SADIE SALLIES FORTH TO PHILOSOPHIZE WITH ELMO THE EULOGIZER

Criticisms Smack Of Deans' Jokes, Says Philosopher

By ELMO A. ROBINSON
"Why is it," asked Sadie the senior, entering my office, "that advisers around this college never suggest philosophy as an elective?"
"Search me," said I. "Is that really so? Probably you are exaggerating, especially when you say 'never.'"
"But why is it," continued Sadie, "that they advise you to take dumb subjects for electives instead of interesting courses like philosophy?"
"You must remember, Sadie, that ideas of what is interesting differ. Many courses whose titles sound very dull to me are doubtless thrilling to those who teach them, and to their students also. But the chances are that I should not advise a student to take Commerce 440, described in the catalog as Advanced, Theoretical, and Applied Bill-posting and Bill-collecting."
"But that's just the course I was advised to take, and did take," Sadie remonstrated. "And I am a senior before I discover that I like philosophy."

"Humans lived on this earth a million years, perhaps, before they discovered the fun of philosophizing. You have moved faster than your ancestors, anyway."

Sadie the senior proceeded to imitate Sophie the sophomore; she went on to another subject before she had finished the first one. "Another thing,—if you start talking about philosophical questions to some students they don't seem interested. They are likely to walk away from you. Why is that?"

"Perhaps they lack maturity of experience. To many people a philosopher seems like 'a blind man in a dark room hunting for a black cat that isn't there', or like 'a crazy man trying to explain his own delusions'."

"I suppose that philosophy isn't a very practical subject," said Sadie.

"That criticism is more ancient than the combined ages of all the jokes told by the Deans of the Upper and Lower Divisions. The Greeks used to say that philosophy

Dr. Carl D. Duncan To Speak At Seminar

Starting the regular weekly series of talks on current weekly of interest in science, Dr. Carl D. Duncan will be the speaker at Science Seminar this afternoon at 4:15 P. M. in lecture room 112. He has chosen "Hibernation and Related Types of Dormancy in Animals" as his subject.

Sponsored by the Natural Science department, the seminar will continue every Monday during the quarter, featuring several interesting programs of value to students of science.

Although junior and senior science majors are expected to be present, anyone interested in hearing Dr. Duncan's talk is extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Student Regards Library Situation Absurd; Is Peeved

By FENTON MURRAY
State Students are being buffeted by an empty pedagogical threat.

I refer to the closing of the library after six. Since the first of the year, the Spartan Daily has been cluttered up with reprimands from Miss Backus, and assurances from various organizations and prominent members of the student body that "If Miss Backus would only be kind enough to reopen the library during the evenings they would be good little boys and girls forever after."

The library has failed to open its doors during the evenings because, according to Miss Backus in a statement to the Spartan Daily, the library staff has spent about one tenth of its time for evening service.

I admit my interest in this condition to be extremely remote.

Students have used that time as a social meeting hour.

I do not believe that conversation carried on in a careful whisper means that students are using the library as a social meeting hour, nor do I believe such

PREXY'S RETURN WILL SPEED SETTLEMENT OF LIBRARY CONTROVERSY

Women Cooperate In Drive To Terminate 'Curfew' Dispute

The return this morning of Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, president of San Jose State college, who has been in Fresno for several days, is expected to settle the evening library controversy which has been raging on the campus for the past week.

Kathleen McCarthy, Associated Women Students' president, declared Saturday, however, that even though Dr. MacQuarrie did decide the issue, the library council meeting would be held tomorrow as scheduled.

WOMEN COOPERATE

Pledging the support of the women's organizations, Miss McCarthy expressed the opinion that if the school authorities will open the library at night, the women students will respect the privileges and make the best of the facilities offered.

"The women realize how important the library is and the necessity of its remaining open at night for the benefit of many students who are unable to use it during the day," she said.

REPRESENTATIVES SENT

"At the first meeting of the year the A. W. S. Council voted to maintain and support library regulations. It was also voted to send a representative to Student Library Council that will meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning in the council room," she said.

Other organizations that have been asked to send representatives are: Black Masque, Tau Delta Phi, Men's P. E. Majors, Spartan Knights, Spartan Spears, Iota Sigma Phi, and Kappa Delta Pi.

