Office Seekers Face Deadline For Applying

"Applications for the office of female sophomore justice will be accepted in the Graduate Manager's office until 4:30 o'clock this afternoon," according to Harlow Lloyd, chief justice of the Student Court.

"The positions of sophomore, junior and senior class officers and male sophomore justice are closed, however," Lloyd said, "according to the deadline set at noon yesterday."

All petitions, with the exception of that for female sophomore justice, must be turned in to the ASB office by noon today, he added.

College Will Offer Extension Courses To County Workers

To improve the calibre and workmanship of county employees is the objective of a training program being organized by the extension department of San Jose State college and representatives of Santa Clara county, according to Mr. Harold Seyferth, coordinator of extension services.

Under this program plan, which has been approved by Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president, and Mr. Johann D. Anderson, county executive, courses related to governmental procedures will be offered to present county employees and potential county workers.

Certificates will be issued upon the completion of one or more of these courses, Mr. Seyferth added. The grade ratings and certificates from these courses will have some bearing in the employment and promotion of county workers.

It is the hope of Mr. John L. Tustin, county personnel director, that the time may come when present civil service examinations, upon which appointments to county jobs or promotions now depend, may be supplemented or supplanted by courses made available to county workers by the college extension department.

Details for the program are being worked out by Mr. Tustin, Mr. Seyferth and Dr. Raymond M. Mosher, dean of special services.

The first course in the training program, which will be offered in approximately two weeks, will be in accounting, Mr. Seyferth added. Mr. Jesse E. Reynolds, assistant professor of commerce, will instruct the class.

Instructor Resigns Because of Illness

Milo Lacey, part-time instructor in the Engineering department, has resigned from the faculty because of ill health, according to Dr. Ralph J. Smith, head of the Engineering department.

Mr. Lacey will be replaced by Stanley Kocal of the City Engineer's staff.

MEMBERS OF AWS AND WAA rehearse for the joint barbecue to be held tomorrow afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the Woman's gym. Trying to avoid burning themselves are: Mae Stadler, chairman of the event; Norma Gentry; Joan Chambers, president of WAA; Lee Humphrey, Jo Ann Keeler, president of AWS; Eileen Anderson, and Shirley Cook.

The barbecue, entitled the "Cat's Meow," takes the place of the annual AWS Jinx. Tickets are on sale for 35 cents at the library arch and in the Women's gym.

AWS, WAA Will Sponsor Joint Barbecue, 'The Cat's Meow'

AWS-WAA will present a joint barbecue, the "Cat's Meow," Wednesday afternoon at 5:30.

All associated women students, that is, all women on campus with student body cards, are invited to be on hand for the fun, according to Jo Ann Keeler, AWS president.

"If it rains, don't give up. We'll go inside," Miss Keeler said Friday.

An acrobatic team will be on hand for entertainment. Various sports will be provided after eating, she mentioned.

Joan Chambers, WAA president, and Miss Keeler planned the event together to take the place of the annual AWS Jinx.

"It seems logical to have both prominent women's organizations working together," said Miss Keeler.

Hot dogs, potato chips, tossed salad, apple pie, and cokes will provide refreshments for everyone, Miss Keeler added, and there'll also be swimming later, she said.

Mae Stadler is chairman of the event. Charlotte Maloyan ordered the food. Anne Egan is in charge of the serving committee, and Barbara Queener and Mary Pahl are in charge of entertainment.

Universal ASB Card Election To Be Delayed

The universal ASB card election, scheduled for Friday, will be postponed until the Board of Education in Sacramento clarifies "several things," according to Lud Spolyar, ASB president.

Spolyar said that election rules will be set up next month by the Presidents' board.

"We hope to hold the election some time during this quarter," Spolyar declared. "As soon as we get the 'go' signal from Sacramento we will pass it on to the students."

Candidates Call

All candidates for class offices should call at the Spartan Daily office before 1 p.m. today, for pictures.

Candidates also are asked to call at the Spartan Daily office, between 1:30 and 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, for interviews concerning their platforms.

Gone All Night As Searching Parties Comb 11-Mile Area

Four San Jose State college students spent 12 hectic hours Sunday night wandering, obviously lost, in the Santa Cruz mountains before daybreak found them only a short distance from the main path and safety.

The four students were: Patricia Percy, a freshman, of 1765 Johnston avenue; Barbara Rogers, freshman, 513 S. Fifteenth street; Pete Silva, freshman, 764 Asbury street; and Joe Moore, junior, 241 University avenue, Santa Clara.

The four were reported lost late Sunday evening when they were separated from a picnicking party in the Big Basin State park vicinity. Rangers were notified and a search was immediately undertaken. All ranger stations in the area were contacted, and parties were sent out to cover the main trails in an 11-mile area of where the four were last seen. No sign was seen of the quartet until they wearily walked into a searching ranger the following morning along Berry Falls trail. This occurred around 5 a.m.

It was at 4:30 p.m. the previous afternoon that the party was last seen, heading in the general direction of the Gazas Creek road. It was not until 6 p.m. that the other picnickers became worried and notified the ranger station in the area. Two other students in the picnic party, John McCloud and Donald Stuart, joined the rangers in the search.

