Olympian, SJSU alum returns victorious

By Nick Celario @SD_NCelario

It was about six years ago when Olympian and SJSU graduate Marty Malloy arrived on campus with one clear objective — go to the Olympics.

“One of the first things I asked her was, ‘What’s your plan?’ and she said she wanted to make the Olympic team,” said SJSU judo coach Yoshimichi Ishii. “She showed a lot of determination and hunger to become a champion.”

Malloy’s dream was realized this year as she competed at the Olympic Games in London and earned a bronze medal in the women’s judo 57-kilogram division, according to the official website of the London 2012 Olympic Games.

“It was the weirdest feeling in the world,” Malloy said. “Complete pure happiness and also disbelief. Not necessarily disbelief because I didn’t think I could win, but because I (won the last match) and also a mixture of Spartan pride and what we were doing.”

Malloy said she earned enough points to be ranked No. 10 in the world going into the Olympics.

“I knew everyone is thinking about the budget, Qayoumi said, “so let me address that first.”

“Everyone is thinking about the budget, Qayoumi said, “so let me address that first.”

“I know everyone is thinking about the budget, Qayoumi said, “so let me address that first.”

“Everyone is thinking about the budget, Qayoumi said, “so let me address that first.”

“Our president, Joe Siedlecki has been on the job for two years and he’s introduced a number of new fee initiatives to mitigate the effects of the state’s budget crises. He introduced a new fee called the Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee. It will be used to enhance student success in a variety of ways, according to the Provost Dr. Bohdan Hadiiska. She said she has heard of other universities cutting student services, such as library hours and also a member of the statewide bar association. She said the fee helps prevent that from occurring at SJSU. It’s a great means to do that for us because the fee is very much concerned and want to make primary opportunities for students and that’s why this fee is so critical.”

The fee was passed by CSU Chancellor Charles B. Reed as Executive Order 1076 in early July 2012. The new fee changed previous category II fees as stated in Order 1076 “Effective fall semester 2012, San Jose State is authorized to establish a mandatory Category II Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee at the rate of $12 per semester during fiscal year 2012-13, which should reach a maximum rate of $41.5 per semester in 2014-15.”

Beginning this semester, SJSU students are paying a new fee called the Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee, which will be used to enhance student success in a variety of ways, according to the Provost Dr. Bohdan Hadiiska. She said she has heard of other universities cutting student services, such as library hours and also a member of the statewide bar association. She said the fee helps prevent that from occurring at SJSU. It’s a great means to do that for us because the fee is very much concerned and want to make primary opportunities for students and that’s why this fee is so critical.”

The fee was passed by CSU Chancellor Charles B. Reed as Executive Order 1076 in early July 2012. The new fee changed previous category II fees as stated in Order 1076 “Effective fall semester 2012, San Jose State is authorized to establish a mandatory Category II Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee at the rate of $12 per semester during fiscal year 2012-13, which should reach a maximum rate of $41.5 per semester in 2014-15.”

Beginning this semester, SJSU students are paying a new fee called the Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee, which will be used to enhance student success in a variety of ways, according to the Provost Dr. Bohdan Hadiiska. She said she has heard of other universities cutting student services, such as library hours and also a member of the statewide bar association. She said the fee helps prevent that from occurring at SJSU. It’s a great means to do that for us because the fee is very much concerned and want to make primary opportunities for students and that’s why this fee is so critical.”

The fee was passed by CSU Chancellor Charles B. Reed as Executive Order 1076 in early July 2012. The new fee changed previous category II fees as stated in Order 1076 “Effective fall semester 2012, San Jose State is authorized to establish a mandatory Category II Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee at the rate of $12 per semester during fiscal year 2012-13, which should reach a maximum rate of $41.5 per semester in 2014-15.”

Beginning this semester, SJSU students are paying a new fee called the Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee, which will be used to enhance student success in a variety of ways, according to the Provost Dr. Bohdan Hadiiska. She said she has heard of other universities cutting student services, such as library hours and also a member of the statewide bar association. She said the fee helps prevent that from occurring at SJSU. It’s a great means to do that for us because the fee is very much concerned and want to make primary opportunities for students and that’s why this fee is so critical.”

