SECOND RALLY OF THE QUARTER TO BE HELD IN QUAD AT NOON

With head yell leader Ed Kincaid in charge, Sparta's inhabitants will hold a short pep rally in the quad at noon today for Sunday's football game between the Spartans of San Jose State college and the Dons of the University of San Francisco.

Hugh Manley, rally chairman, who will also make an appearance at the rally, announced yesterday that the executive council of the rally committee will hold a meeting in the Student Union at 3:30 p.m. today to draw up a set of by-laws for the committee.

The rally committee will lose two members Monday when Bob Col and Bill White leave for the Army Air Corps. In response to many requests, the following school songs have been printed:

HAIL! SPARTANS, HAIL!
(School Hymn)

Hail! Spartans, Hail!
Hail! Gold and White.
We pledge our hearts and hands
To keep our colors ever bright.
Forward we go,
We will not fail.
Sing to our Alma Mater.
Hail! Hail! Hail!

FIGHT SONG
Fight on for our old San Jose State;

Fight on to victory!

We are with you in every way,
No matter what the price may be.
Onward for Sparta, noble and true!

Fight hard in everything you do!
And we will Fight! 'Rah! Win! 'Rah!

Go onward down the field,
And we will win the day.
SPARTANS TRIUMPHANT
Shout and sing for White and Gold!

'Rah! for Spartans, true and bold!
Banners high wave to and fro,
March, march onward 'gainst the foe!

Like a knight in armor bright,
Fight! you Spartans, Fight!

While cheers of joy sound far and near,
For dear old San Jose.

Fun For All At APO Barn Dance Saturday Night

"If fun is what the students want on their week ends, I am sure that they will have plenty of it at the APO barn dance Saturday night," states Doug Curry, general chairman.

This year's dance, the seventh annual "Hayloft Hop," will be held in the Swiss-American barn just south of the city limits on the Almaden road. The barn will be decorated with hay, straw, corn, and all of the rest of the rural "fixin's" to give it the typical barn dance atmosphere.

Music for the dance will be provided by Al Maas and his "Corn Huskers". A few "hillbilly" numbers will be presented by the orchestra, but Maas indicates that the rest of the music will be the latest hit-parade tunes.

Curry announced that the bids are going fast, but those who fail to buy their bids today may still buy them at the door. Bids for the hop sell for $1.10 and may be purchased from any APO or pledge. Dancing will be from 9 to 1.

The Swiss-American barn is located a short distance off Almaden road on Canoas road.

Pledges to be honored by the dance are: Jim Daley, Jack Dimmock, Frank Brown, Boyd Haight, Les Long, Cas Breuer, Wayne Staley, Boris Shirokoff, Dick Robinson, Jim Sheridan, Ralph Hayden and Jim Wilson.

Patrons for the dance will be: Miss Florence Flanagan, Mr. Wesley Goddard and Mr. Milburn Wright.

"Stable Stomp" Planned By Frat

Hallowe'en has been selected as the date for the Delta Sigma Gamma "Stable Stomp," according to DSG President Harry Harter.

The "Stomp," an annual affair, will be held this year at the Tracy Gardens, one-quarter mile outside the city limits on San Carlos street. In keeping with the date, the theme for the dance will be black and orange Hallowe'en decorations. Bob Gager, general chairman for the dance, announced that the bids for the "Stomp" will sell for 99 cents, and may be purchased from any DSG or pledge.

Although the theme will be Hallowe'en, the dance will still be a barn dance, and all are invited to come in jeans and calico.

The barn dance is an annual affair given in honor of the DSG pledges. Patrons and patronesses will be: Dr. and Mrs. Earl Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Cooper, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hatlen.

LAST DAY

A booth will be set up in the quad between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. today and all those students who have not filled out a questionnaire for the "swap-a-ride" plan are urged to do so as today is the last day.

Spartan Gridders Face Real Test In USF Battle At Kezar Stadium On Sunday; Rate Underdog Position

By JOHNNY HUBBARD

After four relatively easy victories San Jose State's football team will run up against the first stumbling block in its path toward a successful year this Sunday when it meets the USF Dons at Kezar stadium in San Francisco.

