worthwhile work on the campus is going on now in our Red Cross room. It functions all day and every day. The work is purely voluntary and is very much appreciated. If you can sew, well sign up to be a captain. Otherwise sign up to sew. By all means plans to sew that extra hour—that you waste in the Co-op.

The cat in milk and water soaks
And then in 12 short years it croaks;

The modest, sober, bone-dry hen
Lays eggs for noggs, then dies at ten.

All animals are strictly dry—
They sinless live and swiftly die,
But sinful, ginful, rum-soaked men
Survive for three score years and ten—
And some of us, the mighty few,
Keep drinkin' 'till we're 92!

Makes me thirsty to think of it.
Guess I'll buzz over to the Koop and have a coke. I'd like to see whether the ash trays are still disappearing. Seems that in order to give the place a Spartan (instead of a Spartanette) appearance, the women students have taken to holding "smokers" there. Good business for the Co-op. Except that the gals can't quite get rid of their feminine instincts toward interior decorating. Latest table arrangements include an ash tray from the Co-op. Which is proving an expensive luxury for the management. And makes me wonder if maybe they didn't get rid of that victory garden art piece just to cut down overhead. Little do they know how thin I've become these past few weeks. My only source of energy is my roommate's supply of vitamin pills. Hint to the Co-op: They're getting mighty low. Contributions gratefully accepted.

Spartan Waterpolo Team Will Clash With Olympic Club Tomorrow Night In College Pool; Close Match Expected

Running into its first really tough opposition, the Spartan varsity waterpolo team will clash with the S. F. Olympic club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Spartan pool.

With Frank Goulette and Tudor Bogart pacing the varsity, the Staters expect to give the Olympians a terrific fight if not ending up by bringing home the bacon.

Goulette and Bogart are the only members of the team who have had any sort of experience whatsoever. Goulette is a veteran of two year's experience on the Spartan varsity, while Bogart has had three years of high school water polo. Bogart will occupy the center forward spot while Goulette will be one of the two starting forwards.

Although Coach Ed Loudon has not officially announced his starting lineup other than these two, Mal Sinclair will probably be the other forward, Fontes and Reiser at the guard positions, possibly Byers at center back, and Ted Thomson may reign at the goalie position.

The members of the Wing-O team are experienced veterans with the great advantage of having played together for years.

The State team members are inexperienced, yes, but they certainly don't have a lack of the fighting Spartan spirit. That this is so has been proved during practice and the time they smothered the San Jose Hi team to the tune of 12 to 6.

ASB cardholders will be admitted to the game free. The public will be charged a nominal fee.

ticularly normal college student if you have been in the Health cottage all week and got well on Friday, for Friday is the magical day for patients there, Miss Twombly said, a twinkle in her eye.

Monday is the "rush day" at the Health cottage, for more students enter Monday than on any other day. Some who got well on Friday return and some who should have entered Thursday or Friday postponed it until Monday to keep that date.

And if you get an attack of appendicitis at the end of the quarter, you are still just a normal college student, for by the time the end of the quarter gets in sight, the Health department begins looking and listening for one, for there are always one or two cases of appendicitis then, stated Miss Twombly.

When exam time arrives and you forget to report to the Health department for the service you need, you are only a normal college student, for health and hygiene business suffers a lull before exams.

So, whatever you get, why worry?

There will be a meeting of all Chemistry majors tomorrow at 12 noon in room 100 of the Natural Science building. Please bring your lunch.

There will be a meeting of the sophomore class council in room 24 today at 12:15. All sophomores who are interested are invited to come.

by each student. One will be kept on file in the La Torre office and the student must present the other to the photographer before pictures will be taken.

Sororities will be given cards so that their members may sign up for appointments on a special day allotted to them. Any member who cannot have her sitting on that day may make an appointment later.

Dress for sororities will be white blouses, while other organizations will wear dark coats or jackets and white blouses with a collar. Men's organizations will be dressed in dark suits or coats and ties. Caps and gowns for seniors will be available at the studio.

Two poses will be granted at each sitting. Unless the standard quality of the work is at fault, no resittings will be given.

Payment for initial sittings must be made at the time the picture is made. Duplicates may be paid for later. Price is $1 for each sitting, 75 cents for duplicates. Proofs will be ready three days following sitting. Students will have 10 days in which to make a selection.

Students need not order additional pictures at the time of their sittings, but the studio requests that if the student intends to have some prints made for personal use, he should inform the photographer before the picture is taken.

PAGE SPACE

Organizations must make reservations for page space with Business Manager Jean Petrinovich within the next two weeks. Miss Petrinovich will be at her desk in the Publications office from 11 to 12 o'clock Wednesday and Friday, and from 9 to 10 tomorrow and Thursday.

Prices are as follows: 30 or more members, double-page spread, $25; 15-29 members, single page, $15; 14 or less members, half-page, $7.50; groups, half-page, $7.50.

