

JOE RISHWAIN, POPULAR S.J.S. GRID STAR, DIES

By SEBASTIAN SQUATRITO

Joe Rishwain is gone, but when "Crooner Joe" passed away in St. Joseph's hospital in Stockton Sunday, he died with a smile on his face. The last gifts he received were an autographed football by the San Jose State college football team and their hard-fought 7-0 victory over the College of Pacific Friday.

Co-captains Bob Hamill and Ed Wenberg had promised Joe a win when the team visited him Friday morning, and they and Coach Ben Winkelman knew that Spartan defeat would break the heart of the boy who had grimly hung on to life since he was injured in an automobile accident on October 6. The game was dedicated to Rishwain.

OTHER ACCIDENT
Ironically enough, it was back in 1939 on the eve of the COP game that another automobile accident gave Joe his chance to break into the lineup as the first string quarter back.

Dave Titchenal, the leading signal caller, received a brain concussion in that accident, thus paving the way for Joe. From that game on Rishwain was the brains of an undefeated team.

FUNERAL TODAY
Funeral services will be conducted in Stockton today.

LECTURE ON WORLD PEACE PRESENTED HERE TOMORROW

Cale Foote, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, will lecture here tomorrow, presenting this organization's plans for world peace.

Foote hopes to organize community service projects in communities and cities throughout the country, for the purpose of helping solve the many social problems that face this country and to promote a feeling of friendship for other nations.

He will speak in room H1 at 1 o'clock for the benefit of all students and faculty members who aren't able to hear him earlier, announces Miss Jean Thoits, secretary of the YWCA.

SPARTANS MEET WILLAMETTE ON HAWAII TRIP

The San Jose State varsity football team will meet Willamette university of Oregon in the Hawaiian Islands on December 16, according to Glenn "Tiny" Hartranft, physical education head.

Both San Jose and Willamette meet the University of Hawaii during December and decided to play the second game to pay for the extra week in the Islands.

Because of sailing difficulties the Spartans are forced to leave November 27, one week earlier than previously scheduled. Willamette will sail on the same boat with the Spartan gridders.

San Jose will take a party of 28 including Coach Ben Winkelman and will be in the Islands 16 days, arriving December 3 and leaving December 19.

The Spartans met the Oregon gridders in Salem last year, defeating them by a 21-0 count. According to the contract made last year Willamette was to meet the Spartans here this year but conflicting dates made it impossible and the two teams are to meet this year.

No definite plans have been made for the Moffett Field-Spartan clash but the game will probably be played on Wednesday, November 26. There is a possibility that the game may not be played if injuries have weakened the Spartan team as they play three tough games—Nevada, Fresno State and University of San Francisco in succession, states Hartranft.

FIRST COLLEGE RADIO PROGRAM STARTS TONIGHT

Opening the first college radio program presented by a group of state students since 1939, KSJS, radio speaking society, will present a series of radio dramas over Station KQW starting tonight at 9:15.

THE STORY HOUR

The radio group won this honor after participating in tryout at the local San Jose broadcasting studio. The series, entitled "The Story Hour", will consist of original plays and adaptations of famous short stories written or adapted by members of the radio writing class.

Tonight's play is an adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's "The Sire De Maletrot's Door", with the script by Evelyn Gunn. Next week, November 3, an original comedy by Ted Hatlen of the Speech department will be broadcast. It is entitled "Parting is Such Sweet Sorrow".

RADIO CAST

The radio cast tonight consists of Frank Valenti as the narrator; Klieh Bickford in the title role of Sire De Maletrot; Margaret Kennedy plays his daughter; Alden Schroeder, Denis; and Alice Modry the studio manager. The adaptation is directed by Ramon Irwin, speech instructor. Fred Ruig of KQW is in charge as production man.

LATEST PROGRAMS

The latest previous programs presented by the radio speaking society over KQW was in 1939. The scripts were written in the most part by Jean Holloway who recently had a script named as one of the best ten of the year by "Time". She is currently writing for the Kate Smith show.

'MR. PICKWICK' TRYOUTS BEGIN 4 P. M. FRIDAY

Tryouts for "Mr. Pickwick", annual Christmas play, will be held in the Morris Dailey Friday from 4 until 6, announces Hugh Gillis, head of the Speech department.

Copies of the play are on hour-reserve in the library for those students who are interested in trying out. The play has been taken from Charles Dickens' "Pickwick Papers", and has only two roles for women although there are 40 parts for men.

"Mr. Pickwick" is to be under the direction of Ted Hatlen and will be presented in the Morris Dailey auditorium on Thursday and Friday of the week before Christmas vacation.

Re-tryouts are scheduled for Monday afternoon from 4-6 and will probably be held in the Little Theater. Any student is welcome to try out regardless of previous experience.

