THURSDAY RALLY TO BE DIFFERENT, CLAIMS CHAIRMAN AL RAFFAELLI

"Come to the rally Thursday night, and hear the radio broadcast of the Cal Poly game two days before the game starts," said Al Raffaelli, chairman of the rally committee. The rally, which will be held in the Morris Dailey auditorium at 7:30 Thursday evening promises to be a novel event, according to Raffaelli. Really different entertainment is being planned for the rally, he added.

People have already begun to sign up for the automobile caravan to San Luis Obispo for the game with Cal Poly, reported Raffaelli, and more are expected to contact him today and tomorrow. Raffaelli was unable to estimate the total number of students actually making the trip, but several hundred are expected.

All students planning to drive down to the game are asked to contact Raffaelli through box "R" in the coop.

Chi Pi Sigma Says 'No Trip Friday'

Contrary to reports, Chi Pi Sigma, police fraternity, is not sponsoring an overnight trip to San Luis Obispo over the weekend. The bus trip, open to all students desiring to go to the San Jose-Cal Poly game, will be Saturday not Friday.

Cost for the round trip will be $3.76 per person, according to Norman Ansley, publicity agent.

CHANGE IN DRAFT REGULATIONS PUTS RESPONSIBILITY ON STUDENTS

"Rules for the current draft have been changed to make it the individual student's responsibility to provide written proof that he is a full-time student in good standing at State college in order to receive a deferred classification," announced Dean of Men Paul M. Pitman today.

Dean Pitman's announcement followed a call from the local draft board. He explained that in the draft, previous to World War II the draft board called the college to inquire as to a student's Forensic Adviser Asks For Volunteers To Sign With Coach

Wilbur F. Luick, faculty adviser of the Forensic group and coach of the debating team, has issued a call for any students interested in forensic activities to contact him in his office, room 159a, Thursday, Oct. 13, after 2:30 p.m.

The aims of the Forensic group include, debate, discussion, oratory and extemporaneous speaking. The San Jose State college debate team is a member of the Western Speech association and the National Debating association.

Debates will be held with College of Pacific, Stanford, and other western colleges, on the subject of free economy versus controlled economy.

Any holder of a student body card is eligible to become a member of the group. Experience in debate is not mandatory, but it is desirable. "Experienced debaters have a better knowledge of the underground fundamentals," Luick said.

Discussions are held, as well as debates. Last year, several radio discussions were held, he added. Usually, the debates and discussions are held before an outside audience. The International Relations club on campus, and civic groups around San Jose, usually compose the audience.

status. However, the new rules leave it entirely up to the individual.

Dean Pitman said failure to get the required information to the board in time could result in disruption of a student's routine by making it necessary to take the physical examination for the draft. To avoid that unnecessary disturbance, plans for getting the information to the board will be completed as soon as possible and interested students will be notified, according to Dean Pitman.

The two plays are The Noble Lord by Percival Wilde, and Bound East for Cardiff, by Eugene O'Neill. The Noble Lord has a cast of two men and one woman, Dr. Gillis stated. Tryouts will be held in room 157. This production will be directed by Joe Roberts, a student.

Bound East for Cardiff has a cast of nine men. Student Director Ed Williams will hold tryouts in room 53.

Copies of the scripts for the two plays are on reserve in the speech and drama office, room 57, he said.

NUMBER QUIZ CONTINUES; EDITORS MUM

LaTorre's seven golden numbers have created a stir among readers of Tuesday's Spartan Daily article announcing the existence of the cryptic numbers.

Members of the yearbook staff have been besieged with questions and answers to the question, "Who are the Seven Golden Numbers?"

Co-editors Jim Mapes and Bob Moon have promised that Monday, Oct. 18, will see the Spartan Daily carry full details.

Publicity Manager Bob Rexroad, meanwhile, promises that the golden seven campaign will equal the recent one of the walking man. Bob Moon came through with, "There's gold in them thar stills," (research providing the fact that "stills" is a photographer's term.)

In anticipation of mob violence brought on by the suspense of the situation, Jim Mapes has been spirited away into hiding by anxious friends.