The fee was passed by CSU Chancellor Charles B. Reed as Executive Order 1076 in early July 2012. The new fee changed previous category II fees as stated in Order 1076 “Effective fall semester 2012, San Jose State is authorized to establish a mandatory Category II Student Success, Excellence and Technology Fee at the rate of $12 per semester during fiscal year 2012-13, which should reach a maximum rate of $41.5 per semester in 2014-15.”
President Mohammad Qayoumi speaks at the President’s fall address at San Jose Mercury News auditorium on Monday. Photo by Alejandro Goodwin / Spartan Daily

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT COMMITTING FEDERAL CRIMES (for 29 years) by Leland Yoshitsu

Nonfiction/documentary eBook (eBook) Amazon, BNK Nook, eBookPie, etc. ISBN 9780985622880

including President Obama’s August 2009 White House letter to Leland (page 2):

"Dear Leland… we hope that the issue you brought to the President’s attention has been resolved. However, if you still need help with a Federal agency, we are pleased to assist you.”
MOVIE REVIEW

By Wesley Dugle
@WesSideStories

In a summer movie season filled with superheroics, over-the-top explosions and aging action stars, it's good to step away from the carnage and watch a movie with a bit more emotion and drama.

When his father-in-law, Hanshiro Tsugumo (played by Ichikawa Ebizo XI) is surrounded by samurai as he seeks revenge for the death of his son-in-law in "Hara-Kiri: Death of a Samurai".

Motome attempts a desperate gambit with a local feudal ill, Motome Chijiwa, who is struggling during difficult financial times in feudal Japan.

When his wife and child fall away from the carnage and gore. "Hara-Kiri: Death of a Samurai" has little to none of this in it. The movie isn't for everyone, but it's a near perfect period piece and far from a waste of time at the movie theaters.

So if you are in the mood for something a little out of the ordinary, this film is a great one to watch and will more than likely tug on your heartstrings.

The film was filled with fantastic alternative to your typical summer action schlock but if you do go see it, be prepared for a few chilling death moments and some very sad moments of drama.

The film isn't for everyone, but it's a near perfect period piece and far from a waste of time at the movie theaters.

Welcome back Students! For the month of August ONLY haircuts are only 99 cents! Heres' How:
1) Download our app
2) Check in using the app
3) Go to the shop at 121 East San Carlos haircuts are only 99 cents!

"Hara-Kiri: Death of a Samurai" challenges warrior spirit

By Wesley Dugle
@WesSideStories

The most ironic thing about the film, however, is that the movie’s most exciting moment ends up being its weakest and takes away from the film’s drama. Up until the end of the film, your heartstrings are being pulled in all sorts of directions as you feel for these characters and their painful situations.

But when this scene finally arrives, it's both silly and out of place in the context of the drama and will leave viewers scratching their heads.

Fortunately, this scene doesn’t break the movie and doesn’t hurt the overall power of the film, but it does keep it from being perfect. Takashi Miike’s "Hara-Kiri: Death of a Samurai" is a fantastic alternative to your typical summer action schlock but if you do go see it, be prepared for a few chilling death moments and some very sad moments of drama.

The film isn't for everyone, but it's a near perfect period piece and far from a waste of time at the movie theaters.

So if you are in the mood for something a little out of the ordinary, this film is a great one to watch and will more than likely tug on your heartstrings.

The film isn't for everyone, but it's a near perfect period piece and far from a waste of time at the movie theaters.

When his father-in-law, Hanshiro Tsugumo (played by Ichikawa Ebizo XI) is surrounded by samurai as he seeks revenge for the death of his son-in-law in "Hara-Kiri: Death of a Samurai".
FRATERNITY: Brothers among seven national chapters recognized

FROM PAGE 1

Ayala said receiving the award has been something he has hoped for since his initiation in 2010 and something the chapter has been working toward achieving. Nicholas Bell, a senior health science major and member, said the school health center wants to do more projects with them in the near future.

“They’re asking us to do RAINN Day, stopping sexual assault on campus, with them as well as the Clothesline project, domestic violence awareness, as well as few other projects during the semester,” he said. He said that while fraternities get a bad reputation, they do want to help the community.

“We do these things to help the community, and through these recognitions, we want people to notice that we aren’t here for what they think we’re here for,” he said. They feel the award has put things in perspective and they hope to keep proving themselves in the coming semesters.

“It’s really humbling,” Madarang said. “I’m one of the people that helped start this chapter four years ago.” He said the chapter was almost kicked off campus because they stopped turning in paperwork.

“To come up from almost not being on campus as a fraternity to where we are today is a humbling experience,” he said. “We’re going to keep continuing to better ourselves and strive for more.”

Rebecca Duran is a copy editor for the Spartan Daily. Follow her on Twitter at @SD_RebeccaDuran
FEES: Technology and learning aids are being funded by fee

McClatchy Tribune
KANSAS CITY, Mo. A deadline for dropping out of the Missouri Senate race, set Tuesday by Republican Todd Akin still is in the balance as Republicans weighed attacks from his own party.

