MacQuarrie Assures
New Building To Complete Quad

ROOMS ADDED

Morris Dailey Stage
Will Be Remodeled

San Jose State college will have a new library within the next two years, believes Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie, college president.

This additional building will be placed where it will complete the front quad on Fourth street, though no definite plans regarding construction have been made.

Tentative plans call for the new building to contain several classrooms for the English department, the remainder of the building to be devoted to other classrooms or used as offices for the administration.

The only other additional improvement which is being planned is an addition to the Morris Dailey auditorium, greatly enlarging the stage and remodeling the interior.

According to Dr. MacQuarrie, San Jose State college will be able within two years to take over the present high school, which will greatly relieve crowded conditions.

Heroes Revealed At Death

Former Scouts Rescue Canine

By KEITH BIRLEM

"We seen our duty and we done it." So spoke Ray Bruton, popular campus play boy and yell leader, who yesterday showed that chivalry is not dead.

Today chivalry usually means stooping to pick up a purse or letting a fair co-ed pass through a door first. But it remained for former Boy Scouts Ray Bruton and varsity basketball Captain Frank Carroll to assume the role of good Samaritan yesterday as a dying dog panted out its last breath on the San Jose State quad lawn.

Change Location For Saturday's APO Barn Dance

Presenting the first fraternity dance of the season on the evening of October 16, Alpha Pi Omega has secured Phil Triena and his orchestra to supply collegiate rhythm for the affair, which will be held in the Emory and Bascom streets barn.

According to Jack Mabel, Alpha Pi Omega official and dance chairman, the fraternity is planning to make the affair a costume dance with prizes awarded for the best costume.

Speaking of past A.P.O. dances, Mabel said yesterday, "The barn dance is an annual occurrence and has always had a large attendance by State eds and co-eds. A great many bids have been sold already, and purchasers who attended last year's barn dance seem enthusiastic over plans for the night of October 16. In regard to bids already sold, Mabel warns that special attention be paid to the fact that location of the dance has been changed to Emory at Bascom since city engineers advised against use of a previously designated building.

Bids to the dance may be obtained at the Controller's office or from any member of the fraternity.

He plans to deal extensively with the history of neutrality and its general content. Dr. Poytress will indicate the indefiniteness of neutrality and the necessity of a definite policy to minimize danger of war.

At a meeting of the senior committee in the Spartan Union yesterday tentative programs were planned for he senior meetings. Programs which were discussed include a lecture by Dr. T. W. Just Among Ourselves

By Dr. T. W. MACQUARRIE

It takes a little while for us to settle into stride. We are gradually getting acquainted, finding out who's who, and establishing our personalities in the college community.

While we are, in general, enthusiastic over our new crop of students, that doesn't blind us to the fact that there are a few problem children among them. Some of them have evidently misunderstood our welcome and have accepted it as an indication that we shall not be critical if they pass the bounds of sensible behavior. I hope we make no mistake about that. While the college is interested in having everyone as happy as possible, still that can only come about when all of us are considerate of the rights of others. You don't get much of a college education by uttering wise-cracks for the neighbors to hear. A college education requires some good solid work, and it can easily be limited by too much foolishness.

THE SHOW-OFFS

I noticed in Freshman Orientation the other day that a few were attracting unwarranted attention to themselves. They didn't get much applause from their fellows, but they made themselves a nuisance and the group had to stand it. It's sort of embarrassing to talk to a college student as if he were a fifth grader but we can't have that sort of thing, of course, and it may be necessary to eliminate some of the light-weights before the year is over.

If you have been accustomed to startling the natives in your home town, you should begin to realize that it is not a pleasant habit and you may well take measures to get rid of it.

WATCH FOR THIEVES

May I repeat that warning about thieves? We have had some stealing and some cribbing lately. We'll try to handle the cribbing, but I hope you will help us to catch the thieves. We can't do that alone. If you know a thief, be sure to report him. Those creatures have no respect for you whatever. They will steal the last cent you have, whether you go hungry or not. We do finally get them, but not usually until they have done some serious damage.

Also, may I repeat my former suggestion on parking? Please do not use more than one parking space. If you don't know how to park your car, get someone else to do it, or keep out of the college parking area. Every time we check up on them, we find three or four cars which give evidence of either selfish or inefficient drivers.