It will be the first time in the 1942 season that the Spartans have gone into battle rated as underdogs, despite the fact that they are undefeated and untied while the San Francisco team has been beaten twice.

1943 LA TORRE LAST EDITION FOR THE DURATION

"Present shortages in photographic materials seem to definitely indicate that next year San Jose State, as well as other colleges and universities, will have to do without yearbooks," states George E. Stone, photography professor here at State.

"I hope students will take a hint from Mr. Stone's statement," says Jerry Becker, business manager of La Torre, "for the 1943 La Torre may be the last edition for the duration."

Becker and his business staff have conducted an extensive sales campaign which ends today, the last day of "Buy Your La Torre Week". Pledges of Kappa Kappa Sigma, on-campus social sorority, will sell advance subscriptions for this week's special price of $3.00, today. In addition, the regular 20 on-campus student salesmen will wind up their sales efforts. A booth is also being maintained in the quad where students may purchase their advance subscriptions.

"So far the campus campaign has been very disappointing," announces Becker. "We must sell 1500 books to make publishing the La Torre at all worth while. Our total so far has barely passed the 500 mark. It's up to the students to put us 'over the top' of our goal by buying advance subscriptions now."

Interwoven Plots Comprise Comedy

Two interwoven plots involving a young professor's right to read any type of literature to his class he desires, and a former football star's affection for the professor's beautiful wife, comprise the hilarious comedy, "The Male Animal," to be presented in the Little Theater at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

ONE-TRACK MIND

Professor Turner, the serious professor, who neglects his wife because of his one-track literary state of mind, is the main character in the play. When he attempts to read an ungrammatical but beautiful letter that an executed traitor, Vanzetti, wrote in his death cell, he finds himself accused of having communistic beliefs and on the verge of being expelled from the college by the unreasonable, belligerent board of trustees.

FOOTBALL VS. LITERATURE

Football plays a large part in this farce, for at the time the college is playing its biggest game of the year, and a former football star returns to see the game (as well as Turner's wife). Football and literature are thoroughly mixed, but eventually the "male animal" emerges from Professor Turner's subconscious being, and the second act ends in a drunken brawl with Turner playing the bull elephant and Furgerson trying to duck his wildly swinging paws.

The play has been in rehearsal almost three weeks under the direction of Ted Hatlen.

The Spartan eleven will be out to prove the dopesters wrong and also to avenge last year's 20-0 defeat at the hands of the city team.

USF, a couple of weeks ago, was very highly thought of around the bay area, boasting a 34-6 win over Nevada and a 54-6 victory over Arizona State. But since then sad things have happened to the Hilltoppers. They dropped a close 7-2 decision to Loyola, and were snowed under by a classy St. Mary's eleven last week, 26-0.

Despite State's edge as far as a comparison of the year's scores is concerned, most of the experts agree that the Dons are still capable of putting an end to any dreams that State might have about leaving the field Sunday still maintaining a spotless record.

They are convinced that the Dons, with their excellent passing and running attack, are going to prove too hot for the Spartans to handle.

Coach Al Tassi of the city team has been hastily revamping his line-up and has finally come up with a combination that he hopes will give his eleven a maximum amount of power—both offensively and defensively.

A devastating passing attack is a predominant feature of the Dons' attack. Neil Sheridan and Hal Johnston are both noted for their ability to heave the pigskin far and accurately.

On the receiving end of this attack will be USF's ends, the best of which is Willie Taylor. It might be mentioned that it was this gentleman who caught two touchdown heaves in the game against State last year.

The Dons also boast a couple of hard-charging fullbacks in "Horse" Shew and Bill Russo, a pair of "rock 'em, sock 'em" boys that will have to be watched carefully.

No radical changes have been announced by Spartan Mentor Glenn "Tiny" Hartranft. The starting line-up will probably be substantially the same as that which has started in previous games.

The whole issue boils down pretty well to two questions: Can the USF line bottle up State's reverses and thereby stop the Spartans' offense? If their line can do this, the result might very well be a Don victory.

Or, can San Jose's backs keep the Hilltoppers from using their pass attack successfully? If they can, the Spartans will have a good chance to pull an upset.