COMMUNITY CHEST DONATIONS LIGHT

Campus Community Chest contributions are progressing slowly toward the goal of $6300, Bill Logan, Chest committee co-chairman, said yesterday.

"An accurate figure of total donations to date is not available," he said, "but contributions are coming in slower than we expected."

Logan told the Daily that those who have been contacted personally by one of the committee representatives should make their contributions as soon as possible. Those who have not been contacted may give to the drive by leaving an envelope containing the donation and addressed to the Community Chest in box "C" in the Coop, or by leaving the donation in the Dean of Men's office.

Logan stressed the point that contributions will be solicited on campus this week only.

DRS. DUNCAN, TILDEN EXPLAIN 'INVASION' BY AIRBORNE INSECTS

ANYTHING GOES

By VERN BAKER

It seems a new arrival in the Joe Juliano family is about to cause a sudden departure of one of the family members, according to Papa Joe.

The Juliano family, blessed recently with the arrival of a baby girl, now find it necessary to get rid of Brandy, their pet cocker spaniel.

"We can't have a baby and a dog, too," says Joe.

The Julianos are looking for someone who will buy the jet black cocker bitch, who must take leave before the end of this week.

BRANDY MUST GO

"We hate to have to get rid of Brandy," says Joe. "The kids at Spartan Village will miss her, too, but we just can't keep her. She's a wonderful house dog."

With tears in his eyes, Juliano recalled how she would roll a ball under the chesterfield and not being able to retrieve it would take a yard stick from the corner and hand it to Joe so he could reach it.

TALKING DOG

"She talks, too," ejaculated Joe. "It was fun to share the doghouse with her."

Brandy got her name on the night Joe brought her home from Biology Instructor Rocco Pisano's Star Kennels. "She was in a brandy case," said Juliano. "In a flash, the idea struck me that I should call her Whiskey. I finally distilled it to Brandy."

Brandy comes from a line of 37 champions, according to Mr. Pisano. He said that she ought to be capable of great things.

Broken hearted, Joe said he'd part with the dog for the paltry sum of thirty dollars. Anyone interested should contact Joe, Mr. Pisano, or leave a note in the Spartan Daily office.

Well, Ellen, anything goes!

If you have been wondering how two Santa Clara men could swipe the 30-foot Cal. banner right from under the noses of more than 23,000 Cal. rooters, keep on reading.

The SCU "Santa Clara" reports that the clever Broncs had enlisted the aid of two "energetic" Cal. rooters to help them to take the clumsy banner down from the poles on which it was attached.

Why would two Cal. men help steal their own banner? Why, they were taking it down before any Santa Clara rooters could steal it, or so they were told.

By JAMES HOFFE

Dr. Carl D. Duncan, acting head of the Science department, and Dr. James W. Tilden, entomology professor, explained last Thursday's mysterious airborne "invasion" of California to the press as a phenomenon of the insect world.

Thousands of Californians shared the excitement and chills of the fantastic "sky invasion." Frantic reports shouted "flying discs," "floating bombs strung on silken threads," "strange parachutes," and numerous other sky menaces.

TASS REPORT

Russia's news agency, Tass, said in an unconfirmed report that Americans are so war-minded they believed an invasion from Mars was upon them. Those people in northern California suffer unduly from war nerves, Tass was reported as saying.

At home San Joseans kept police and newspaper office personnel at their telephones trying to answer questions. From the east foothills to Willow Glen calls kept coming in.

In the Bay Area, Air Force and Coast Guard planes were rushed into the air. A helicopter and one boat were pressed into action.

DUNCAN, TILDEN TELL ALL

The explanation made by Dr. Duncan and Dr. Tilden was broadcast throughout the state and made front page news in the Mercury Herald and the San Jose News. The two authorities on insects agreed the "invasion" was made by thousands of tiny spiders airborne this time of year by webs shot into the air. Favorable air currents gather the loose webs, bunch them together, and carry webs, spiders and all skyward.

THOMAS QUOTES ESSIG

Lowell Thomas, widely known newscaster, quoted Dr. Edward O. Essig, entomology professor at U.C., as saying that these bundles of web may be the answer to earlier reports of "flying discs." "Even persons with keen vision," Dr. Essig was quoted, "could misjudge the distance of such balls of web in the air and, consequently, they would appear to travel at an incredible rate."

