C.S.T.A. GROUP MAKES PLANS FOR MEETING

Organization activities for the local California Student Teachers Association were completed yesterday noon when the group's executive board met to lay plans for the first business and social meeting next Thursday.

BROWN PRESIDES

President Arthur Brown presided at the conclave at which time Edith Mauzy, vice-president, and Stella Schnabel, executive board member, were named to arrange for the social part of the Thursday meeting.

Officers of the organization indicated that Thursday's meeting will be the first regular one for the C.S.T.A. Plans for the quarter are expected to be discussed at that time, it was indicated.

OFFICERS NAMED

Officers of the organization include President Brown; Miss Mauzy, vice-president; Manuel Silva, secretary; Lois Swanson, treasurer; and Harold Smith and Miss Schnabel, executive board members.

Tamah Tamah Club Dance Set For Tomorrow

The annual Tamah Tamah club Harvest dance will be held Saturday night at the YWCA.

With decorations of cornstalks, farm utensils, and several tons of hay, the "back to the farm" movement will mean costumes of farmers and farmerettes for those attending.

Bill Southwood's popular five-piece orchestra from Palo Alto has been secured for music and several intermission specialty numbers have been arranged.

Admission will be 35 cents per person. San Jose State college students are invited.

Psychology Tea

Psychology and philosophy majors were honored by instructors and assistants of those departments at a tea held in Room 118 yesterday afternoon.

An informal get-together held for the purpose of acquainting majors with aims and advantages of their courses, the program consisted of impromptu discussions by faculty members.

Tickets for the San Jose Players' initial production of the year, "Twelfth Night", are now on sale in the office of Mr. Hugh W. Gillis, members of the Speech department announce.

There are seats available for all three performances, November 1, 2, and 4. This foremost of Shakespeare's comedies is being directed by Mr. James Clancy, of the Speech department, who has several original plays to his credit. Last year Mr. Clancy's play, "Trouble In My Prayer", was produced in conjunction with the Players.

"Twelfth Night" will feature new costumes, new lighting equipment, and a large revolving stage of the type employed in Broadway musical productions.

Mr. Gillis requests all those who would like to work in this production as ushers, stage crew, electricians, costumers, make-up artists, or property people, to see him immediately.

Knights Consider 'Squire' Pledges

Spartan Knights, men's honorary campus service fraternity, will consider a class of "Squire" neophytes for membership this quarter, according to "Duke" Mannie Silva.

Consideration of pledges will commence at Tuesday's luncheon meeting in the Knight room, and will continue to the end of the quarter when "Hell Week" will take place, Silva announced.

Plans are underway to honor three outstanding members of the Freshman class, who will be selected at their meeting.

The fraternity is also making plans for a school skating party which will be held before the end of the quarter, according to Silva. Also, plans are already underway for the annual Knight dance which will be given in the spring.

'Splash Party'

Come on out to the first quarterly Swim-A-Nic next Wednesday from 4 to 7, and forget all about those "blue card blues", urges Jean Cancilla, chairman for the affair.

The "Splash Party" at the pool will include swimming from 4 to 5:30 with a dinner following at the Italian Hotel. All girls are welcome regardless of swimming ability, and sign-ups should be made as soon as possible either at the pool or in the Women's gym. "Bring your own cap and an o.k. from

Fees Due Now

Today is the last day in which course fees can be paid without a late fee of $1.00.

Beginning tomorrow, the late fee will be added. Students who do not pay before Friday, November 3, will have their registration cancelled, and will be required to pay an additional fee of $3.00.

Payments are being accepted in the Business office.

FOURTH APO DANCE TOMORROW NIGHT

Amid corn stalks, shocks of hay, and pumpkins, students of San Jose State will frolic at the fourth annual Alpha Pi Omega fraternity Halloween Barn Dance at Matasci's barn this Saturday night.

Ducats for the affair went on sale last week at a dollar a bid. Charles Faulkner and Steve Hosa, committee heads, announced yesterday that tickets for the dance are selling fast, but bids can be obtained from any Alpha Pi Omega member or at the Controller's office. Those deciding to go at the last minute can secure bids at the door Saturday night.