Women Can Do Their Part

This editorial is written primarily for the women on this campus. (Faculty ladies, too; this doesn't apply only to co-eds.)

Here, as everywhere else in the country, and in fact in virtually all civilized countries in the world, evidences of the defense program are unpleasantly present. We pay a ten per cent tax on cosmetics and other luxuries. The boys leave, one by one, at frequent intervals, for army training camps. The factories stop manufacturing buttons and toys to make materials needed in defense.

The government is doing its part. The "boys" are doing their part. Industry is doing its part. What are we doing?

There is a Red Cross auxiliary on-campus. This group, under direction of Miss Pauline Lynch of the home economics faculty, has committed itself to complete a large quota of clothing for children in war-torn countries. Materials and machinery are provided. Instructors are provided. All that is needed are willing hands.

There are over 1900 women students registered; there are approximately 100 women on the faculty. There is work for, at the most, 200 women in the campus Red Cross project—not many hours' work if that many women volunteer. It will be a public disgrace if the women on this campus do not turn out in sufficient number to accomplish the amount of work promised!

One or two or three hours a week, chosen at one's own convenience, to fit into one's own personal program of activity—is that much to ask? What has been asked of civilian women in the present emergency? Terribly little, comparatively speaking! Then why not accomplish that terribly little, without having to be begged and cajoled, just because we happen to be doing it voluntarily? —Moody.

Why No Gossip Column?

In answer to repeated requests as to why the Daily does not run a gossip column we have only one answer to make—we do not consider it good policy.

The phrase, "good policy", can be taken to mean a number of things, depending upon the case at hand. Every newspaper has certain policies by which the paper is run. In some instances the policies are dictated by the publisher or perhaps by some of the chief advertisers. In the Daily the policies are a matter of the trial and error method. Past years have taught those in charge just what is fit to print and what ought to be printed. Long years of professional experience in the newspaper field plus a complete understanding of the particular needs of this school have enabled the members of the journalism department to formulate policies for the running of the paper that are held in high regard by newspapermen everywhere.

However, in the matter of gossip columns not much professional experience was needed for a determination of policy. Common sense and inordinate decency demand the omission of such a column.

Notice if you will the phrase in the top left hand corner of this page—"Devoted to the best interests of San Jose State College". This includes every student and faculty member. Even in its mildest form gossip is sure to hurt someone. It has no point, is in bad taste, frequently has no basis of fact, is usually cheap, and is sometimes filthy. Would it be in the best interests of some student or professor if we printed stuff of this type?

Does that answer your question, "Why no gossip column?" —Cook.

What the best dressed college co-ed is wearing was well exhibited in the grandstands at the COP game Friday night.

Glancing around, suits unquestionably are tops in the parade of fashion among co-eds. With most of them it was very loud plaids... with many it was conservative glenn plaids or solid colors... blues, beige and browns. Favorite among the gals was the button up to the neck type... although we did see some smart collarless and mannish fitted styles.

Time was when men looked down on the coed with the low-heeled oxford and anklets, but judging from the turnout at the game, the combination is here to stay. Some came prepared and wore boots.

Most outstanding were two "teddy-bear" cloth coats. Both were snow white and colorless... they caused quite a buzz among the fair sex.

Wisely enough some of the co-eds were hatless... many of those who wore them at the beginning of the game were carrying them home. The rooting section was so crowded it was almost impossible to keep them on.

JUST AMONG OURSELVES

By DR. T. W. MacQUARRIE

(Lines inspired by a whiskey bottle found in one of the women's rest rooms. It's the second one we have found recently.)

Evidently this great country of ours wants as many of us as possible to become drunkards. It is not a law yet, but it is the will of the majority—there seems to be no doubt about that.

I can see how difficult it is for a young man or woman to protect himself from the liquor drive. The stuff is everywhere, and presented in the most attractive, most insidious manner. Magazines force it on us in their most colorful pages. Billboards sing its praises as we pass by. Store windows and counters piled high with bottles, suggest convivial times. Finally we begin to think we are missing something.

After the armistice I had a chance to attend some lectures in psychology at the University of London. One morning there was a demonstration of hypnosis as a cure for shell shock. The professor asked his subject to put himself into a state of subordination, to give up his own personality, to restrict his will. The professor went through his motions, talking monotonously the while. Now you are quiet, quiet. Now you are asleep. Now you can't move—and now I've got you!

And it was so. The subject couldn't make a motion of his own accord. He did exactly as the professor commanded him. His personality was gone.

And that's just about the way liquor gets hold of one. We put ourselves into a state of willingness to get the kick out of it, only to find one day that we are completely in its power; we have lost control of ourselves.

Call this preaching if you will, I don't care. The liquor people aren't fooling the old school teachers very much. We have seen that stuff at work for more than half a century, and the record is nothing but sadness.