Noon Day Bracer Begins Today

Katherine Sparks, recreation chairman of W. A. A., announces that the Noon Day Bracers will begin today, from 12:00 to 1:00 o'clock, and continue to be held every Monday and Thursday throughout the quarter.

The games played will be deck tennis, ping pong, shuffle board, darts, volley ball and push ball.

Both men and women students are invited.

Spartan Gridders Come From Behind To Defeat Santa Barbara 28 To 19

Library Staff Is Called Unfair In Student's Charges

By M. W. FOWLER

The reason our library is closed to us in the evening, THEY say, is because some students use it as a meeting place for gossip. I presume that the hum and buzz of so-called gossiping annoys a few students who wish to do some serious concentrating. And so, those who were annoyed carried their troubles to the attentive ears of the powers that be. Let me ask here and now, do those students who claim to be distracted from their studies by a little noise except to have everything serene and tranquil when they enter the school room, the business office, court room, or into industry, where every livelihood will depend upon concentration amid bedlam and turmoil? They may expect to, but such is not the case.

TALKING IS UNHEEDED

I will admit that there is a bit of talking in the library evenings. It is only natural and wholesome that there should be with so many young people gathered together in a huge room. From my own experience and from questions I have asked other students, I feel sure that if one is at all interested in a study, or in gathering data, he will be concentrated to such an extent upon his subject that the buzz of a few low pitched voices will go unheeded—of course, if one is not interested in his assignment, or if his friend did not show up, or if he has a chip on his shoulder—well, that is a different story.

CORRECT SITUATION

College is supposed to train one for life in the outside world. That training should enable one to adapt himself to any situation that may arise. A situation seems now to have arisen. There will be rules and regulations from officials and student body as to conduct in the library; we should all try to cooperate and abide by them. But it does seem a shame that the whole student body should suffer because you and I in a spirit of good fellowship or cooperative effort over some difficult assignment, should sit together and exchange information.

OFFENCES NOT SERIOUS

I firmly believe that the officers of our library have received false information as the seriousness of the offences that have happened in the past. The facts have been magnified beyond a reasonable limit. The drastic action of closing the library every evening is much to severe a punishment, because it works too great a hardship on hundreds of students, and the offences stated do not warrant the punishment.

San Jose Pass Defense Weak; Club Eleven Almost Wins

By Bob Spotswood

The old Spartan isn't through yet!

Apparently pretty well battered up by Stanford the previous week, the old fellow came out with a rush at the sound of the opening gong Saturday in the local stadium to defeat the Santa Barbara Athletic Club 28-19 in one of the wildest, craziest football games ever to be staged in these parts.

Trailing at the end of the third quarter 19-9, and apparently unable to stop the Santa Barbara passing attack, DeGroot's men rallied in the final heat to win the ball game with Charlie Peach, Dee Shehtanian, and Ted Corbella all scoring touchdowns to give the Gold and White their first victory of the season.

San Jose had a comfortable 9-0 lead at half time, but were unable to keep the advantage with a passing attack that netted them three touchdowns and which had the Spartans on the run, for awhile, at least. However, the Gold and White gridsters staged a whirlwind finish in the final quarter, led by some fancy ball-toting by Dave Barr and Dee Shehtanian, to send the Southerners home with a defeat.

Emilia L. Rathbun Will Speak Today At Luncheon Club

Emilia Lindeman Rathbun, a prominent graduate of San Jose State who is well qualified to talk on what the college has to offer, will entertain the Y.W.C.A. luncheon club today at 12:30 with a discussion of "What to Expect from College".

The originator of the luncheon club several years ago, Mrs. Rathbun will tell something of her experiences that is expected to be of special interest to new students.

CLUB TO MEET WEEKLY

Queen of the Fiesta while in her senior year at college, Mrs. Rathbun recently became the wife of a Stanford professor.

This luncheon meeting will be held in room one of the Home-making building, under the direction of Bertha Fauquet, assisted by several upper division women students.

This club will meet weekly to provide a chance for freshman to meet new people, to get acquainted with the campus, instructors, and other students. Members will eat their luncheon during the first half hour, and the rest of the time will be devoted to a social meeting.