Five new pledges will be honored guests at the affair. They are: Joseph Watson, Kenneth Nagel, Douglas Curry, Will Craddock, and Kenneth Nosler.

Matasci's Barn, on Downer Avenue, is the scene of the affair, with Tommy Coleman's quintet furnishing the music.

Mixed Doubles Play-Offs Set For Today

She also stated that the women's tennis ladder has been changed to individual class ladders and is posted on the bulletin board in the Women's gymnasium.

State Battles Southerners At 8 O'clock

DeGrootmen Head For Seventh Straight Victory Tonight

Santa Barbara's gaudy Gauchos, brandishing a keen-edged "stilto", will take a wild slash at San Jose's perfect gridiron record when the two teams meet in a California Collegiate Athletic Association game tonight at 8 o'clock in Spartan Stadium.

The DeGroot-Warner coached football team, riding high with seven straight wins and 170 points in the scoring cash register, are heavy favorites to topple the invaders from the "Channel City".

SANTA BARBARA RECORD

Santa Barbara's win and loss record doesn't stack up anything like San Jose's, but the Gauchos have turned in some impressive showings and have looked best against the tough elevens. The Gauchos have made 5 appearances on the gridiron to date, winning two, losing two, and tying the other. Spud Harder's henchmen have hit enemy goal lines for 46 points and in turn have yielded 34 digits to their opponents.

In their last outing against the University of San Francisco Dons, the Gauchos won a moral victory by holding the bay area team to a scoreless tie. Santa Barbara's two wins came at the expense of Occidental, 20-0, and Willamette University, 20-14. They bowed to Fresno State, 13-6, and the San Diego Marines, 7-0.

"MAGINOT LINE"

San Jose's other opponents have found it impossible to honey-comb the Spartan "Maginot Line", and the Santa Barbarans have mapped their plans accordingly. Spud Harder has instructed the Spaniards to fill the ozone at Spartan Stadium with passes in an attempt to get around the locals' forward wall.

The Gaucho backs have what it

Ragtime Dance November 4

"Ragtime" is the theme of the next student body dance which will be held in the Men's gym on Saturday, November 4, announces Selma Kann, social affairs head.

Old clothes will be in order since decorations will be carried out in an old-time fashion. Sheldon Talx's orchestra will play at the affair.

Ballots For Name Contest Must Be Turned In Today

Today is the last chance for students to turn in ballots in the Phi Epsilon Kappa contest to rename the Helen Smith quartet, according to Jim Fahn and Bob Locks, two of the judges.

Ballots, which appear for the last time in today's Spartan Daily, must be turned in to the contributor's box in the Publications office by this afternoon, they said.

Prize for the chosen name will be four tickets to the "Spartan Review" November 21, sponsored by the P. E. fraternity.

Epsilon Nu Gamma, pre-engineering fraternity, and Beta Gamma Chi are the latest organizations to contribute 100 per cent quotas to the San Jose State college campus Community Chest drive, headed by Bob Work.

Slowly climbing toward the top of the giant Chest-O-Graph outside the Morris Dailey auditorium is the red marker showing, besides the two named, contributions by the Rainbow club, Spartan Knights, Spartan Spears, Tau Delta Omega, the Chinese Student club, and Alpha Eta Sigma.

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS

Besides organization donations, contributions for the Chest drive are being obtained from the numerous Koin Kettles, which have been set up at various places on the campus, namely, in the Co-op, the Quad, front of the Home Economics building, front of the Publications office, and outside the library.

Buttons bearing the Chest "Good Americans Are Good Neighbors" slogan have been disappearing faster than the money pours in, according to Work, making questionable the honor system of giving buttons for donations.

DANCE ORCHESTRA

Special entertainment programs have also been planned to raise money for the Chest, the water polo game Tuesday being the first in a group of shows which will include a Jamboree on November

SCANNING THE STACKS

By IRENE MELTON

Do you know what a splat is? No, it's not double talk, but merely the technical name for the upright central back piece in a chair.