But through it all, Akin said on a conservative St. Louis radio show, "I'm in this for the long haul, and we're going to win it.”

The unprecedented on-air comments and related end comments about rape victimhood and related issues has pushed the Republican Party and raised new doubts about whether he could carry the state. Some Republicans have said they would try to get him to step aside, and I think firmly there would be no chance of it until the special election is over," he said.

"Todd Akin’s comments were outrageous and offensive, and he should very seriously consider what he will do to protect the best interest of our country," Romney said. "Today, the American people’s government stands with Akin’s fellow Missourians urged him to step away, and I think firmly there would be no chance of it until the special election is over." Akin, who said he was "united in the belief that the president is a candidate who is strong enough to win re-election and the Senate race.

"It’s not possible to ignore the national consensus for immediate, thorough and cost-free investigation of the facts," McCain said in a statement. "The issue is one too important for the nation’s security."

Akin said he would not seek re-election next year.

"I have to make a decision," he said. "I don’t want to bungle it."

"I will be asking the leadership on Capitol Hill for a full-fledged investigation with full access to any and all information that would be helpful," he said.

"I’m not sure what things I would get at the university with the new technology," he said. "If you’re asking me to find the best public service, I think it’s important for the university to be a part of that conversation."

"But I’ll be asking the leaders on Capitol Hill for a full-fledged investigation with full access to any and all information that would be helpful," he said.

"Let me make it clear: Akin’s comments were outrageous and offensive," Romney said. "Today, the American people’s government stands with Akin’s fellow Missourians urged him to step away, and I think firmly there would be no chance of it until the special election is over."

"I’m discouraged by the response on Akin and the continuing attacks on him," he said. "It’s a shame that more people didn’t come together to support Akin, and I think firmly there would be no chance of it until the special election is over."

"I will be asking the leadership on Capitol Hill for a full-fledged investigation with full access to any and all information that would be helpful," he said.

"One important thing that should be noted is that $75 of this is fee that was previously charged for the scholarship course that he took through the university, but we’ve got the whole $75 left."

"I think that’s the most important thing that should be noted is that $75 of this is fee that was previously charged for the scholarship course that he took through the university, but we’ve got the whole $75 left."

"I think it’s important for the university to be a part of that conversation," he said.

"Let me make it clear: Akin’s comments were outrageous and offensive," Romney said. "Today, the American people’s government stands with Akin’s fellow Missourians urged him to step away, and I think firmly there would be no chance of it until the special election is over."
In my experience... A self-proclaimed non-expert weighs in on your experiences

by Kelsey Lynne Lester-Perry

My name is Kelsey. I don’t know a lot about any one thing, but I do know a good deal about a lot of little things. I don’t claim to be an expert, but I can tell you exactly how to rate things on a 1-10 scale.

I can tell you how to get out of a sticky situation with the law. Ask me how to get your boyfriend to remember your anniversary. Ask me how to win over a boss or how to procure a raise. Ask me how to overcome an eating disorder. Ask me to believe that I am an expert in my experience, and me to tell you exactly how to raise a person without getting too hard — Curious

My dearest Curious,

In my experience, I honestly have had more one-night stands than actual dates. I have found that asking questions both about family and education will provide a plethora of information about your date. Everybody has a family, and most people our age go to school, so the questions won’t be heavy. But if you are a good judge of character or even if you aren’t and you take my advice, I can assure you they will be revealing.

A strong interest in education can reveal good qualities such as dedication, motivation and passion. Say your date has wanted to be an interior designer since he or she was five years old — you bring up schoolwork and the flood gates will open and you will hear the excitement in their voice and see hope in their eyes. Or just the opposite, maybe your date just slides by with B’s and C’s throughout their whole college career, well this can show you a laid back mold — he or she can show you a lazy stoner who is being forced to go to school by their parents. That is up to you to decide through a few more probing questions.

When you are asking these questions though, be honest with your reaction. Don’t pretend to be interested when you’re not. I think this is where a lot of first dates go wrong. Don’t owe your date any information and vice versa. If you are bored, change the subject. Actually, I take that back — if your date is boring you, get the hell out of there. It won’t be about you, but being boring on the first date is a bad sign. You are supposed to bring your A game and boring someone to sleep is C at best. Now that’s not to say you also learn a lot about a person through questions about their family. A person is usually around their family more often than they are around anyone else, so their relationships in this aspect should be very revealing. Of course you have to discard which ones of their interactions, positive or negative, are caused by the family or the state. This is also a very good time to be up front about what you are looking for. Your date will have to cater to your specific tastes, things like “... are we boyfriend and girlfriend now?” or any other variation of the like. Ask me how to win over a boss — the type of person anything and vice versa. So if you are bored, change the subject. But make sure you ask them if they are looking for a relationship, a booty call, a friendship, etc. And be perfectly honest about what it is that you want as well. Lastly, keep in mind that if you can’t be honest with yourself about what you want in a relationship, you won’t be honest with your date and you know this has also been revealed to me by several students.

