SUBORD selects REC plan for election

By John McCready

The Student Union Board of Directors reviewed the results of a four-question referendum and decided to hold an election to select a reconstruction plan for the Recreation and Events Center.

The decision to hold the referendum came after a two-week process that included student surveys, public forums, and a student vote. The referendum questions asked students whether they preferred Plan One, Plan Two, Plan Three, or Plan Four.

Plan One was the most popular, with 54% of students voting in favor. Plan Two received 31% of the votes, Plan Three received 12%, and Plan Four received 1%.

The decision to hold the election was made by the Student Union Board of Directors, which is responsible for making decisions related to the student union's budget and activities.

The election will be held in November and will be open to all SJSU students. The results of the election will be announced after the voting period has ended.

Grievance procedure for ex-vendor continues

By John McCready

Giovanni Panciera, first from Spartan Shops over the end of spring semester, is working on the second meeting of the grievance procedure.

The grievance procedure is a process for resolving disputes between employees and the university. It is designed to provide a fair and impartial forum for employees to appeal decisions made by higher authorities.

The procedure begins with a written statement of the employee's case, followed by a hearing before a neutral third party. If the employee is dissatisfied with the hearing's decision, they can appeal to a higher authority, usually the university's president.

The grievance procedure is an essential part of the collective bargaining agreement between the university and its employees, who have a right to a fair and impartial process when grievances are filed.

Fullerton's bargaining policies continue

The Academic Senate has voted to oppose the UC President's proposed policy changes, which include the elimination of tenure and the implementation of new performance evaluation systems.

The Academic Senate believes that the proposed changes will weaken academic freedom and reduce the quality of education.

The Senate is urging the UC President to reconsider the proposed changes and to work with the Academic Senate to develop policies that protect the rights of faculty and ensure the highest quality of education.

The Academic Senate believes that the proposed changes are not in the best interests of students and must be rejected.
Lessons of life ignore time lines

I stared at the wrinkles on my face and thought, "Is this what "aging" looks like?" I've always been fascinated by the process of aging, but I never really thought about it until now.

The wrinkles are a reminder of the life I've lived. They are a testament to the choices I've made and the experiences I've had. I'm not sure if I'm ready for this new phase of my life, but I'm grateful for the lessons it has taught me.

The wrinkles are also a reminder of the fragility of life. They are a constant reminder to live life to the fullest and to make the most of every moment.

I'm not sure if I'll ever fully accept the wrinkles or the aging process, but I'm determined to make the best of it. I'm grateful for the lessons it has taught me and I'm looking forward to what the future holds.

The wrinkles are a reminder of the importance of taking care of ourselves. They are a reminder to eat healthy, exercise regularly, and take care of our bodies.

Hoffman brings a long line of acting and directing credentials with him in his role as a guest director at SJSU.

Hoffman to rework SJSU version of ‘Antigone’ for ‘today’s audience’

By Patricia Hansen
 daily staff writer

If Henry Hoffman had to write his autobiography it might simply be titled, “A Life in Theatre.” The combination of the two is what led him all the way to a position as a visiting professor and guest director at SJSU.

Hoffman brings to SJSU’s work ethic the nuance of roles he’s played in the past. Acting in such presentations as “Death of a Salesman” and “The Seagull” he has also brought “At the Zoo” and “Cyrano de Bergerac.”

SJSU is working with Hoffman to stage Sophocles’ Greek tragedy “Antigone” in November. The decision to rework the play’s structure and characters was made because, “I thought there were so many good women.”

“Acting does tremendous psychic damage. You have to tear yourself apart and put yourself back together again.” Hoffman said. “If you aren’t able to do that, you can’t act in a puddle of narcissism.”

The best advice he offers people who want to get in “that field” is “Go to a gym, work out and learn how to be in good health.” he said. “Have a healthy mind and body — learn to dance and sing.”

Hoffman found EST and Life coaching helped him in his search for good mental health. He believes the most important aspect of being healthy is the ability to direct your thoughts toward good and positive things.

Hip pointer is no joke to SJSU's Frasco

By Dan Fitch

When a hip pointer can cause pain, it can mean the difference between playing a full game and being on the sidelines for a few days. For SJSU football player Bob Frasco, the injury was more than just inconvenient - it could have been career-ending.

Frasco sustained a hip pointer during a game against UC Davis last weekend, but he was able to play through the pain and help his team secure a 37-14 win. The injury is not unheard of in football, but it's one that can quickly escalate if not properly treated.

"I've been in pain before and I know how to manage it," Frasco said. "But this one was a little more challenging." He added that the pain was particularly intense when making cuts and changes of direction.

"I felt like I was running in a daze," said Frasco, who had been a star producer for SJSU in recent games. "I couldn't see the field, just a blur of pain and movement." He said he knew something was wrong when he couldn't make a cut without falling to the ground.

"I'm glad it happened now and not during the season," Frasco said. "I could have been out for the year." He added that he was hoping to be back on the field within a few weeks.

Despite the injury, Frasco said he was pleased with how the team played against UC Davis. "I think we showed a lot of heart and grit," he said. "We played with a lot of determination and played for each other." He added that the team played well because they were all focused on the game and not their injuries.

Frasco said he was grateful for the support he received from his teammates and coaches. "They were all there for me," he said. "They gave me all the encouragement I needed to keep going." He added that he was looking forward to getting back on the field and continuing to play for SJSU.

Frasco's injury was a reminder of how important it is to take care of one's body, especially in a contact sport like football. "I'm just glad it happened when it did," he said. "I don't want to lose my career because of an injury." He added that he was looking forward to getting back on the field and playing for SJSU.

The team's head coach, Dick Williams, said he was proud of how his team handled the injury to Frasco. "We all care about our players," he said. "We want them to be healthy and happy." He added that he was proud of how well the team played against UC Davis and said he was looking forward to seeing how they continued to improve.

INTEGRATION

Next year, for the first time in the history of the University of California, Berkeley, all university funds will be integrated for all students. In the past, minority students have been excluded from the benefits of the system of intercollegiate athletics. This year, the University of California will take this important step in order to provide equal opportunities for all students. The integration of the system of intercollegiate athletics will be a major step in the advancement of educational opportunity for all students.

The teams of competing students yielded for Clark to move around in hopes of collapsing the chair, and was made of several cardboard boxes or bicycles. 'I'd give it a D -minus for being in conflict with each other. I try to get them to see that they are inseparable. Everyone wants to design a chair,' he said. 'Later they could be shaping lunch boxes or bicycles. The main thing is that they need to be creative.'