This bit of information is found in the "Furniture Treasury", a three volume encyclopedia addition to the library reference department. A veritable treasure indeed for the home decorator is this interesting, informative work including, not only illustrations and notes on furniture, but also nearly every American hardware and household utensil as well.

Over 5,000 pictures as well as numerous diagrams, descriptions, and a glossary, are found in the "Furniture Treasury".

And, by the way, have you noticed a difference at the reference desk? It seems an expansion of the pamphlet file made necessary an enlarging of the desk itself; so now two desks have been placed together to facilitate issuing of books.

Nautical but nice is the current book exhibit in the library, bearing the title of "Tales of the Seas". Included in the display are several works by Joseph Conrad, among them "Typhoon", and "Down to the Sea in Ships" by Irvin Anthony.

Cigarette smokers, as well as non-smokers, should find interesting "The Tobacco Kingdom", a new book describing the tobacco plantation, market, and factory in Virginia and North Carolina from 1800 to 1880.

Written by a history instructor at the Ohio State University, the book celebrates the anniversary of origins of Trinity College, from which Duke University developed.

Voice of Reaction

By BILL MCLEAN

(Editor's Note: The Voice of Reaction, one of the most popular of Daily columns in recent years, returns today with its conductor, Bill McLean, in the role of guest columnist.)

Once upon a time there was a boy who was in love with two girls, Anna-May and Hildegard, who always went around together. He followed these two girls around everywhere they went because that was the only way he could express himself. You see, he hadn't yet passed sub-freshman English, which doesn't make any difference anyhow because sub-freshman English does not recognize the existence of girls and the course of true love.

But, ANYWAY, all day this fellow, whose name was Albert, followed closely behind these two girls. But he didn't seem to be getting anywhere. "Why, oh why," he asked himself miserably, "do not these beautiful creatures pay any attention to me?" For it seemed as if they weren't. But they WERE (of course). They were quietly planning. "Which one of us," they said, "shall have him?" Finally they decided that Hildegard liked Albert the most, so she should have him. So-o-o, Anna-May said to Hildegard, "Albert follows us every day so closely I can feel his breath. Now, tomorrow, just as we reach a certain corner, you trip and fall (backwards) and you'll be in his arms. The rest will be easy." So Hildegard said, "All right".

Now Albert was worried, because at a certain place in the daily itinerary the girls separated, and every day he came close to having a nervous breakdown trying to follow both of them.

Then one day he had an idea. "I will get my friend, Torvald," he said, "to follow these beautiful creatures with me. And when they separate he can take care of one while I take care of the other. Then, at least I can have a vicarious pleasure."

Before Albert would trust Torvald to follow one of his girls alone he made him go through a practice period, accompanying Albert closely behind Anna-May and Hildegard.

One day, while they were doing this they reached the corner where the girls separated. And just as Albert whispered to Torvald, "OK, you're on your own now," Hildegard tripped and fell backwards

Election Laws Clarified...

The muddled election laws of San Jose State college have finally reached some state of clarity with the completion of a new set of rules and regulations drawn up and submitted by the three-man election committee and accepted by the student council at Tuesday night's meeting.

For years the election boards have been functioning under a set of laws which, while they fitted the annual council elections well enough, were useless and confusing for the most part under any other set of conditions.

The new rules and regulations are designed to provide specifically for any case and to avoid the trouble, uncertainty, and confusion, such as was seen in the last yell-leader election. —Rodrick.

NOTICE

Freshmen: The Garb committee has decided on Jean Jackets for the frosh to wear to represent the class of '43. If you already have a Jean Jacket, the emblems will sell for 20 cents.

into . . . alas . . . Torvald's arms. Instantly, they fell deeply in love with each other. Albert, seeing now that Hildegard could never be his, decided that Hildegard was the girl he loved the most. Rage overcame him as he realized that his lady-love had betrayed him with another man; so, to spite her, he approached Anna-May and asked her to marry him, which she did, because she realized that her girl-friend was getting married, and she wanted to, too. She disliked Albert intensely. Needless to say, Albert and Anna-May lived a horrible life. And after Torvald and Hildegard were wed, Hildegard discovered that her husband did not speak English. So all four lived unhappily ever after, and died in convulsions.