KSJS To Present Drama In Little Theater Nov. 6

Recreating the hair-raising radio production of Orson Welles' "Invasion From Mars," a cast of KSJS Radio Speaking society members will present an adaptation of H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" in the Little Theater at 8 p.m., November 6.

Wendell Johnson, speech instructor, is directing the play and has chosen an all-male cast of 10. Dr. William Poytress will speak after the performance on the psychological effect the production had on its audience.

Secret Service Agent Addresses SJS Students

As part of a "know your money" national educational program sponsored by the Treasury department, Secret Service Agent Elmer W. Moore showed moving pictures to four groups of San Jose State students Wednesday.

Moore, a graduate of the San Jose State police school in 1941, presented the pictures and discussed the activities of various counterfeiters throughout the nation.

"Counterfeiting has taken a definite drop in the past few years—this is partly due to the improving economic conditions of war and partly to the educational program which the treasury is promoting," Moore said.

The program itself is designed to remove the market for counterfeit money by getting the public to watch for counterfeit money more closely and therefore be less gullible in the acceptance of bogus currency.

Get Tickets

San Jose State students will not be admitted to the USF game Sunday with student body cards unless they present tickets now obtainable at the Controller's office for 25 cents, announces Tom Taylor, student body president.

He states that this is a new regulation which will be strictly enforced at all out-of-town games.

The Controller's office is located upstairs in the Student Union building.

TALK RECORDED

Lieut. Beth Veley's inspirational talk to the largest assembly ever held on the campus may be repeated any time for any organization that wishes to hear her account of life on Bataan and Corregidor.

That was the news issued yesterday by President T. W. MacQuarrie, who revealed that the war nurse's message was recorded by Peter Mingrone of the Speech department and will be available for public meetings in the future.

Lieut. Veley, who once attended classes at San Jose State, came from her duties at Letterman Hospital last Friday to speak on behalf of the War Chest. Her talk was responsible for bringing in over $700 worth of subscriptions that day.

Members Added To Class Council

Officers of the junior class announced the completion of class council appointments today.

Arlene Hansen and Betty Jane Toland were chosen to fill the two appointive positions of the executive council. This executive group met and have chosen 10 people to make up the general council under the provisions of the newly approved class constitution.

Those elected to serve are: Jeannette Abbott, Jeanne Wright, Winnie Peterson, Jack Gottschang, Lois Bohnett, Cass Breuer, Doug Aitken, Tom Lewis, Jane Reed and Loren Nicholson.

Members of the executive group have selected November 9 as the date for the class mixer. Plans will soon be under way to appoint a chairman of the affair and decide upon a theme.

Give Us A Hand

Even more so now than in previous years, the existence of both the Spartan Daily and La Torre, as San Jose State college publications, depends on the support and co-operation of the individual student.

The advertising manager of the Daily is faced with the same shortage of revenue that came so close to ending the paper as an every-day publication last spring quarter. We were forced to put out only a two-page edition during the last few weeks.

This was not only a blow to our pride, but the paper did not look as well nor were we able to cover the campus news at all adequately; at times we are hard-pressed to do so in the regular four-page issues. The reason for the step, of course, was that our advertising staff could not so increase their accounts as to off-set the cut-in-half allotment given them by the student treasury. This year the allotment has been even less.

The Statement made by the La Torre business manager yesterday gave indication that the size of the yearbook "will be pretty puny if students do not buy their advance subscriptions this week." La Torre staff members hope to make the 1943 edition one which students, many of whom are now in their last year of college life, can cherish. But if they haven't the financial backing of students, it's out of the question.

The solution of both the Spartan Daily's and the La Torre's problems lies with you. The Daily wants you to support our downtown advertisers so they will support us. Plug the Daily whenever you get a chance with the local merchants; it's the only way we have to prove to them that our college newspaper is a worthy advertising medium.

La Torre does not depend on advertising at all; it depends entirely on you. That's only right, for the book is published for your benefit.

Do you still want to pick up that Daily at 8 o'clock every school morning, and don't you get a kick out of looking over the year's activities in the La Torre? Then, give us a hand.