The following members of the La Torre staff will be at the desk today to take appointments: Bobbie Jones, 9-10; Peggy Akard, 10-11; Catherine Eaby, 11-12; Jean La Fevre, 12-1; Laura Ann Fear, 1-2; and Pat Keating, 2-3.

Men's Basketball Teams Sign For Intramural League

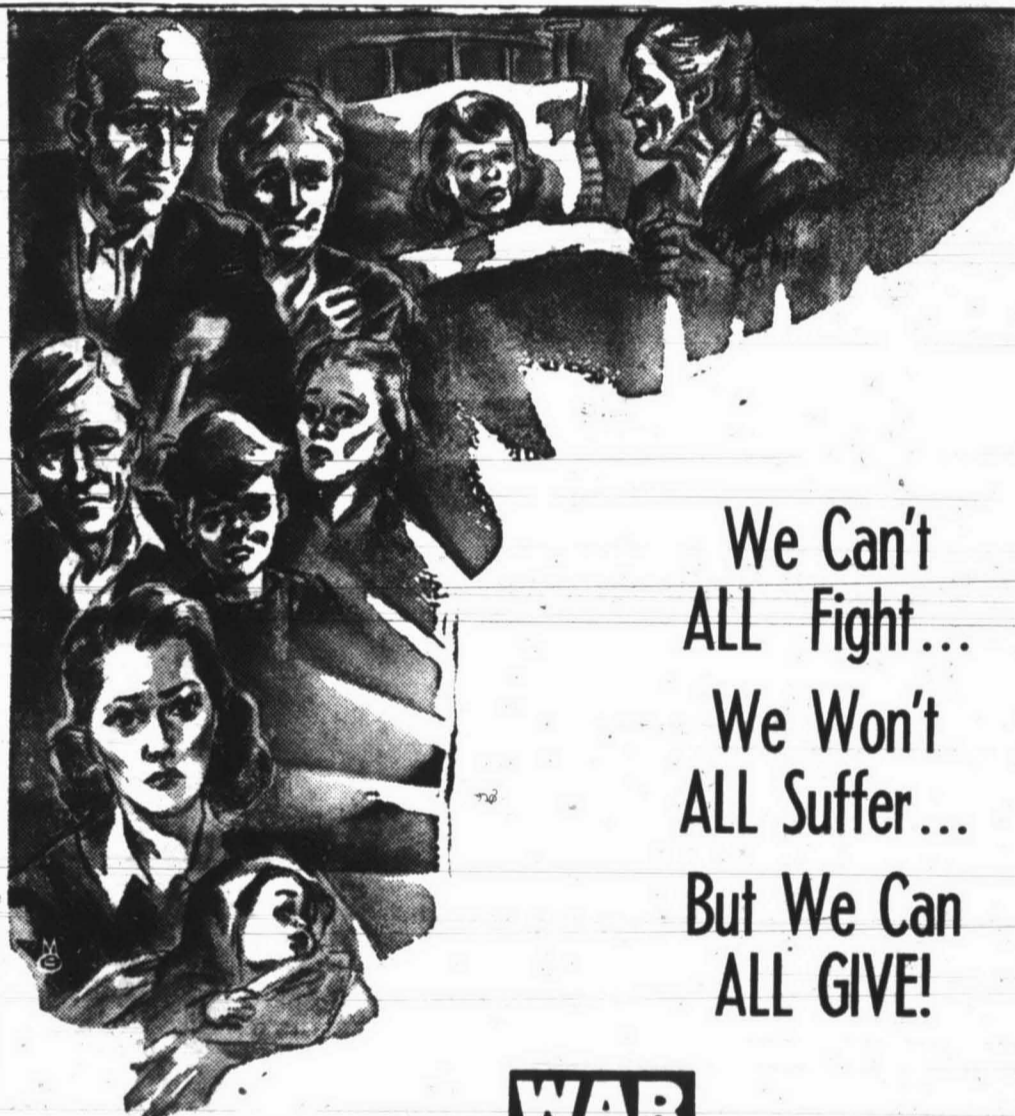

With an eye to possible material for the varsity basketball squad this year, P.E. head, Glenn "Tiny" Hartranft, announced yesterday that an intramural league will soon be started.

Any combine of five men on the campus may enter a team by just walking into the P.E. office and signing up. Games will be played every noon except Friday under the guidance of "Tiny" Hartranft and Bill Hubbard.

"Here is a chance to build up some competitive spirit on the campus and also gives us a chance to see what sort of material we're going to have when the basketball season rolls around," said Hartranft.

SPARTANS IN THE SERVICE

By ED WAITE

Second Lieut. Ernest Carl Jorgensen, 22, graduate of San Jose State college, has completed advanced officer training at the Quantico, Virginia, marine corps base, and is now ready for assignment to a combat unit of special-ist school. He went up through the ranks to gain his commission. He is a member of Sigma Gamma Omega fraternity.