This tragic tale is dedicated to Marjorie Claes, who did NOT inspire it, I am glad to say.

The Faculty On Ham And Eggs

The Spartan Daily today starts a series of concise interviews from administration and faculty members on the Ham and Eggs question. We begin with College President Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie . . .

"I can't make myself too emphatic against that 'Ham and Eggs' mania. I believe we should make it possible for everyone to earn or produce his own lifetime subsistence and we have been very slow to recognize that responsibility, but I am certain we cannot solve our problem by any such illogical, impossible scheme as the one suggested.

"There is a provision in the amendment that stipulates that if any part of it is declared unconstitutional, the rest will still be in effect.

"No doubt the warrants will be so declared, and what is left? The State of California has been turned over lock, stock, and barrel to the exploiters. The legislature and our selected officers will have no power over them. They can tax and spend, and we can do nothing about it.

"It's ridiculous. Don't be a sucker."

Fat In The Fire

By JIM BAILEY

About this parking situation something ought to be done. In The Fire has an idea which, not sensible, is at least unique.

Make the automobiles out of gum. Imagine the parking possibilities . . . under your seat, your pants, on the top of your mouth, etc. . . I can just see myself sitting in a theater. Suddenly deep voice booms.

"Hey, Bumb! Get off my carburetor, I wanna get home!" "Are you drooling, Bimbo, or do my radiator leak?"

Can't you just visualize yourself gal walking about chewing her boy friend's '36 Dodge? . . . You can? . . . heh, heh, you're not crazy.

No use stopping here, we've gone this far! Some day a guy will come running up to you. "Hey Mack! What did you do with your old Ford?"

"I traded it in on a Tutti-Frutti Super-charger!"

Such a car would have Black Jack springs, down-draft Supermint carburetors, and Bubble gum jumbos on the wheels.

Thrust and Parry

(Ed. Note: This column expresses the writer's views. The Spartan Daily assumes no responsibility for the opinions expressed.)

Protest!

Dear Thrust and Parry:

A letter of criticism often reflects a shadow of scorn upon its author, but since all other avenues leading to a possible solution have been blocked, I am forced to present my protest publicly to the students of this college with the hope that it will be sufficient to arouse our journalistic potentates at least to a realization of the problem and if possible a solution thereof.

If the Spartan Daily is edited for the purpose of providing information and enjoyment for its readers, then why must a student with information be forced to prove his identity as the editor's brother-in-law or bribe the printer before he can see it published?

—LEROY TROUTNER.
Ed's note: What information, Mr. Troutner?

In Bad Taste

Dear Thrust and Parry:

This writer thinks that yesterday's contributor, Frank Bonanno, was showing bad taste when he said that the Santa Clara yell leader had a right, because of San Jose State's conduct at the C.O.P. game, to infer that a student body rooting section could act no worse than San Jose's did last week.

I recall that in our invasion of Kezar Stadium several weeks ago for the U.S.F. game, the San Jose rooters conducted themselves in a splendid and sportsmanlike manner. Ernie Smith, the radio announcer, said so at the Nevada rally, and he has seen many rooting sections.

In apologizing for any seeming misconduct at the C.O.P. game, I would like to point out to Mr. Bonanno, who, I think, was on the field, that the yell leaders address system would not work and consequently the rooting section was disorganized and not at its best.

In concluding, I want to express a fervent hope that San Jose State will not be held accountable for the future, for the misconduct of the Santa Clara University student body.

FROSH GRIDDDERS IN PRELIM

Freshman Eleven Faces Strong Santa Maria J.C.

Although not billed as the headline attraction tonight, the preliminary grid battle between the Santa Maria Junior college and Coach Tiny Hartranft's frosh eleven is slated to develop into a nip and tuck battle.