—Morrow.

This is by way of farewell — and if you don't know where I'm goin' then you aren't one of my steady readers. Consequently, you can get off here.

I've made so many statements about my departure that the Spartan Daily, to avoid a retraction, has hired Murder, Inc., to make sure I don't make an appearance next week. And that ain't a pencil that Scrappy (The Torpedo) Squatrito keeps sharpening.

But I'm goin', I'm goin'! In fact the FBI has been around to make certain I don't try to pull a Grover Bergdoll. For some reason it makes me feel I'm wanted—somewhere.

Of course I'll still be socially unacceptable—but in a different way. It'll be novel, being repulsed for something in addition to my face.

I'm really broken up over leaving State; I was just beginning to appreciate how many other men have left. As far as that goes, I'm sorry to leave town—now that I've found how to tilt that pinball machine on Santa Clara street.

Well, here I am; at the bottom of the page, at the end of my rope, out of breath, without money and generally out of sorts. Fare-Thee-Well.

CAMPUS COMMENT

By DEAN THOMPSON

—A member of the Navy whom I know dropped in for a short visit some time ago (the date is a military secret). He just got in from duty in the South Pacific area, and brought a number of souvenirs back with him.

He was nice enough to give me two pieces of money—both of them worthless now. One was a Japanese coin. Don't ask how much it is worth, because I've never learned the Japanese language.

The interesting thing about it was that it was made of aluminum. As it was explained to me, the Japs have lots of the metal that we hold so precious. The main reason is that they make their planes out of fabric.

Speaking of planes, he said that the Jap planes folded up whenever they were hit. The Japs built their planes for speed and not for durability.

The other souvenir he gave me was a dollar bill—one of the last to leave Singapore. It is curious in that it is almost half the size of our currency.

Naturally military information was not forthcoming from him, so I'm looking forward to the time I can learn the whole story of his travels.

—A last reminder: Today is the last day to buy a La Torre at the special price of $3.

—I can't go to the San Francisco game Sunday because of a previous engagement (work). I will have a radio within hearing distance, however, and it would be terrible if I couldn't hear the gold and white clad marching band of ours playing the Spartan Fight Song after each of our touchdowns.

Please, gals and guys, move over in your seats and take the band along with you. I imagine you could get them to promise not to practice any solo parts on the way up.

Incidentally, you "cuties" (USE name for our team), how about keeping the band busy playing the Fight Song all afternoon!

Display In New Library Portrays The War In Art

With the war as it affects the lives of service men and civilians as its theme, a new display has been put up in the art room of the Library.

Of the twenty-one pictures by contemporary artists that are shown, some portray the life of soldiers and sailors, others show workers in defense factories, and others show ships and munitions completed and being completed.

One painting by Richard Evrick shows a variety of small boats filled with men leaving the smoking ruins of Dunkirk, while another by Charles Cundall shows the H.M.S. Exeter pulling up to a crowded dock.

A. Brenner's "The Rites of Spring" pictures soldiers in tanks and jeeps against a background of blossoming trees.

Soldiers celebrating New Year's Eve in the barracks, at club rooms, and in line for mess are also portrayed.

Work by civilians is shown in Paul Sample's "Shell Factory," in Thomas Benton's "City Building," and in Ernest Fiene's "Night Shift at Aquippa."

Two pictures with a northern California background are also in the group.

All organization heads: Please get the names of your members and prospective members and turn them in to me as soon as possible.—Tom Taylor, Pres. ASB.

Ex-Spartans In Service Write To 'Daily' Staff

Editor's note:

From time to time since the fall quarter began, we of the Spartan Daily Editorial Staff have received letters from men in the armed services regarding the Spartan Daily. In this column we should like to give our readers a chance to see what these former San Jose State college students think of our current issues.

This is an excerpt from a letter by Corp. Clarence N. Russo in foreign service:

"I am one of the many ex-Spartans now in the service that enjoyed receiving the Spartan Daily during the last school year. I certainly hope we continue to receive it this year.

"I am now in foreign service and would even appreciate receiving the Daily more than I did last year."