Moore, who was not too tired to relate his version of the exploit, stated that the four had wandered away from the main party, and before they realized how far they had walked, darkness had overtaken them.

"None of us were really frightened, not much that is! We knew where we were but it was too dark to see anything. Pete (Pete Silva) and I attempted to go ahead and find the main trail but it was so dark we just stumbled around."

"We then decided to stay put and wait until daybreak. That is, after Pete waded into a creek and I fell off a ledge, and dropped what seemed a mile into some brush. I could see my whole life passing before me. Luckily it was only a short drop."

"As soon as daylight came, that was about 3:30 a.m., we decided to look for the main trail. It was almost an hour later that we met a ranger on the trail and knew we were safe."

The four returned to San Jose but were too exhausted to go to their morning classes.

Dr. Scalapino Will Speak Tomorrow

The opening program in a series of Social Science lectures, presented by the lecture committee, will be a talk by Dr. Robert Scalapino, associate professor of political science at the University of California at Berkeley, tomorrow at 11:30 a.m. in the Morris Dailey auditorium.

According to Dr. William H. Poytress, head of the Social Science department, Dr. Scalapino will speak on "The United Nations and a Divided World."

Time for Action—Now

Most San Jose State college students will enjoy the privilege of participating in an election next Friday—the day following the "great" election in England.

It may seem incongruous to draw a parallel between the election in England and the election at SJS. Nevertheless, the two are comparable in that both are elections by the people to choose their leaders.

The campaign in England is in full swing—not so at SJS. Enthusiasm and competition in the nomination of candidates for class officers has been exceedingly low, with hardly enough applications being filed to fill the offices.

Let's get behind the candidates and show our appreciation for our constitutional right.

Chess Sets Shown

Chess sets of various types now are on display on the third floor landing of the Library. The display was prepared by Lee Windreich, assistant arts librarian.

A miniature set made of bone with pegs attached, a wooden set, and one made of plastic are included in the exhibit. They were loaned to the Library by Lyman H. Daugherty, professor of botany.

French ivory and ebony chess sets for ladies and gentlemen also are on display. They are reputed to be almost 300 years old.

Two thousand years ago, the Briton equipped their chariots with rear-view mirrors of polished iron to prevent attacks from behind.

It certainly was a "Lost Weekend" for the Spartans up the road a piece in Idaho Saturday.

Bob Bronzan, the boss, so told the professional press yesterday in San Francisco about the Moscow incident.

The Mission to Moscow was a total flop so far as the Golden Raiders are concerned. Bronzan explained a few things that should clear up a few grumblings by the folks on campus.

Don't let the final count fool you. There's more to a game than the final score. It was 40-7, but stick around awhile and listen.

This isn't an alibi because Bronzan wants no sympathy for his boys. They had a bad day, a very bad day.

Moscow What?

The Spartans were besieged with misfortune from start to finish on the Moscow venture. They covered 1800 miles, but it could have been to Moscow, Russia, for all they know.

Their nightmare began at the San Francisco airport. Scheduled to take off at three, the Golden Raiders sat and stood SEVEN HOURS in that depot waiting for a plane that was supposed to be ready.

The stop-off points were changed, too. Instead of a direct shot to Lewiston, the plane cut across to Portland, Oregon, for gas. No gas was available and there was another delay, this time only one and a half hours.

Bed in Spokane

When the Spartans got tucked in bed at Spokane and not Lewiston, it was 3 o'clock in the morning.

Upon arising after a FEW winks of sleep, the party ate, climbed into a bus and headed for Moscow, 86 miles from Spokane. Weary and withered, the Golden Raiders managed to pull into Neale stadium one hour before game time.

They were tired, many were woozy from the delayed trip, and several, including Al Matthews, Archie Chagonjian, Orland DiCiccio and Frank Morris, were struck down with air sickness. The plane, presumably a Korean veteran job, wasn't pressure-lined so the squad had mass ear trouble from the altitude.

It was cold, wet and miserable. San Jose State's "night before" killed their drive. The Spartans were listless, loggy and tired. Idaho was "up" for the Bronzanmen and turned the many SJS miscues into quick points on the scoreboard.

No Yards

Pre-game fatigue, the unusual weather and an alert Vandal team decked our boys for the full count. Idaho deserved credit for heads-up football and the Vandals were sharp holding us to zero yards on the ground.

But remember, you class room quarterbacks, the Vandals had a good night's sleep before the game, they know what rain is, and they weren't out half the night flying around the country.

Yet, 40-7 wasn't too bad, considering everything, was it?

Hustling Spartababes Bow to Fort Ord, 60-6

Spartababe coaches Jim Wheelahan and Mel Stein have nothing but praise for the hustling performance exhibited by their SJS junior varsity gridiron eleven against the powerful Fort Ord squad Saturday night in Monterey.

"Although the boys were outclassed on the scoreboard 60-6, they never stopped hustling," Wheelahan commented.