The result is an eager reader and more relevant newspaper, not only providing you with freshest but local and national news. While I am excited for our new physical changes, the most important element of producing a newspaper is the staff’s attitude going into the semester, which has also been revealed to me by several students.

In addition to re-evaluating what we report, this semester I will be working on improving our newspaper. We want you, the reader, to tell us how we can improve. We want to feature outstanding conversations and informative views to the students. We want to feature columnists who are passionate, knowledgeable and have the potential to bring fresh, entertaining, and informative views to the students and teachers who call SJSU home.

Additionally we want to challenge you, the reader, to be as bold as we are. That is our goal this semester and we are striving for daily excellence in our paper’s strengths and weaknesses, both positive or negative, are revealed. As the executive editor this semester, I will be challenging myself to improve on the previous semester’s weak points and to be completely serious, this is C-game at best.

Now then, you can also call me to get advice on anything and everything. I am anxious to break my own rules and let me and my staff improve on our previous errors in order to deliver a better product.

The result is an eager reader and more relevant newspaper, not only providing you with freshest but local and national news. While I am excited for our new physical changes, the most important element of producing a newspaper is the staff’s attitude going into the semester, which has also been revealed to me by several students.

In addition to re-evaluating what we report, this semester I will be working on improving our newspaper. We want you, the reader, to tell us how we can improve. We want to feature outstanding conversations and informative views to the students. We want to feature columnists who are passionate, knowledgeable and have the potential to bring fresh, entertaining, and informative views to the students. We want to feature columnists who are passionate, knowledgeable and have the potential to bring fresh, entertaining, and informative views to the students.
Malloy: Life-long dreams made reality in London

Malloy said her dream was realized when she earned a spot on the team after she took third place at the Paris Grand Slam in February, but then incurred her shoulder during another competition a week after.

"It was a really big disappointment knowing you were going to the Olympics, but a big blow thinking you weren't going to the prepared," Malloy said. She decided to not have surgery and instead did physical therapy every day for six months leading up to the Olympics.

In her first match in London, she defeated Sana Nomura of Portugal, whom she beat at the 2008 Olympics, according to ESPN.

"I think my first victory was especially meet because she has been defeated twice before, both times in the first round of qualifying tournaments."

"I saw her draw for the Olympics and thought, ‘Wow,'" Malloy said. "I was like I'm not going to let this girl my my first round in every tournament and knock me out of the Olympics."

Malloy said she and her coach drew up a game plan and worked on it. "I knew I could beat her, a matter of time," Malloy said. "She just beat the worst possible time, which was impossible of her in this division.

Malloy won two more matches before losing in the semifinals to Marti Malloy of Romania, presenting her second Olympic medal in the style of gold on the medal stand, according to the other London 2012 Olympic Games.

Malloy said she believes both men "had a lot right on each other's side but one of them lost it pretty quickly."

After her loss, Malloy said she is in a good place to move on. "I'm just going to take it as I go, I'm looking forward to every match and preparing for the bronze medal match, through it, I hope it turns out."

Malloy's father, Marty, was in the crowd in London and watched on. "Seeing her recover from that (loss), focus and recog- nize the job at hand exemplifies the kind of woman she is," Marty said.

Malloy won her next match, defeating Cinzia Giulianelli of Italy to earn the bronze medal, according to the Olympic website.

Malloy's mother, Mary, said she was also in London and was her daughter's "best friend, "It was exhilarating," Mary said. "It was such a long time coming."

"It took so much time and effort for her to get to the Olympics and work with the girls and I think she has reached a point where she can do much more for judo," Malloy said.

She said she visited SJSU for production information, "I think I'm definitely going to stay in touch with her."

As Malloy's training partner for the SJSU judo club, Anthony Kwon said Malloy's realistic for her in the sport of judo. "She's very realistic about her abilities," Kwon said. "She's a really good fighter, and she's got a lot of experience."

Junior kinesiology major Corinna Learned, who is also a member of the SJSU judo team and trains with Malloy, said she was "the best of her and threw a wa- ter bottle at a bar."