We are quoting here from a letter by Technical Sergt. Jimmy Michael, Camp White, Oregon:

"The Daily is an excellent medium for keeping abreast of the affairs at State and particularly the men in the services, and I would like information as to subscription rates, terms, etc. Incidentally, I have contacted two State men here at Camp White, and I believe they would be interested in school affairs also."

The following is an excerpt from a letter written by Pvt. Elnathan S. Kimbel, Sheppard Field, Texas:

"I am an alumnus of San Jose State college, having graduated August 7, 1942. I am now in the Army Air Force and am 'deep in the heart of Texas.' Consequently I am out of touch with good old State.

"If you would like to relieve me of this depressing spirit, you could send me the Spartan Daily. In fact, I would be more than willing to pay for a subscription if you will let me know how much it would cost.

"I still have a lot of friends in school. Oftentimes they are a bit modest in telling me of their accomplishments but the newspaper always publishes the facts. I like to hear about the sports activities as well as the music and social events."

STUDENT MUSIC TO BE PLAYED BY SJS ORCHESTRA

The college orchestra once more is rehearsing a composition by Student-Composer Crawford Gates, sophomore music major.

"The selection, 'Camelot,' is modern and interesting and we plan to play it at a performance some time this quarter or next," stated Adolph Otterstein, Music department head.

Gates, who has returned from many months of missionary work, has never published any of his works although the college orchestra played one of his compositions two years ago.

HOLLINGSWORTH NEWLY APPOINTED MUSIC LIBRARIAN

Stanley Hollingsworth, college music major, has been appointed orchestra librarian and is now custodian of the school's repertoire of valuable music.

Emphasizing Hollingsworth's important position, Music Head Adolph Otterstein exclaimed, "Most symphonic music has been published in countries dominated by the Axis. Therefore, music is being looked upon as the next thing to gold to most of us in this field of study."

IZZY GOLD was head of the rally committee last year. He has been assistant director of the rally, active in the Spartan Shop, and was a member of his class council several times. He has been well known for the parts he has played in various shows on the campus.

DON DEVOSS recently led the War Chest drive on the campus and brought it to a triumph close. Before that time he was as his class representative at student council and played an active part in various student activities.

This covers the council. These are the people heading activities that take place at San Jose State college. There has been the opportunity for us to be held in the acquainted with them. Under December 11, people come a great many functions which I will run tomorrow's paper if space permits.

OUT OF THE HUDDLE

By CHARLES COOK

With everything in their favor the San Francisco Dons will be heavy favorites to trample the high-flying Spartans Sunday at Kezar stadium. That's good; in fact, it's perfect.

Football coaches have long realized the value of having their team dubbed underdogs; it gives the boys somewhat of a lift and is supposed to make them play all the harder. But for this game Sunday, I think Coach Hartman can junk any talk designed to fire the boys up and instead show them the day by day clippings from the San Francisco newspapers publicizing the Sunday contest. After one look at these articles they should be able to thrash the Dons on sheer determination alone.

The big city papers all along the line have adopted a one-sided policy in connection with sporting affairs in San Francisco. The visiting team is belittled until game time. Then if it loses, the sports writers go overboard to hop on the home team bandwagon. If the visitors cop a win, it is always due to "a series of bad breaks" by the local yokels, or any one of a choice stock of alibies.

That's the situation this week. Every day we have read that San Jose is a jerkwater school and the big boys from USF are being very brotherly by condescending to schedule us. They point out that we can't draw flies as far as a crowd goes and that this game is just a breather before the Don-Santa Clara tilt next week.

Coach Tassi brands us "cuties". I can think of plenty of equally descriptive terms to apply to the Dons, but let's let the Spartans speak for us in terms of touchdowns starting Sunday at 2:30. After all, the payoff comes not in pre-game hot air or post game alibies, but in the score at the end of the fourth quarter. Don't let us down, Spartans.

Preparations Under Way For Ninth Novice Tournament

Gigantic preparations are now under way for San Jose State's ninth annual novice boxing tournament to be held December 9 and 10 in the Men's gym. Finals will be held in the Civic auditorium on Under December 11. This tourney is open only to beginners in the pugilistic run sport.