The army gridders, loaded with former college and professional stars, ran up a 35-0 lead in the first half, employing their first team exclusively.

The Spartababes' touchdown was the result of a 65-yard drive highlighted by the running of John Giammona and the passing of Benny Pierce to Ken Faus. The climax of the drive was a nine-yard jaunt by Giammona for the score.

The longest run of the game was a 70-yard ramble by Sam Bruno who took a Pierce aerial on his own five and raced to the Ford Ord 25-yard marker.

George Lagario, former St. Mary's and Petaluma Leghorn fullback, and Johnny Sims, ex-Los Angeles Ram halfback, sparked the army offense.

Drawing praise from Wheelahan for their defensive work were Spartababes Dick Isabell, Chuck Mancine and Phil Hatzepillar.

Offensive stars for SJS were halfbacks Giammona and Bruno, end Faus, center Tom Yagi and tackle Bob Roebuck.

The Spartababes will shoot for their first win of the season Saturday afternoon when they meet the Moffett field eleven at Spartan stadium.

Consensus Favors Fine Arts Exhibit

"Very worth while" is the consensus of Spartan opinion about the exhibit of local professors' paintings currently on view in the Reserve Book room of the Library. The display is the second in a series of shows presented under the auspices of the Fine Arts division, headed by Dr. Hugh W. Gillis. The paintings are works of J. Theodore Johnson, associate professor in art, and John Mottram, instructor in art, created over a period of 25 years. Students interviewed represented the typical college-goer with only a layman's knowledge, but a fine appreciation of art. One was actively viewing the exhibit, two had "glanced at the paintings" during a respite from Spanish review, and one previously had studied the display.

Mrs. Edith Guidoux, home economics major, was questioned while admiring the portrait of an old woman holding a plucked chicken, done by Mr. Johnson. She liked the character lines of the face, and in general was more enthusiastic about the portraits than the landscapes.

Among the landscapes, she liked best Mr. Mottram's watercolor "Water's Edge." It won her vote of excellence for blending of greens and for giving the "feel" of the water.

A still study of a pheasant, painted by Mr. Johnson, also caught her attention. This she liked for its colorful detail.

The two Spanish students, Graduate Sal Sanfilippo and Senior Alton Semas, had opposite ideas about the exhibit.

Sanfilippo liked the portraits best. "They send me," he said.

What he liked best in the portraits was their realistic, everyday quality.

His study partner, Semas, cast his vote for the landscapes.

"They are so natural," he said, "and they give one a retreat from the college atmosphere."

Shirley Gamba, a sophomore education major, summed up the exhibit in one word: "Terrific."

She liked the landscapes because they are colorful, and the portraits because they are unposed and natural.

Each of the four interviewers gave the opinion that such exhibits are a good thing for the college.

The present display will run until Nov. 6, when photographs by George Stone, professor of photography, will take its place.

Clothes Fasteners Are on Display

Display cases in the Home Economics building once again are filled with exhibits.

This quarter the first set of displays features an exhibit of clothes fasteners. Snaps, buttons, belts and pins are presented in the array of useful gadgets which hold clothes together.

The project is the work of Betty Horn, senior home economics student. It will be on display for a week.

Next to it is an exhibit of different drapery materials and another on pleatings used to make draperies.

The projects are a part of the class of Education 340A, Methods in Teaching Home Making in Secondary Schools.

Teacher Sign-up

"All teaching candidates who have signed the placement list should make interview appointments with Miss Doris Robinson, director of teacher placement, immediately," she announced Friday.

Oops! Wrong Room

Dean Cresap, associate professor of social science, wandered idly into Room 11 yesterday, reading the Spartan Daily.

His foot searched cautiously for the platform and he found the chair without looking up.

A student following him rushed in, glanced at the class, and said, "You don't look like the people in my history class."

"Til Friday we were American lit," someone mentioned.

The student glanced at Cresap, who was still reading his newspaper.

"This is the wrong room!" she said loudly.

Disturbed, pied-piper Cresap looked up. "So it is," he muttered, wandering out.

'51 Chest Drive Starts Nov. 5

The Campus Chest drive, which will be held from Nov. 5 through Nov. 9, will be 22 drives in one, according to Donald Clark, representative of the San Jose Community Chest. Speaking before a meeting of the Campus Chest, Clark emphasized the importance of making the one fund-raising drive a success.

Shirley Crandall, Campus Chest chairman, said that the turnout of representatives from campus organizations was disappointingly small. She urged that all campus representatives be present at the meeting Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in Room 24.

Quota for this year's drive requires an average of one dollar from each student on campus, Miss Crandall stated. Division of funds raised during the drive will be: Sixty-five per cent to the Community Chest; 25 per cent to World Student Service fund; five per cent to March of Dimes; and five per cent to Cancer fund.

Electronics Talk

Harold Sorg, vice president and chairman of the Research department of the Eitel-McCullough Manufacturing company, will speak on "Patenting Electronic and Similar Devices," to members of the campus Institute of Radio Engineers, tonight at 7:30 o'clock, in Room S210, according to Thomas Mancebo, club chairman.