What's In THE NEWS

Case Of The Missing Liners: So momentous a problem that even antagonistic Los Angeles and San Francisco were moved to act together, the Pacific Coast Steamship "steal" winds up this week with both California ports in the loss column. Three luxurious Grace liners will be recalled from Pacific runs immediately—and, it is rumored, other inter-coastal lines are rehearsing for sharp service reduction.

Mediterranean Mess: The British cabinet will meet today and give ear to French proposals that the Anglo-Norman allies take over Minorca (Spanish island) before Mussolini moves in. Minorca straddles empire life lines and is the only one of its group not Italo-Germanic - Insurgent controlled. Other European revelations today have II Duce hurling troops into Tripoli with a merry smirk at French colonial frontiers, and Madrid offering to disband her international brigade if Franco's foreign helpmates will clear out; logical conclusion: No Sale.

Death In the Republican Party: Making his wordy exit only two and a half months after his Treasury department mentor and predecessor, Andrew Mellon, the death of Ogden L. Mills this week leaves the nation minus its number two conservative, and the Republican party with one less presidential possibility.

Success For Ray FAME SEEKS OUT PSYCH WIZARD

Fame and fortune, or notoriety at the very least, seem to be seeking out Raymond Wallace, psychology major. Last spring a technical article written by him on a psychological subject appeared in a national magazine. The other day he happened to be doing his free reading in front of a news stand, and found that his article was being quoted.

Needless to say, he bought the magazine. (Ed. note: Don't get swellheaded, Ray, that's just a way these mags have of building up their circulation.)

Behind The News

By SHIRLIE STRAUB

The American Neutrality Act and its significance in view of the Sino-Japanese struggle was discussed yesterday by Dr. Earl C. Campbell, guest speaker for the Behind the News class.

United States interest in China are varied—political interest being the main one, though economical and sentimental reasons are also important, Dr. Campbell pointed out.

The political interest of the United States in China arises from the fact that the United States is the principal power in the Pacific area. Affairs of the Far East are, therefore, of continuous interest to the United States.

That the Neutrality Act was passed mainly in an effort to help the United States escape the dangerous contacts which might draw her into a war is shown by the provisions of the act. Among these provisions is the one banning the export of arms, or ammunition to either side involved in the conflict. This provision was created to provide impartiality.

Public opinion in the United States seems to favor China in the present situation, but should the act be enforced now, the results might favor Japan, and hurt China, because of the fact that China depends upon the United States more than does Japan. Trade also, would be hurt, other countries gaining by our loss.

BEWARE

A dreaded contagious disease is rapidly spreading through Sacramento Junior college, and care should be taken that it does not contaminate this institution of higher learning. In advanced stages, the nervous and the muscular systems of the patient become violently infected; body movements become uncontrollable and the limbs fly in all directions. This disease is known scientifically as podiamobilities, but locally as truckin'.

A HISTORICAL HAPPENING

The Kappa who answered said she was afraid she couldn't make it, but there might be someone—well, she'd ask. Yes, Gertie could make it.

"Well," said Bill, "that's fine. Does she smoke?"
"I guess so."

CO-OP NIGHT CLUB

Editor, the "Daily",
Dear Sir:

In consideration of the entertaining ability on our campus and the high cost of "Going Out", I think the idea of a night club in the student union is worthy of consideration. This idea was favorably received by the student council of last spring, but there was too little time before vacation to accomplish anything.

This would be a strictly student affair. With student management and student orchestra and entertainers, we could furnish first class entertainment for students, many of whom could but rarely afford to "go places".

Not only would this save the students money and give jobs and experience to some of our talented entertainers and business managers, but it would afford a really nice place to go.

—HAMPTON RICHEY.

THE PERFECT PLAN

To the Editor,

Dear Sir:

An analysis indicates that there are three problems to cope with in eliminating the dangers of our Fourth street side of the campus.

First is to provide a safe crossing for students at the intersections of Fourth and San Fernando, San Antonio, and San Carlos.

Second is to prevent an interruption of Fourth street traffic.

Third is to keep the cost of the

"Does she drink?"

"It sounds like it."

"Well, what's her name?"

"Gertrude Stein."

Bill hung up.

—BETTY DEMING.

project at a minimum.

In the opinion of many of us the solution that would satisfy all three requirements would be the erection of synchronized "Stop and Go" signs at the three intersections. This would permit a steady flow of traffic at the maximum rate of speed and still protect the lives of students. It would also eliminate the needless expenditure for underpasses that would never be used.

—HAROLD BARRIES.