In a letter addressed to the Spartan Daily staff, Mel Johnson in the Navy's V-12 unit at State Teachers college, Valley City, North Dakota, writes: "Just a line to let you know that I am receiving the Daily you are sending me; thank you all very much. When at San Jose State I never realized how much it meant to a service man to get the Daily."

"All of us Spartans here get together once in a while and hold a regular Spartan rally with all the trimmings. The people around here say that they have never seen a group of fellows so loyal to their alma mater as we are."

"The fellows here from Santa Barbara State college were awfully surprised to find that you put out a Daily, especially in times like these. You are really doing a swell job; keep up the good work and keep the Dailies coming."

"Tell all my friends to write to me here. My address is A.S. V-12, U. S. Navy Reserve, S.C., Valley City, North Dakota. P. S.—"

"Just heard today we get an 11-day leave at Christmas time, so you will be seeing us then."

Paul Borg, Doug Corbin, Don Campbell, Don Wolfe, and Crawford Gates just found out today that they will be going to Columbia university, for midshipman school."

Whenever we get a letter as good as this one it is a pleasure to run it in full.

Missing in action is Flight Officer E. Wendell Roberts, who formerly attended San Jose State college, where he was member of Delta Theta Omega fraternity and the order of De Molay.

During the first 18 months of his service he was with the 29th engineers stationed in Alaska and Arizona. He transferred to the air corps last year and took his elementary training at Santa Ana, his preliminary training at Santa Maria, and his basic work at Merced. He received his wings last January at Williams Field, Arizona. He has been missing since October 1 in the European area.

There is almost a regular reunion of Spartans in uniform on the campus this week. Dean Pitman has called for an assembly Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at which all of the uniformed Spartans are asked to appear. It will be one of the highlights of the quarter. The following Spartans in the service have visited the campus this week: John Watson, Navy V-12'er, who has been stationed at College of Pacific since last July, 1943, majoring in medicine. He will be here until next Thursday. Wayne Staley, another Navy V-12'er who has been attending University of Southern California. He has finished up down there and is now waiting for orders that will put him in midshipmen's school back at Columbia.

Doug Aitken has been down at University of Southern California. He leaves Thursday morning for Norfolk, Virginia. Don Rouse, navy at UCLA. Leaves today for Columbia university.

Al Sonntag, former star basketball player at San Jose State college, is here on a short leave. He is in the army air corps. Marine Fred Brant, who has been stationed at University of California, goes back to school Friday. Marine Russ Miller has been stationed at University of Redlands. Lieut. Bill Helbush, army air corps, stationed at Alamogordo Field, New Mexico. Lieut. (s.g.) Bill Cranston of the merchant marine. Ensign Joe Talbot, just returned from Columbia university.

Kent Dedrick has been stationed at University of Southern California. Leland and Elwood Clark. Both have been going to Redlands university at Redlands, California. Elwood is in the marine corps and his brother, Leland, is in the navy unit down there. Bob Nerell arrived in San Jose Sunday, October 24, but had to leave that same night in order to report for duty. He has finished up at Redlands university.

each period allotted for that purpose. Lieutenants will answer any further questions that may arise concerning the present War Chest invasion at that time.

On the back of the contribution slips are printed the 37 agencies of the War Chest. Preferences may be checked and all, or that part designated, of the money contributed by the individual signing the slip will be given to those agencies.

Progress of the Army (to Berlin) and Navy (to Tokyo) will be marked off on the chart to be published each day. Goal for each branch of the Spartan service per day will be $433, in order to complete the $2600 quota of the college. The side reaching its destination first will have conquered the enemy.

Chaplain Barnes, tomorrow's speaker, was recently transferred from the thick of the Pacific fight to Moffett Field. He has been a Navy man since July, 1941, and his first duty was in the chief of chaplain's office in Washington, D. C., for a period of three months. The following three months were spent aboard a carrier in the North Atlantic, then through the canal and subsequently 16 grueling months in the Pacific.

Chaplain Barnes is a native of Minnesota, and a member of the Central New York Conference of the Methodist church. Before enlisting in the navy, his parish was the Epworth Methodist church in Elmira, California.

BIBLIOPHILES CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Bibliophiles elected officers for the fall quarter at their Thursday meeting.

Barbara Healy was chosen president; Betty Moss, vice-president and president-elect; and Ruth Bettinger, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Elizabeth Groves of the Education Reading room is faculty adviser for the group this year.

The "Bibs" is a society for the library majors and minors.

It was voted that the society would complete a patchwork quilt and an afghan as Red Cross work for this quarter. Members who do not know how to knit have a chance to learn as Miss Groves and Ruth Heintze will teach them.

Arrangements are being made for the society to accompany Miss Groves to San Francisco to a meet-