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape. "Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo."

"She's going to be a great leader, for not only Ameri- can judo, but for women in general," Bencosme said. "She's well spoken and educated and carries herself well. She welcomes everybody with open arms."

Underscored that Malloy can do much more for judo other than performing well in competitions.

"She's going to be a great leader," Bencosme said. "She's going to be an ambassador for the sport of judo."

"I think she's well prepared and has trained herself very well," Bencosme said. "She's the No. 2 seed, and she's going to the Olympics and I was so mad, "Malloy said. "I was like I'm going to the Olympics and I was so mad."

"I was like I'm going to the Olympics and I was so mad, "Malloy said. "I was like I'm going to the Olympics."

"She's well spoken and educated and carries herself well. She welcomes everybody with open arms."

"She's going to be a great leader, for not only Ameri- can judo, but for women in general," Bencosme said. "She's well spoken and educated and carries herself well. She welcomes everybody with open arms."

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo. "She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.

"She's been a winner the whole time, she's always been humble and kept herself in great shape." Bencosme said Malloy is a good ambassador for the sport of judo.
Learning how to deal with irrational fears

... I think about the old, noisy elevator that barely seems to run ...

He knows I am scared of heights and the horrible thoughts that you put into my head, so when I am in a situation, like driving on a bridge or riding in an elevator, he talks me through it.

The conversation usually consists of him kindly explaining the irrationality behind my thinking and most of the time it works.

Once I have his rationale I usually feel a little better and realize how silly it is.

But when I am in the situation and overcome by fear I can’t seem to connect with his imagination.

One of the main steps I’ve taken to controlling my fears is talking through the irrationality with my boyfriend.

... think about the old, noisy elevator that barely seems to run ...

I think this is because they are both such irrational fears that have to be lived with most every day. My irrational fears are something I have to live with most every day.

My irrational fears are something I have to live with most every day.

I think it is pathetic, but I can never seem to get over my fear. No matter how silly or dark my imagination.

I think this is because they are both such irrational fears that have to be lived with most every day.

Everyone has fears, whether it’s a fear of spiders, dying, car accidents or just being alone.

I think about the old, noisy elevator that barely seems to run ...

According to Merriam-Webster's Online Dictionary, irrationality means “lacking or usual mental clarity or common sense.”

I like to think of myself as a rational thinking, person, but it seems that when I am in a situation and full of fear I am plagued with irrational fears.

I think this is because they are both such irrational fears that have to be lived with most every day. My irrational fears are something I have to live with most every day.

I think it is pathetic, but I can never seem to get over my fear. No matter how silly or dark my imagination.

I think this is because they are both such irrational fears that have to be lived with most every day.

Everyone has fears, whether it’s a fear of spiders, dying, car accidents or just being alone.

I think about the old, noisy elevator that barely seems to run ...

According to Merriam-Webster's Online Dictionary, irrationality means “lacking or usual mental clarity or common sense.”

I like to think of myself as a rational thinking, person, but it seems that when I am in a situation and full of fear I am plagued with irrational fears.

I think this is because they are both such irrational fears that have to be lived with most every day. My irrational fears are something I have to live with most every day.

I think it is pathetic, but I can never seem to get over my fear. No matter how silly or dark my imagination.

I think this is because they are both such irrational fears that have to be lived with most every day. My irrational fears are something I have to live with most every day.
Dwight Bentel was a master storyteller. Dwight Bentel in his 100th year was a one-man show. He really backed me up and supported me. It was a huge honor for me of course. But students most vividly remember his inspiring one-man show. Dwight Bentel in his 100th year was a one-man show. He really backed me up and supported me. It was a huge honor for me of course. But students most vividly remember his inspiring one-man show.

Dwight Bentel was a master storyteller. Dwight Bentel in his 100th year was a one-man show. He really backed me up and supported me. It was a huge honor for me of course. But students most vividly remember his inspiring one-man show.

Dwight Bentel was a master storyteller. Dwight Bentel in his 100th year was a one-man show. He really backed me up and supported me. It was a huge honor for me of course. But students most vividly remember his inspiring one-man show.

Dwight Bentel was a master storyteller. Dwight Bentel in his 100th year was a one-man show. He really backed me up and supported me. It was a huge honor for me of course. But students most vividly remember his inspiring one-man show.
Save up to 90% on used textbooks and 30% on new textbooks.

Being of no trust fund or athletic scholarship, I will hereby spend less for my textbooks and thus enjoy a life of not raiding couch cushions for extra spending money.

Amazon