Contributors' Issue

In your hands this morning is the first issue of the Spartan Daily to be written by members of the student body and faculty at large. Every Monday from now on a similar issue will make its appearance on the campus.

Contributors are welcome to turn in articles on any subject provided the articles are signed and do not exceed 500 words in length.

The articles contained in this issue are entirely uncensored, and are but the opinions of the authors. They do not in any way represent the opinions of the Spartan Daily. To the author of each of these signed articles belongs the credit or blame for the views expressed.

The Library Again

Contributions in today's issue of the Spartan Daily reflect the attitude of several students toward the manner in which the library problem has been conducted.

"If the students guarantee their cooperation", said the librarian in an early statement of the paper, "we are willing to open the library at night."

"We guarantee our cooperation, and ask for a trial", replied the students—some of them—through their leader, Ronald Linn. The council took a significant step forward in appointing a representative committee to investigate conditions in the library and make reports at the end of the quarter.

Repeating their statement of willingness to reopen at night, the library staff has referred the matter to the president for a decision, which—we hope—will probably be made early this week.

Maybe we have been merely riding a merry-go-round, but, as stated in an editorial in Thursday's Daily, most of the students don't seem to care whether we get off or not, and that is where the trouble lies. They are vaguely aware that some sort of a "situation" exists, but, either because it doesn't directly affect them or because they never study anyway, they are content to let a few students do all the moaning.

Today's issue of the paper offered an opportunity for expression on this and other matters. There is still time to let the president know your opinion before a decision is reached.

Do you want the library open at night, or didn't you know that we have one?

THE SPORT SPOTLIGHT

By
By Dick Edmonds

Freshman basketball started last Monday with Mr. McDonald, varsity coach, at the helm for preliminary work. The turnout was large and in it were the names of several outstanding high school players. Garcia and Swanson, former Sequoia stars, looked capable in the positions at center and guard, respectively.

The smaller football in use this season has been the cause for much speculation. Those who saw Alustiza, Stanford ace, kick the ball in the San Jose tilt cannot be convinced that the small ball is going to work any hardships on the punters. The "Bounding Basque" was booting the ball for great distances without any noticeable lack of accuracy.

"Brick" Mitchell, head mentor of the University of Nevada's grid machine, has taken a definite stand against the new ball and has been joined by many college coaches, and it will be interesting to note the change, if any, this season in the punting and passing efficiency.

The College of the Pacific football squad, under Alonzo Stagg, has been doing its practicing under the arc lights, and it is said to be much pleasanter for the players because they escape the heat of the afternoon. All C. O. P. workouts are held with the gates locked to the public. I wonder just what Alonzo is trying to hide. Maybe its several prospective All-Americans.

The Spartan freshman eleven opens its season Saturday. The strong Mission high squad will furnish the opposition, as a preliminary to the State-Olympic club game. The curtain-raiser will begin at 12:30.

Coach Portal has moulded a smart, fast, freshman team and all students should make an effort to arrive early Saturday and give the frosh gridmen a lot of support. Too few of us realize that next year a large part of the Varsity will be made of this year's freshmen, and that their games are important to them.

Through its school paper, Fresno State college has expressed a rather unsportsmanlike attitude toward the Spartan team and coach.

Last year it will be remembered that the Spartans defeated the Bulldogs by a three touchdown margin, and now Fresno is laying that defeat to the luck of Dud DeGroot. They ridiculed the State eleven and have developed quite a cocksure feeling toward the outcome of this year's contest.

Nothing would be more pleasant than to be on hand to see this game. It would be a great satisfaction to see the Spartans trounce them easily. If the Bulldogs are as good as they seem to think they are and can overcome State, I'm sure that it would be accepted in a sportsmanlike manner, and not blamed to the fortunes of football. After all, three touchdowns are quite a few to blame on to the luck of any football coach.

PHY. ED. MAJORS TO MEET IN GYM MONDAY NOON

There will be a short business meeting of the Men's Physical Education Majors 12:30 Monday in room 25. Matters of extreme importance are to be discussed and all members are urged to attend.