Bouts will consist of three one and one-half minute rounds with one-minute intermissions between rounds. Varsity boxers and men with experience are to act as managers, trainers and seconds.

To the team scoring the most points goes a large, beautiful trophy. Winners of quarter-final bouts receive one point, winners of the semi-finals win three points and the victors in the finals garner five points. These points are cumulative; therefore, a champion may score a grand total of nine points.

Again this year there will be a trophy given to the best organized rooting section on hand every night. This is a good opportunity for any sororities, fraternities, eating and living groups who wish to establish themselves as a unit. Last year there were five rooting sections at the tourney.

Soccermen Meet Dons Tomorrow

Stock in Spartan Soccer, Ltd., took a terrific jump for the better yesterday with the announcement that Coach Roy Diederichsen is eligible for another conference season.

Diederichsen, mainstay on three title-winning soccer teams in the last three years, was declared eligible by vote of all the NCI coaches and will greatly bolster the gold and white men in the drive for their fourth straight conference title.

On the eve of their battle against a tough outfit from the Hilltop Hacienda down S. F. way, the gold and white men were cheered with

Fumbled Kickoff Puts Sheets' Team In League Lead

A lone touchdown scored on a fumbled kickoff gave Marvin Sheets the margin necessary to wrest the league lead away from Vern Akamian in this week's intramural football game.

The fumble was recovered by Charley De Freitas behind the Akamian goal line in the first half played on Tuesday. The teams battled to a scoreless tie in the second half yesterday.

Bill Toasperm's squad scored their initial win of the series when they outscored Jack Gottschang's gridders in the league's other contest. The final score was 18 to 6 in favor of the Toasperm men.

The league standings at the end of the third week of play as announced by Ivan Olson, league director, is as follows: First place, Sheets; second place, Akamian; third place, Toasperm; fourth place, Gottschang.

Tuesday, Sheets will defend his newly-won lead against the challenge of Toasperm.

Spartan Waterpoloists Drop Decision To Stanford 7 To 5 In Initial Contest Of Season Yesterday At Palo Alto

San Jose's water polo team lost its initial contest of the season, 7-5, to Stanford yesterday at the Indian's pool.

The winner of the game was decided in the first quarter, when the Redskins pushed across three goals before State's mermen could get organized.

But from then on the Spartans held their own; in fact, they more than held their own—scoring five goals to Stanford's four in the last three quarters.

At the end of the first half, San Jose was on the short end of a 4-1 score. Both teams scored once in the third period, and then the boys from Washington Square really cut loose with a burst of offensive power in the final minutes of play, scoring three times in the last four minutes.

The way the game started out it looked as though Coach Horan's mermen were going to take a real beating, but as soon as they got over their initial "stage fright" they started to roll.

Marty Taylor, playing his last game, broke the ice for San Jose early in the second quarter when he sprinted three-quarters of the way down the pool with the ball, and then flipped it into the corner of the goal for his team's first score.

State's next goal was rung up in the third canto by Forward Ed Rudloff on a penalty throw, but meanwhile Stanford was matching Horan's men point for point.

Half way through the last quarter the Indians were enjoying a comfortable 7-2 lead, but in a desperate last-ditch rally, Doug Bacon scored two goals in a row, and Rudloff also threw one past the goal guard to narrow the margin of victory.

Even though they did not win, San Jose's entry served notice to all future opponents that they are going to be no soft touch.

BUSINESS OFFICE

TELEPHONE BALLARD 7800

Dear Students:

How would you like to pick up the Spartan Daily some morning and read a headline across the front page --- "SPARTAN DAILY TO BE DISCONTINUED!!!"

Some of you would get sad and say, "Gee, that's too bad" . . . others would fly into a rage and shout, "What the heck do they think they're doing!" . . . everyone would feel bad about it. Yes, that's the point, all of you would feel bad if the Daily was discontinued.

But it's a possibility, and that's why we're making this appeal to you . . . an APPEAL to your good judgment and reasoning.

You see, your paper is written, published, and distributed to you students only because many merchants in San Jose feel they can attract your business by advertising in the Spartan Daily. It is the money they pay for advertising that keeps YOUR paper going.