Reports from down Santa Maria way state that the invaders boast one of the finest teams in the history of the institution and are undefeated in five games this season.

Their list of vanquished includes such teams as Taft, Coal- inga, and San Luis Jaycees and two early triumphs over a weak team from Lompoc C.C.C. camp.

The visitors' line, which has allowed only six points in the five tilts, averages 186 pounds per man. The starting backfield hits the beam at a 184 average, bringing the team average to 185.

The main scoring threat of the Santa Maria squad is Jim Lannes, 155-pound triple threat who in addition to carrying the mail for the Santa Maria squad, is the finest passer on the squad.

Roy Engle, 195-pound bone crushing fullback, has been on the sidelines due to an injured ankle and may not see action in the Spartlet contest.

Standout on the visitors' line is Moose Briscoe, 240-pound left guard, who in addition to being school heavyweight wrestling champion, is turning out to be the best forward wall performer in recent years.

The rest of the line, although not as heavy as Briscoe, is tall and rangy and has given its opponents plenty of worry to date.

The San Jose frosh, losers of four consecutive ball games to date, are improving greatly with each practice session. In their last appearance they led the highly touted Saint Mary's freshmen at halftime, only to succumb to their hard running attack in the final quarter.

BULLETIN

San Jose State college's varsity water poloists lost their first Bay Cities Water Polo League championship in four years last night when they were beaten by the Olympic Club in San Francisco, 8 to 5.

Frank Savage was the outstanding Spartan, slapping the ball past the club goalie three times. Martin Wempe and Jim Curran scored San Jose's remaining points.

FROSH LOSE

In a preliminary game, the Spartan frosh were eliminated from the "B" division league race, being nosed out by the Olympic Club reserves in a hard-fought game, 5 to 4.

Shirokoff was high man for the Spartlets with three points.

SPARTAN DAILY, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1939

SOARING SOCCERMEN GUN FOR WIN OVER S. F. JAYCEE

Rapidly rounding into the team they were touted to be in the pre-season dope, the Spartan soccer team will travel to San Francisco tomorrow in search of another conference victory against the San Francisco Junior college.

After losing one and tying another in the opening skirmishes, the kickers have come back into the conference spotlight with three wins in a row.

Future Foes Have Jobs Cut Out Over Week-end

Future Spartan opponents will be very busy this week-end while the Spartans are entertaining the Gauchos. Two of them face real tests that will probably determine whether they have strong or just mediocre teams.

Down at Fresno the Bulldogs face a tough one when they meet the USF Dons, a team that has played some fair games but has also shown some definite strength. The game will serve as a factor in comparing the Fresno team with the Spartans who downed the Dons, 16-6.

Loyola is the other team which faces a severe test. The Lions play Hardin-Simmons of Texas and that in itself is an indication of the type of competition they will find.

Willamette, whom the Spartans meet next week in Oregon, plays College of the Puget Sound. Redlands plays La Verne college, and Drake meets St. Louis university.

Coach Hovey McDonald's forward line composed of Albright, Masdeo, Rother, Ray Fahn, and Rocchi have developed into a fast passing aggregation that spells trouble for any defensive combination in the league. All of these men are small and fast and play well together. Ray Fahn has been the most effective scorer to date, but the others are also adept at putting the ball past opposing goalies.

One of the strongest divisions on the team is the fullback and goalie combine that has kept the opposition's scores at a minimum. Captain Ham Hodgson and Charlie Anderson along with Goalie Leroy Hill form this rugged defensive line.

Tomorrow's game is scheduled for 10 o'clock in San Francisco.

Two of the numbers to be played by the Brass Choir are compositions of Charles Pyle, music student at San Jose State college, according to Mr. Maurice Faulkner, director of the choir.

Pyle, a senior, is a transfer from Los Angeles Pacific college, and a violinist in the college symphony. His first number, Rhapsody in Brass, was featured last year in several of the Brass Choir programs. His second number, "Prelude and Caprice", has just been completed and will receive its premiere at the Fair.