Spartan Gridders Stage Comeback In Final Period

beautiful blocking of his teammates. Wren lugged the ball around end for three yards, and on the next play Stockdale went up in the air, Sobrero fashion, to whip a beautiful pass to "Soapy" Johnson, good for 22 yards. Stockdale battered his way off tackle for a 10 yard gain up to the Santa Barbara 12-yard line. Stockdale went off tackle again for two yards and Carpenter added four more to the cause. Wren took the ball on a reverse for three yards, being tackled on the opponent's three yard marker. The following play brought out a cheer from the sizeable gathering as Jim Stockdale slashed off tackle on a fake reverse for a touchdown. Don Pors' attempted conversion went wide.

BARR KICKS GOAL

The Spartans tallied again during the first half. Taking the ball on the Athletic Club's 36-yard line, San Jose worked their way down to within seven yards of the goal line, with Stockdale and Wren doing most of the ball-carrying. At this juncture of the game the Southerners put up a spirited defense which stopped three Spartan advances toward the goal line. Dave Barr dropped back and kicked a perfect field goal with Shehtanian holding the ball.

Santa Barbara's greatest showing was during the third quarter, when Laurie Stevens started tossing passes to Wally Lane and the local boys were unable to do much about it. Spreading their ends, tackles, in fact almost their entire team, all over the field, the Southerners completely bewildered the DeGroot-coached eleven to pile up nineteen points. The San Jose defense against forward passes looked very feeble indeed. Lane scored two touchdowns with Cunningham going across for Santa Barbara's final score.

SANTA BARBARA STOPPED
Constantly changing his line-up during the game, DeGroot put in a fresh eleven at the outset of the final quarter which was good enough to score three touchdowns and to stop the Stevens-Lane passing combination.

Perhaps the most outstanding performers for San Jose were Bill Burt, Dave Barr, Rinaldo Wren, Jim Stockdale, Charlie Barrachi, and Harry Hardiman, although to enumerate the outstanding performers is difficult because De Groot kept changing his line-up.

SWIMMING

Eighteen enthusiastic mermaids attended the first meeting of the swimming club last Monday P. M.

The swimming club is open to all women students who wish to participate in informal swimming competition, water games, diving and life saving activities. Miss Gail Tucker, the club advisor, said. Girls need not be in a swimming class now, or need not have taken a class here in order to be eligible for admission in this club, according to Miss Tucker.

A swimming demonstration, for the home coming and rally days, is being planned by the club, and Miss Tucker requests that all girls, who are interested in taking part in this event, attend the Swimming Club meeting tonight at 7:15 o'clock.

Store To Show Action Pictures Of Games

A series of action pictures will be taken of the San Jose State football games and displayed by the J.S. Williams Clothing Store, at 227-233 South First Street, it was announced yesterday by Captain Dario Simoni.

Stanford-San Jose State game pictures taken last Saturday are now on display at this store. To follow these, several graphic pictures, showing plays close-up will be made of each of the following games: Santa Barbara Athletic Club, Olympic Club, Chico State, Willamette, Pacific, and Whittier. "Pictures of last year's games were so popular that it was decided to continue them this year," said Captain Simoni.

Frosh Grid Coach Worried By Lack Of Hefty Tackles

DeWitt Portal, coach of the Spartan freshman football team, not only lacks hefty tackles, but other sources of worry as well.

It seems that the parents of several of his football players will not allow their sons to participate in the grid game this year. According to Portal, three of his leading candidates are being kept away from practice because of parental objections.

Coach Portal expressed wonder at the fact that on his squad of 50 men there are not more than one or two of local boys. There is said to be quite a few boys from the San Jose high school eleven at State this year, but so far none have shown intentions of joining the freshman gridders, Portal declares.

Junior High Group To Hear Coleman At Tuesday Meet

Discussion of the present physical education problem in the Junior high school by Hugh Coleman, Physical Education Director at Theodore Roosevelt Junior High School will feature the first meeting of the Junior high Majors to be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in room one of the Home Making building.

Mr. William McCoard, of the Speech Arts department will also give a short talk on his travels through Europe during the past summer. Music for the program is to be provided by Emil Miland, who is doing his student teaching in the Music Department at Theodore Roosevelt Junior High school this quarter.

All Junior High Majors are urged to attend the first meeting of the quarter.

SLICK ADVICE

Apple-polishing's the game That students love to play, Laugh at your professors' jokes So you will get an "A".

NOTICES !!