BULLETIN

"Another airborne 'invasion' is under way," Dr. Carl D. Duncan, acting head of the Science department, told the college.

"This time the invaders are California's most destructive termites, the subterranean termite."

The recent showers have tunneling up through the ground. Dr. Duncan explained that these tunnels are serving as "escape hatches" for thousands of young, winged termites forced from their underground nests by the rains.

THRUST AND PARRY

Dear Thrust & Parry:

If you showed the boys in the men's gym a bar of soap you would get the same results as when you showed one to a Frenchman a couple of years ago.

You see, there ain't none. And there has been none to speak of all quarter. Evidently it is a continuation of the pinch-penny, no soap policy of last year.

Can something be done about this or do I have to go on having B. O.

Odeously yours,
ASB-6021.

Dear Thrust and Parry:

There are various ways of suppressing an organization. Hitler showed his way during the past war, and our Student Council showed it recently by deleting the budget for the Inter-religious Council from the list of appropriations.

It seems to me that in these times, IRC should be one of the most active groups on the campus. The students have fraternities, sororities, and clubs that take care of their social life. The Student Council helps their good times too with money for dances and such but what about a thought for the other side of their existence?

The action of the Council is especially appalling because of the fact that they are suppressing a group they themselves started. It can't be that they do not have the money to spend, such a small sum as IRC asked, would not even be missed. What, then, is the reason?

ASB-1212.

Dear Thrust and Parry

We learned today that one of the students has complained about having to stand for five hours during the performance of "Die Meistersinger" yesterday while the professor was sitting in a box.

It is nowhere written that the tickets for $2.40, which are standing tickets, give anyone the claim of being seated. But it is due to the generosity of the manager of the San Francisco Opera Co. that students of San Jose State college, when coming as a group and buying standing tickets, may be seated by ushers as far as seats are available.

Hence, we have pointed out to students, and this holds true for future presentations, that the students should not disperse but stay in a group during the first act. In case vacant seats are available, the ushers will then be able to find the students and seat them.

Now, in our case, the seats for "Die Meistersinger" were sold out. Nevertheless, the management, due to the arrangement it has with us, placed special seats in theater boxes so that all could have the privilege of seeing one of the greatest works ever composed for $2.40 in an armchair seat which would ordinarily cost seven dollars.

If the complainer would have stuck with the group according to the arrangement, she would not have needed to stand five hours at the opera, but should have enjoyed the performance as 22 other students did from seats in the boxes.

HITCHHIKE ADVENTURE ACROSS NATION TOLD BY WEARY SPARTANS

By CARL CASE

Hitch-hiking with everyone from a priest to a circus performer, Cliff Daniels, junior journalism major, and Normand Murillo, senior in industrial arts, toured the United States by thumb to see baseball games and the country.

Starting out with $125, each carrying a small suitcase with a jacket strapped to it, they began a journey which was to exhaust them and their finances before reaching home.

THE JOURNEY BEGINS

Friends took them to Los Angeles where their hitching expedition began. "The temperature never got below 95 degrees, and most of the time it was well above that mark," they said, wiping the beads of perspiration from their sun-burned brows as they stood on the roadside wagging their thumbs in a discouraging attempt to obtain a lift.

"Norm wanted to see the statue of Frank Luke, World War I air ace, at Phoenix," said Daniels. "So we spent the day seeing the statue and the capitol. Arizona was the worst part of the trip. We got stuck 50 miles from Globe where we waited hours for a ride. Finally, in desperation, we caught a bus that took us out of the rut into the one-horse town."

"An aerialist and publicity agent for Daly Brothers Circus gave us a lift, but he looked just as normal as anyone else."

TCU GALS TERRIFIC

"At Texas Christian university some guy tried to talk us into enrolling. He almost succeeded—the women were terrific. Like all other sightseers we had to visit the Will Rogers memorial. Our jackets, for the first and only time, came in handy as we arrived in Fort Worth. It rained for a few hours. Food there was the cheapest we encountered on the whole trip."