DOUBLE PARKING

Dear Editor:

Automobiles were originally meant as a means of transportation, not as implements with which to injure human beings. People took to them as a duck to water and as they became easier to handle the driver accumulated the idea that he did not need to be so careful and that it was not necessary to watch the road carefully. Thus was the evolution of the reckless driver, and today in this manner, automobiles streak recklessly down Fourth street.

This street has become an arterial boulevard and because double parking is still allowed near the cross walks, the place has become one of the most dangerous spots in San Jose.

The pedestrian stepping from behind a parked car cannot see an oncoming vehicle and the driver is unable to see the person crossing. Stopping double parking on Fourth street would undoubtedly remove some of the danger from the "Death Trap".

Dick Weisgerber Leads Willamette Team

SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1937

DAN CUPID On The Job AGAIN

Campus romance springs up again, and this time it's Miss Ann Lavoie, secretary in the men's physical education department, and Bob Drexel, veteran tackle on the Spartan football eleven. The engagement was disclosed recently, and the couple plan to be married next summer.

Miss Lavoie is now in her fourth year as secretary in the physical education office. Drexel is now playing his last year of football.

The romance began when Drexel met Miss Lavoie on the train enroute to Stockton in 1935. The secretary is a native of San Jose, and attended State after graduating from Campbell High school. Bob was a star athlete at Richmond High school and attended Washington State for a year.

Ace Fullback One Of Most Feared Gridders In Entire Northwest

Bearcats Claim Outstanding Backfield; DuBose, Sanders Out For Revenge

By WILBUR KORSMEIER

Two hundred and ten pounds of human dynamite that can pass, run, kick, and block with the best of football men, will be in action in Spartan Stadium Friday night. Dick Weisgerber is the man, and last year he represented Willamette University as fullback on the "little" All-American football team. He will be counted on to do most of the job of perpetuating the Bearcat jinx over San Jose.

In 1934 Coach "Spec" Keene brought his eleven to San Jose and trounced the Spartans, 21-7. The following year Coach Dud DeGroot traveled to Salem primed to defeat the Willamette team. Johnny Oravec proved too much in that game, and the Spartans went down to a 14-0 defeat. Oravec, who was named on a "little" All-American team that year, is now assistant coach at the northern school.

Glenn DuBose, Norman Sanders, and Clyde Voorhees saw action in the 1935 clash, and the former two players will be back again Friday night to try and even matters.

Because of his good selection of plays and his superb defense in backing up the line, Keith Birlem, junior quarterback, was named the most valuable man to his team in Friday night's game with Arizona State college. He will receive merchandise from J. S. Williams.

Voorhees, out of uniform since the College of Idaho game with a cracked ankle, will be forced to watch this game from the sidelines. Clyde may be off crutches the latter part of the week, and should see a little action in the CalTech game the following week.

The Bearcats have won the Pacific Northwest title so many times, that it isn't news unless they lose the crown. This year again, Coach Keene's outfit appears on the way to another championship. The 20-0 win over Portland University last Saturday served notice that the Bearcats were not to be trifled with. Portland entered that game a distinct favorite, but, according to those who saw the affair, Willamette could have won the game by a 35-0 score.

The ground attack of the invaders is based not only on Dick Weisgerber, but on three other outstanding backfield men. Bunny Bennett, Billy Beard, and Jiggs Burnett, with Weisgerber form one of the greatest backfields ever seen in the north. They will keep the Spartans on the alert all evening.

INTRA-MURAL TOURNAMENT PLAY TO OPEN NEXT WEEK

Word from the physical education office yesterday revealed that competition in the annual intra-mural basketball tournament will get under way next week, provided enough teams have been signed by that time.

Due to the large entry list usually received, the league will be broken up into four leagues, each featuring teams organized by a different group. The four divisions will be formed by squads representing individuals, classes, clubs, and towns. Play in the tournament will be under round robin rules with the winners of the four leagues meeting to decide the winner of the intra-mural tournament.

According to "Tiny" Hartranft, intra-mural head, the rules of the league will limit each team to one varsity basketball man or one member of the freshman squad. No team will be allowed more than one member of either basketball team.

Games for the tournament will be played from 6 to 7 P.M. each week day, according to a schedule to be worked out when all entries have been received. Managers of teams are asked to sign up and list their line-ups in the physical education office.

NOTICE

Will all persons selling tickets to W.A.A. hay ride return tickets and money to Mrs. Calkins, P.E. office, by Wednesday at 4:00 P.M. Tickets will be sold by Mrs. Calkins until Thursday noon.