The headline, Classical Dancing for Graceful Men, which appeared in Thursday's Daily was misleading to many readers. The modern dance work to be presented in the class is of a vigorous and athletic nature, incorrectly interpreted as "classical".

Intramural Activities

The annual program of Intramural activities, sponsored by the Physical Education majors, and under the supervision of Coach Charlie Walker, will get underway soon. Present plans call for a varied program of sports, in which all men students have been urged to participate, by Coach Walker.

The program will be divided into quarters. During the first quarter, activities will be confined to soccer, speedball and touch football. Winter quarter competition will be in basketball, foul shooting, swimming, water polo, and gymnastics. Spring quarter sports will be volleyball, baseball, track, tennis, and golf.

Other activities in the realm of physical education will be considered and added to the program if a sufficient number of students request them.

The class of 1936 won the intramural award last year with a total of 2758 points. The class of '35 was second with a total score of 1306. The class of '37 was a close second, and finished last.

Coach Walker will be assisted in this quarter's work by Byron Lamphear and Louis Macke. Both of these men are well qualified to fill these positions, as Macke and Lamphear have both had plenty of experience in this line. Lamphear had charge of the winning sophomore team last year.

Coach Walker urges that the classes will organize as soon as possible, to insure the success of the intramural schedule. Each class should either elect, or have the class president appoint an intramural manager, says Mr. Walker. The duties of these managers would be to organize the representative class teams.

P. E. Majors Hold Positions

Ann McNeal, graduated from State in 1932, has been teaching in a rural school in Contra Costa county, and is now in Richmond City School system.

Dorothy Horn, also graduated from State in the class of 1932, has been doing recreation work in Berkeley. She is now holding a half time job in the Berkeley High School.

Ideas On Election Are Expected By Literary Student

Editor Spartan Daily
State Teachers College
San Jose, Calif.

Dear Sir:

Due to a suggestion obtained in reading the editorial column of Friday's issue of the Spartan Daily, I am submitting my own views on the problems with which we are faced in our next State election. The material contained is taken from a much larger article I recently wrote entitled "Whither Are We Bound?" While no doubt many will not agree with my viewpoint in this matter, nevertheless, I do present certain points for consideration which are sometimes overlooked.

Before succumbing too quickly to the influence of the new plan which is presented to us in the next election, I feel that it is well that we consider the following facts:

Living conditions in our country are probably better than in any other country of the world, even than in those countries that have undergone radical changes of government in the past few years.

Both as a nation and as individuals we are rich in possession of physical resources and moral advantages.

Everything we have today, our radios, automobiles, homes, fine roads, parks, public schools, and even the money which makes possible our attendance in school, we have acquired under this much-condemned profit system.

Had we built a fine home and later discovered that the roof leaked in a few places, would we tear down the house or would we set about repairing the leaks?

Many believe that the profit system is the very foundation of our success. If so should we, or dare we, destroy the goose that has laid for us the golden egg?

No doubt our present roof of state has many leaks—most of them there for but one reason—our own neglect.

If so then the fault is primarily ours. It is with us then wherein lies the solution. In my opinion it will be far easier to correct the faults in our old system rather than overthrow it for a newer plan and one as yet untried in actual practice.

With a plan so filled with faults as its opponents say are found in the old system of government I think we have done wonderfully well. How much better might we do if we would stop chasing rainbows, correct the faults and stick by this old ship that has brought us safely through so many storms.

Sadie Sallies Forth To Find Philosophy

bakes no bread nor buys no Buicks. It isn't the kind of a subject which one studies for the purpose of increasing his income. And yet an engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads once told me that every college student ought to study philosophy. A physician at Stanford hospital named philosophy as his most valuable cultural subject. And the record of Stanford graduates in philosophy show many of them to be filling important positions in this business world. It can't be entirely useless."

INTERESTING SKETCHES TO BE PRESENTED AT MEETING OF ORCHESIS

Philosophies, Theories Of Modern Dancing Are Discussed

By MISS MARGARET JEWEL
Women's Physical Education
Instructor

Martha Graham, New York concert dancer and leader in the modern dance movement in America, was the first dance artist to be included Wednesday night in the new series of informal discussions inaugurated by Orchesis.