From Fort Worth through Oklahoma the twosome rode with a priest who was wearing a sport shirt with the sleeves rolled up—"for comfort," he said.

The car was not new, and the road proved to be the worst in the country.

A DAY IN THE OZARKS

"Spending a whole day traveling through the Ozarks, we were surprised to find it to be as quaint as it is cracked up to be. It was rugged but pretty country. Typical little shacks in the hills appeared to be right out of the panels of Al Capp's 'Dogpatch'."

One night was spent in St. Louis so that the traveling sport fans might see Chicago play St. Louis. The next day they saw a doubleheader in Chicago between Chicago and Detroit at Comiskey Park.

"We spent five days with my relatives in Chicago which was an ease on our pocketbooks," said Daniels. "At the Industrial museum we saw huge airplanes suspended from the ceiling, complete rotary presses ready for operation, and even a life-size coal mine, which we explored."

On the return trip they were picked up by a special investigator of auto thefts for an insurance company. "We were picked up out of the kindness of his heart, not as suspects," they joked. His car was equipped with a siren which cleared the road when he wished the speedometer needle to approach 100 miles per hour.

IOWANS MOST FRIENDLY

"We ran out of rides at the Mississippi river and had to walk across it into Iowa. It certainly was a wide river. Iowa was the friendliest state we visited. Farmers and ranchers constantly gave us lifts. Almost as soon as we left one car, another was stopping for us."

At Denver they became aware that their funds were dwindling, and they had to hurry on to Salt Lake City, via bus. Traveling salesmen always gave them rides. After seeing the Mormon temple, they caught a hop with a pill salesman who for 80 miles told the pair what he'd do with the men in the government if he ever came face to face with them.

They arrived in Reno for breakfast. They wished to see gay Reno at night but moved onward after planning to make Reno a special trip.

NEAR YET FAR

"We were flat broke in Vallejo. We even had to borrow a nickel from a soda-jerk so that we could get the operator to place a collect call to San Jose. Normand's brother came to our rescue with a car and the first square meal in two days," Daniels sighed.

Even as the road-weary travelers were relaxing in the arms of an over-stuffed sofa, maps were in their hands as they planned a hitch-hiking trip to Mexico City for next summer.

They admitted that hitching was pretty tough and discouraging at times, but they were confident that traveling by thumb is the only way to see the world.

Chi Delta Phi Will Be Installed Into Kappa Alpha On Saturday

Chi Delta Phi will join the ranks of the national fraternities when it becomes the Gamma Delta chapter of the Kappa Alpha order at installation ceremonies Saturday. Kappa Alpha will be the fourth national fraternity to establish a chapter on campus.

Ransom H. Bassett, executive secretary of Kappa Alpha, will preside at the installation and present the charter to the new chapter's president, Gerald Owens.

A banquet will be held on Saturday evening at the Bellevue hotel in San Francisco to celebrate the installation of the new chapter at which alumni from the bay area, fraternity officers, and members of the Kappa Alpha chapters at the University of California, Stanford, Southern California, and the University of California at Los Angeles will be present.

FALL COLDS HIT USUAL HIGH HERE, TWOMBLY REPORTS

"If figures mean anything, the usual amount of colds for this time of the year is going around," reports Miss Margaret Twombly, Health office head.

According to the figures compiled by Miss Twombly, 179 health cases were handled last Friday, 37 of which were colds. This figure is the largest since the quarter opened. The figures since September 29 indicate an increase from 11 colds in one day to where they are now fluctuating in the high 30's.

This increase corresponds to the general rising of the total cases seen, Miss Twombly's report reads.

Though the amount of colds for this time of the year is normal, Miss Twombly concludes that one must consider the potential increase the figures indicate. "Students who have colds or feel ill should seek aid immediately," she warns.

Miss Twombly explains further the reason why some students must wait to receive health clinic service. "There are several cases," she mentions, "and the most urgent ones are cared for first."

"A succulent menu of ham, 'with the fixin's,' has already been decided upon," Gifford said, adding that he expects the supper, scheduled to "at least duplicate" the success of last week's barbecue, which more than 100 students attended.