It seems to be the general opinion, presented and fostered, I believe, by the liquor interests, that matters were much worse under prohibition. I doubt that. I have seen drunken students either here or at the university during prohibition. It is only since repeal that I have seen drunken students on our own San Jose campus. One of them, a young man, was drunk during the day time right in the front campus.

I spoke to that fellow. I pointed out that it was against the law for him to be drunk in our quarter. "No," he said, "I know that law. I'm kind of a hardy myself. It's illegal for me to bring liquor onto this campus, but to have it in my possession, that isn't against the law for me to be drunk here."

Well, of course, he had something there. His state and nation wanted him to be drunk, but there was a law which made a show of protecting a public school from what our legislators knew to be a danger.

Some years ago, when the matter of repeal was up in legislative halls all over the country, I heard a senator in our own legislature unburden himself in this manner: "Yes, sir," he said, "and I don't want anyone to misunderstand—I am in favor of a saloon every corner, and not only that, but on all four corners." It seemed to be in favor of a completely drunken California.

It's a problem.

On-Campus

Last year the student council voted to buy 100 gold band uniforms for the band to replace the old "civil war" black and white ones. Everyone was pleased; the Music department was elated; the student body was proud of its marching band. Of course at the time we had two units—the gold band and the white and black formations turned out well considering the size of the combined band ent group. However, when the Student Council put out the money for the new uniforms it was with the understanding that the band be restricted to 100 members who would be uniformed in the gold outfits—they were given 100 uniforms.

Something should be done by the Music department in connection with the size of the band. To speak plainly, the band, as it is, looks sloppy. Either the Music department should buy more uniforms, which their budget probably won't allow, or whittle the band down to the size agreed upon last year.

We want to be proud of our band. Action should be taken at once to eliminate the ones in the ranks who are not properly bedecked. Even the old black and white uniforms looked smarter and had more class than the present group.

The time for action is now, before the Nevada and San Francisco games. It's bad enough to have the townspeople see how the band looks without out-of-town seers too—especially when the merchants are partially financed by the band trip to Nevada.

Every year around this time, sometimes earlier, sometimes later, someone comes dashing to the Publications office equipped with material for a gossip "dirt" column. It would pay the paper, they say, and everyone likes to know who's going to whom and why.

Maybe it hasn't been made clear to these persons (we want to think of them as freshmen) but it has been the policy of the paper NOT to deal in gossip.

FUTURE OPPONENTS

It looks as though Coach Ben Winkelman and the Spartan football team have two headaches coming up in the next few weeks besides several minor aches. The Moffett Field Flyers became a mighty big obstacle Sunday in Spartan Stadium when they downed a strong Camp Haan team by a 30-7 count. This Southern California Army team from Riverside defeated Fort Ord earlier this season.

Behind the line-plunging of Bill Hutters from the tailback spot and the all-around passing, kicking and running of Larry Vonesh, the Flyer backfield is really strong and the offense is fast and tricky. Jack Sarkisian was plenty good at the quarterback spot not only in calling signals but blocking and tackling. Kenny Cook was up to his old tricks again not only in making the points after touchdown, but he kicked a field goal from the 35-yard line for three more points.

STRONG DEFENSE

The Flyer line was playing in top form this week end and blocked two of the Soldier punts. They also were stopping the line plunges and nabbing the runners before they could get started. Plenty of downfield blocking was responsible for two of the Flyer touchdowns. It looks as if the Spartan-Flyer tilt will be a tossup.

The University of San Francisco continues to pour it on. They became even a bigger worry this week-end when they downed Brigham Young university from the Big Seven conference in the Rocky Mountains by a 25-13 score. The Dons look like a tough hurdle for the Spartans from their last two performances.

GAUCHOS IMPROVE

Santa Barbara came up this week with somewhat of a surprise when they held Nevada to seven points. They could give the Spartans a battle if given a few breaks this Friday night.

Both Nevada and Fresno continue to keep on about even ground and could upset the Spartans. Nevada won from the Gauchos by a 7-0 count and Fresno poured on the heat to down the San Diego Aztecs by a 26-0 count.

FOR JOE

All the members of the team were playing their hearts out in Stockton Friday night, not for a win over the College of Pacific for themselves, but for ex-Spartan Joe Rishwain. It was this that inspired the one touchdown scored over the fighting Tigers in the second half.

Good news came to the championship-bound soccer team this week when it was learned that San Mateo Junior college put the Spartans in the league lead by downing California 2-1 Saturday on the winners' field. It looks as if the Spartans should cop the title for the third straight time on their showing in San Francisco Saturday morning.