These sketches presented by Orchesis members concerning leaders in the dance and current theories, philosophies, and techniques of the modern dance, are to be a part of each Orchesis meeting.

Martha Graham, whose name to some people conveys all that is revolutionary and introverted in the modern dance, was born in Pittsburgh of a venerable line of New England and New Dutch ancestry. whose tinge of Scotch-Irish ancestry gazed with staunch Presbyterian disapproval on small Martha's first theatrical activity. However, an early move to California, added by the mellow glow of the Pacific sun, soon permitted her interest in the theater to become active.

Her first professional work was with Ruth St. Denis and left with her the long experience of dance as theatre and a sure sense of costume design. She had also begun work with Louise Harst, who as her accompanist, composer, and severe critic, has had a powerful influence over her work.

Martha Graham's first work as an individual dance artist and choreographer was distinguished by a morbid, indrawn, very neatly neurotic character. This period in technique was typified by heaviness, power, and extreme tension. The body impulse to movement started with convulsive abdominal contraction and a pelvic push forward.

Now she is presenting movement which is freer, more continuous, and more lyrical. The astonishing enlargement of her technical equipment has resulted in a more joyous dance spirit. Her recent concert appearances in the East have been hailed by both critic and audience with fervent applause.

The review of Martha Graham's personality and work was presented by Beth Simmerville and followed by group participation in techniques from Martha Graham's work accompanied by the music composed for them by Louise Harst.

Ruth Eaton will present a review of the Wigman theories and philosophy of the dance at the next Orchesis meeting.

value for the average student?"

"We all philosophize, from Dr. MacQuarrie to Charlie, the genial janitor, and from the reference department of the library to the south-east corner of the women's gym. To study philosophy helps us to do better something that we are going to do anyway. Moreover, there are certain shocks and strains of life which we all have to face sooner or later. A well thought-out philosophy is a shock-absorber. In this sense, philosophy is exceedingly practical."

"They laugh at me when I talk philosophy."

"Don't let that worry you. You are in good company when you are among the philosophers."

Seniors Must File Applications With Miss Viola Palmer

All seniors who expect to graduate at the end of the present quarter should make application for graduation in the Registrar's office at once; according to an official announcement. Students should see Miss Palmer.

The final date that applications for December graduation will be accepted will be November first, but it is advisable to attend to the matter before that time, it was declared.

In addition to the December graduation, all seniors who expect to graduate this year should go to the registrar's office this quarter and check their requirements for graduation.

Thus they can make certain that they are completing all subjects that will be required of them, and outline their entire program for the remainder of the year.

"A ROUND TRIP TICKET TO PALO ALTO," OR "THE PERILS OF COMMUTING"

By A. Elnora Christiansen

Maze, haze, craze, daze-daze, that's it! School daze—wonderful school daze—commuters' daze, I mean days. What happened? Where am I? Don't tell me, I know; I missed the train! No, that's wrong, I caught the train.

I know I caught the train; I remember catching the train, why are those houses running by? Anyway, I'm always on the train! Understand?—at least that's how I feel.

ARE YOU DEAF

Now that that's settled, let's study—study, I said! Are you deaf? No, I'm not sick—I feel fine—no buzzing in my head, no ringing in my ears—but there soon will be if some of this racket doesn't cease. Oh yes, study—study what—History—m-m-m—let's see—Alexander, what'd he do?

Did you hear that girl across the aisle bid four no trump? Ever tell you about the time I made a grand slam? Well it was like this: my partner leads with the—say! you aren't listening. Asleep, can you imagine that! How anyone can sleep when—heh! pull down that shade. Yes you! How can I read about this Alex person with the sun in his eyes—I mean, my eyes—I mean how can I read with the sun in my eyes!

SANTA CLARA! ALREADY? Psst! Carol, look-quick-no over on the other side—let's see—the one, two, three—yes the third seat in front of that boy in the white sweater—isn't that the cutest hat! What'd he say? What did that conductor say—Santa Clara! already!

I'll have to study some more—ho hum—where was I—Oh say: did you hear the Big Ten last Tuesday? What came in first? It did? Oh, its pretty good, but my favorite is still, "I Never Had A Chance." Wha-da-da-un-da—don't try to be funny is it my fault if you never have a chance to study? All you need is a little concentration.