All those interested are invited to attend the committee meeting, he added, which will be held at the Student Y lounge, 220 So. Seventh street.

Where the scheduled supper will take place has not yet been announced.

"SMILIN'" JACK CASEY AND ASSISTANTS ARE BUSY GRID MANAGERS

By ARNOLD WECHTER

On the sport pages of every paper in the country you can read about the exploits of different football teams and the men who coach them, but, nary a word is printed about the men who do the necessary jobs that keep a grid squad clicking. At San Jose it is the student managers who do the dirty work for the gridders and have only the satisfaction of doing a job well.

Under the direction of Pete McNeil, equipment manager for the Spartans, the student managers are led by "Smilin" Jack Casey, who as senior manager has six men under him. Casey who hails from Bridgeport, Conn., decided to stay in San Jose when he met his dream girl. Of course he married her, she is the former Peggy Lou Morris. A former Spartan who majored in home economics. That's why he married her, so he says.

BROKEN ARM

Helping Casey along with the varsity squad are Larry Duncan, Stu Clegg and Dick Bondelle. Bondelle was a varsity guard 'till he broke his arm early in the season. He decided to keep his fingers in the pie by staying on as a manager.

Casey has a new helper who never saw a football game until three weeks ago. He is Niek Moolenijzer of Amsterdam, Holland. Niek arrived in this country less than a month ago and is planning to be a PE instructor. A member of the underground during the war he graduated from the Academy of Amsterdam with an AB in Physical education. Now that he plans to make this country as a home he needs to learn about American sport, and figures helping the team is the best way. The frosh student managers are Lou Harris and Kent Bush.

MANAGERS DUTIES

By this time you are probably wondering just what are the duties of a student manager. They are many and varied, keeping the equipment in good order is one of their many jobs. The players must be kept in clean gear and they must make sure that the laundry is sorted and placed in the right location.

Before practice the managers must check on the playing field to see that it is not too hard for the players. Also they must make sure that no objects are left on the ground to injure the falling players. As Casey puts it, "It gives us a little ground keeping duties to go along with our other work."

Spartans Physically Sound For Cal. Poly. Encounter Saturday

The San Jose State grid squad, barring unforeseen injuries during scrimmage this week, will be in A-1 condition for the first time this fall when they meet California Poly. in their opening CCAA game at San Luis Obispo Saturday night.

The team came out of the Pepperdine game whole and hearty with the exception of Pete Denevi who was knocked out after being clipped on the chin. Denevi, a defensive full and offensive quarterback, is also suffering from a cold, but took part in yesterday's scrimmage, and should be in top shape by Saturday.

The guard spots will definitely be strengthened for the Mustang clash as both Joe Juliano and Dick Harding, first string left and right guards respectively, are ready to go at full speed. Juliano saw action for almost a full quarter against the Waves, after being out of the lineup since the opening game with Stanford.

Even the charley horse, which plague all football players at one time or another, is missing from the team at the present time. Fred Mangini, reserve right half, favored such an injury and did not play against Pepperdine, but has recovered in full.

San Jose will probably need all of their top men, for Cal. Poly. proved they are no longer the doormat of the league after upsetting Fresno State last Saturday, 26-14. The Mustangs are pointing for Coach Bill Hubbard's squad above all other opponents this year, and will undoubtedly make a better showing than last fall when they were swamped 47-0.

SPARTAN DAILY 5

THE SECOND GUESS

By CARL UNDERWOOD

As the still young football season swings into its fifth week, the San Jose State squad has finally started to click.

Despite the 61-6 slaughter of an overrated Pepperdine eleven, however, the Spartans still have a long way to go before they can recapture the CCAA title, and whip such teams as St. Mary's and Brigham Young.

According to reports from those who sat in on the southland debacle, the terrific score resulted from a definitely "hot" San Jose team and a Pepperdine squad that has yet to approach its potential strength.

A great deal of credit should be given to Line Coach Bob Bronzan, who scouted the Pepperdine-Arizona State game so well that the Waves' single wing attack collapsed completely. It was Bronzan who devised a defense against this style of play. How successful it was is clearly shown in the statistics which show the Waves gained but 120 yards from scrimmage.