STUDENT SUPPORT

Thursday night the State water polo teams will meet the Stanford varsity and frosh in the local pool. Let's all attend and give them the support they deserve. The varsity has lost only one game this year and could give the Indian poloists a battle if cheered on.

Saturday will be the last chance for the Spartan rooters to view the freshman football team this year. They end their season in Spartan stadium this week against the St. Mary's freshmen. The frosh have lost only one game this year for a record not equalled by any frosh team in many years.

DUD DE GROOT ASSISTS COACHING OF EASTERN TEAM IN SHRINE GAME

Coach Dud De Groot, who coached the Spartan football team for eight years from 1932 to 1940, has been appointed assistant coach for the Eastern team in the 1942 East-West Shrine game.

De Groot, who is now head coach at Rochester university in New York state, coached the San Jose State football team through three seasons, winning 35 games and losing but 3 games. In 1939 his team won 13 straight games without a loss for a record never before and equalled by the Spartans. His team led the nation in total points scored that year.

De Groot was a center for the Stanford team and was captain in 1921, when he graduated. His first coaching job was at Menlo Junior college.

As head coach at Rochester he has converted a consistent losing team into one of the strongest contenders in that area.

De Groot will assist Andy Kerr of Colgate and Bernie Bierman of Minnesota.

VARSITY FOOTBALL SQUAD GOES BACK TO FUNDAMENTALS

It will be blocking and tackling sessions with plenty of pass offense for the varsity football team all of this week, according to Coach Ben Winkelman of the Spartans.

Dissatisfied with the squad for the showing they have made since the Fort Ord game, "The Arkansas Traveler" gave his team a talk before yesterday's practice, warning them that if they didn't snap out of the type of play exhibited in the last three games, they would find themselves on the short end of the score Friday night.

"You might think that Santa Barbara is a weak team, but I saw them play against Nevada Saturday afternoon and I'm telling you that you'd better snap out of it this week or you'll be sorry Friday night," said Winkelman.

Yesterday's practice session was taken up by a passing drill and a full scrimmage by all the squad members except the first string.

INTER-FRATERNITY FOOTBALL TODAY

The second round of the inter-fraternity football tournament will get under way today at 3 o'clock on the San Carlos turf with four teams battling it out.

Delta Sigma Gamma, victorious in their first start over the Delta Theta Omega team, will face the Alpha Pi Omega team, who have won one and lost one.

In the second game the Delta Theta Omega, who have won and lost a game, will play the once defeated Gamma Phi Sigma gridgers.

STATE POLOISTS MEET OLYMPIC CLUB TONIGHT IN SAN FRANCISCO

The varsity water polo team will be seeking its fourth victory in five starts with the Olympic club septet.

In their previous game with the Winged "O" splash ball artists the Spartans were victorious by an 8-6 count, nosing out the losers in a close fought battle in the final minutes of play.

TOP SHAPE

All the players are in top shape for tonight's battle, states Coach Charley Walker, and if they play the inspired ball they played in their previous game with the Olympic club, they should give them a battle.

The probable starting lineup will find Dan Meehan in the goal; Al Corcoran in the centerback spot; Dave Thomson and Egon Hoffman in the guard positions; Marty Taylor at center forward, and Delmar Armstrong and Douglas Bacon in the forward line.

FROSH PLAY

The freshmen, who have won one and lost three games this year, will meet the Olympic reserves in the preliminary.

In their first encounter the frosh poloists held the Winged "O" team on even terms the first half but fell apart in the second half to lose by a rather large score. If given the breaks they could give the Bay City septet a battle, states Walker.

Thursday night the varsity poloists will face the Stanford university in the local pool. The frosh will meet the Indian yearlings in the preliminary game.

LUCKLESS STATER LEFT AT STATION

All will doubtless agree, the trip to Stockton was a success, that is, all but one tardy Stater who arrived at the station just as the train started to pull out.

He would have made it too if only he had been training with Coach Winter's track team. This particular luckless Stater ran a fair quarter-mile or more but lack of training soon took its toll and the football special arrived in Stockton one person short.

A.W.A. JAMBOREE SCHEDULED FOR NOVEMBER 28

Annual climax of winter activities sponsored by the Associated Women's Activities, AWA's Jamboree is scheduled for November 28.

Held in the Men's gym as always, it is a typical informal party. Although co-educational swimming has been part of the program to start the evening, it has not yet been decided whether that part will be included this year, according to Arilee Hansen, chairman of the jamboree.

Formerly a swimming program has been held with several students taking part in comedy acts and races.

Following swimming there are games and dancing in the large gym. Badminton, table tennis and shuffleboard as well as a number of other games have always been played along with dancing.

An orchestra has not been decided upon. Definite plans for the jamboree and names of the committee chairmen will be released next week.

As always before, the affair is entirely co-educational and stags will be invited, Miss Hansen declared.