Now from the moment I sit down with a book till—oh, Bob, how about bringing me some water? Let's see, where was I? Oh yes! I was telling you how to concentrate—thank you, Bob—careful, you'll spill it! Oh all over

CONDUCT OF LIBRARY DEPARTMENT STUPID SAYS IRED STUDENT

'Baleful Glances' Are Hindrance To Study Says Murray

'inappreciation' to a breach of accepted library etiquette, Seldom, if ever, have I seen a student making his presence obnoxious in the college library. However, there are a few of Miss Backus' disciples who seem to regard themselves as personally responsible for the welfare of the students. They stare balefully over their spectacles at an "erring student" until their attention is returned, and then with a bitter-sweet smile on their lips, cluck their tongues, or shake their heads. This is very annoying and discomforting, especially when one is busy and finds it necessary to converse with another student on a subject of importance. (This of course does not apply to those members of the library department who have always been reasonable and anxious to help the students with their problems).

But aside from the obvious differences in opinion held by what I feel to be the majority of students and certain members of the library, the fact remains that even if Miss Backus has an ax to grind, her disciplinary measures are unjust. I think everyone concerned realizes the seriousness of the situation, but it might also be pointed out that the students most directly affected are those who are devoting their time to athletics and other extra-curricular activities. That is unquestionably an injustice.

Such an absurd state of affairs cannot continue. As has been declared in the Spartan Daily, it appears imminent that the library will return to its former schedule in the near future. The fact that a newly appointed library committee of eight students has assured the library departmental head that the other 2000 and some odd students are going to be on their good behavior in the future is very encouraging.

This should certainly satisfy Miss Backus' demands for an 'assurance of cooperation'.

As the armistice is so nearly at hand I take the liberty of reiterating. I believe that the conduct of the library has been stupid, pedagogical, befitting gram-

24 Chosen To San Jose Players; Much Talent On Hand For Tryouts

From approximately one hundred students trying out for San Jose Players, twenty-four have been chosen to become members of the popular State college dramatic organization, according to Mr. Hugh W. Gillis, director.

The tryouts, held last Thursday and Friday afternoons, revealed some promising talent which will be seen in the forthcoming season of Player's productions.

The tryout committee was composed of Mr. Gillis, Mr. William Sweeney, Mr. Laurence Mendenhall, and Mr. William McCoard, the seat!

We'd better move—Oh! never mind we're already here—so long! I'll tell you about (hey! stop pushing) about that concentration—I said concentration. C-o-n what's the use? I'll see her on the train tomorrow.

A Student Prays For Intelligence, Great Pefection

By L. M. GARBIN

"Prayer is the union of a man's will and consciousness with his loftiest conception of goodness, nobleness, and beauty"—Crane.

Oh, Lord of Intelligence, please listen to my humble prayer:

By Education I understand it to mean Self-direction to a dynamic, rich, radiant, and useful human life. I am in school, O Great Power, to learn the fundamental and integrative principles of that self-direction. And all I ask, O mysterious Logos, is an ignition of my native endowments with analytic common sense so that I can think clearly of the intrinsic values of those rules of directing myself.

Widen my horizon so that I can see loveably the social significance of what I am pursuing.

Reveal to me intangibles that enrich not only my personal life but also those of others. Make me not oblivious of my obligations to the Great Society without which I would not be what I am today: My spiritual status would be identical with those of the lower animals whose laws are "survival of the fittest" and impulsive, sensual gratification.

Keep me thoughtful, considerate, genial to my fellow-students, or, to assume more a cosmopolitan superiority complex, to all fellow-sufferers—whether he be black or white. Inculcate to me the right, the democratic attitude. Let me radiate good-will; friendliness.

Purge me of all disagreeable, loathsome, egotistical, unsocial instincts and habits. Let me cultivate the habits of health, independent thinking, and society.

Deepen, broaden, enlarge, and beautify my conception of humanity.

Harmonize, O, Omnipotent, my school life, my private life, and public life.

Enable me, God of my soul, with these sentiments so that I may be in tune with your divine purpose.

I hope I am not asking too much, Great Principle, but if I am, it is to attain self-perfection, not necessarily "perfection" but a certain degree of spiritual growth in which I realize myself as a spark of your intelligence.

—Amen.