HUGHES, MENGES GET HOT

After failing to hit receivers with any consistency in all previous games, passers Chuck Hughes and Gene Menges fired six touchdown strikes to a whole host of gold-shirted Spartans. Pepperdine showed very little in the way of a pass defense, but there was no question as to the improvement shown by Hughes, who completed six for 13, and Menges with four for eight.

According to Head Coach Bill Hubbard, the perfect protection given to the passers, which gave them plenty of time to pick out receivers, was an important factor in the improved record of the two quarterbacks. Menges, a sophomore who hails from Anaheim, went all out for hometown fans by losing much of his former nervousness and erratic throwing.

As is often the case, Woody Linn, kickoff expert, was connected with one of the more whimsical incidents of the contest. Terry Bell, the elusive scatback who made several Little All-American teams last year, was his usual shifty self. On all but one of Woody's kickoffs, Bell was consistently piled up but never brought down by a single Spartan. Finally, he ran straight into Linn.

TOSSED TO THE TURF

Woody simply grabbed the 5' 8" Bell by the neck and tossed him to the turf. After trotting off the field, as he does following all kickoffs, Coach Hubbard asked Woody why he didn't tackle Bell lower.

"Tackle that midget lower? I thought I was doing pretty well hitting him no higher than his neck," was Woody's only comment.

An added sidelight to Monday's practice: Joe Juliano, regular left guard, has been sweating it out lately since his wife was about to have their first baby. Monday morning, Judith Anne became the third member of the Juliano family. Joe, not wishing to pass cigars out during practice, was still much sought after for more than an hour. He settled for all day suckers, which proved very popular with everyone on the field.

PASSING ATTACK CLICKS

Hitting their stride for the first time this season, the Spartans in the Pepperdine game last Saturday at last lived up to their pre-season press notices.

Their passing attack, which up to this game had been practically nil, connected for six TD's. A formidable total in anybody's league. Coach Bill Hubbard says the success is due to improved faking, longer protection and, of course, better passing.

Figures show that Gene Menges was the leading passer for the evening. He completed four out of eight attempts, of which three went all the way. Menges had a total yardage gain of 131 yards.

Hughes also completed three touchdown passes, but his yardage gain was less, a total of 81 yards.

Hubbard was very pleased with the whole team. "They all blocked and tackled like they meant it," he said. Hubbard also said that Pepperdine was a good club, big and fast, and that their back, Terry Bell, could play for his team any time.

Carnan will discuss the purpose of Canterbury club work in diocese, stressing the importance of youth in church work, Upson said.

Seniors Make Plans To Sponsor Dances

Dances after San Jose State home football games will be sponsored by the Senior class, President Bob Keller announced at a recent class meeting.

Plans were discussed for a dance Oct. 22, after the Santa Barbara game, chairmanned by Helen Westerberg. Seniors sponsored the successful "off the record" dance following the game with Puget Sound.

Seniors are invited to a "get acquainted" party Oct. 21 from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Student Union, and to class meetings every other Thursday at 4:30 in room 117, said Keller.

VETS' AFFAIRS

Most Spartan veterans will be on the November pay rolls, said Mrs. May Barton of the Veterans office, yesterday.

Mrs. Barton discovered that nearly all veterans have received notices from the Veterans Administration stating they will not receive their checks before Dec. 5. However, she said most vets will receive their subsistence allowance by Nov. 1.

Veterans are requested not to destroy the notice, because its number will be necessary if the vet has to file for unreceived checks.

VETS SHOULD REPORT

The following veterans are requested by Mrs. Jensen of the Veterans office to report to room 32, to sign their letters of eligibility: Arthur E. Bond, Elvin C. DeSelms, Charles E. Finney, James H. Hayes, Howard L. McCalla, William I. Watts, Clyde F. Willie, and Lois B. Sabrist.

Mrs. Jensen stated that any delay in signing the letters of eligibility will result in a delay in the arrival of their subsistence checks.

Veterans office also requested Howard W. Conley, Misaki M. Mishihari, and Louis G. Schmidt to report to room 32 to see Mrs. Jensen in regard to a refund.