There was a time, years ago, when the paper was paid for out of the student fund. But those days are gone. The Daily's appropriation has been drastically cut. We must now rely almost entirely on the money received by advertisers to pay for your paper.

It is only good reasoning that if you do not give your business to those merchants who advertise in the Daily, they will be compelled to discontinue their advertising in your paper. This can mean only one thing --- "no more Spartan Daily."

Your not giving your business to those who advertise is bad from another point of view. We, on the business staff, sell space in your paper on the assumption that you DO buy from merchants who advertise. If you don't they soon find out and we can no longer expect their confidence in us.

What is the answer? --- Give your business to those merchants who advertise in the Spartan Daily. Look in their store before you buy . . . and buy in their store after you look.

And never forget to tell the merchant --- "I SAW IT IN THE SPARTAN DAILY."

Unless you tell him, he has no way of knowing that you're a student at State . . . attracted to his store by the ad he ran in the Daily. So tell him . . . he'll be glad to know. And it will make it so much easier for us to convince him of the value of advertising in the Daily.

The good part about the whole thing is that the merchants who advertise in your paper are progressive business men. They sell only the finest quality goods and services, and at attractive student prices. Many of our merchants in San Jose buy merchandise especially for you students, and they employ advertisements in the Daily to tell you about it. It is only right that they expect you to buy from them. And, besides, if you don't you may be without a college newspaper.

So, to keep YOUR Daily going --- GIVE YOUR BUSINESS TO THOSE WHO ADVERTISE . . . and when you buy, say, "I saw it in the Spartan Daily!"

Yours very truly,

ARTHUR INMAN,
Business Manager.

Reservists To Confer With Army, Navy And Marine Corps Officials

By FLOYD REZEVALLE

Reservists and students interested in learning more about these programs will have their chance to question officials on Wednesday, October 28, when a joint recruiting board will come to San Jose State college.

The board consists of officers from the Army, Navy, Marine, and Air Corps, who will speak before an assembly of men students in the Morris Dailey auditorium. Women will meet in the Little Theater where information regarding the Waves will be given.

Assembly will begin at 9 on Wednesday, and students in reserves will sit in the center section of the auditorium. Officers will also be on hand, Thursday, to give information.

Potential reservists are urged to take the following steps before the board makes its second trip on November 12, 13, and 14, according to Dean of Men Paul Pitman:

1. Secure a statement from the Registrar's office saying you are a student in good standing.

2. Obtain your birth certificate.
3. Get your parents' consent.
4. Have three letters of recommendation.

"Be sure your papers are in proper order when the board comes the second time, for seven out of ten students in other colleges have been refused enlistment because their applications were inadequately filled," states Pitman.

Following are the room assignments for the Joint Procurement Board: From 11 to 12 on October 28, representatives from Navy V-5 will be in room 127 to answer group questions. Marine Corps officers will be in room 139; Navy V-7 in the Morris Dailey auditorium, and Army E. R. C. and Army Air Force in room S112.

Starting at 1 p.m. on Wednesday and on Thursday, representatives will meet with students to discuss individual problems. Rooms for these conferences will be: Navy V-5, room 118; Marine Corps, room 21; Navy V-7, Morris Dailey auditorium; Army E. R. C. and Army Air Force, room 13.

Man's Sacrifices Unlimited In War Campbell Says

"There is no limit to the sacrifices which the common man must make in the present conflict," Dr. Earl Campbell told the War Aims class in room 24 yesterday.

Dr. Campbell expressed the belief that this was entirely as it should be: "There is nothing so important to the individual as the preservation of the society in which he lives and therefore he should be willing to sacrifice everything in its behalf."

NEED ABLE LEADERS

"In total war, the masses play a great part and should be properly represented in the government by able political leaders. Political leadership in time of war should be directed toward this end," Campbell said.

"The position of the president in time of war is not limited directly by the constitution and henceforth his activity in the war effort is largely a part of his own doings. In the past, the individual character of the executive has determined to a large extent his policy. Theodore Roosevelt cared little for limits imposed upon the national chief and therefore he took everything that the constitution did not directly deny to his office. In general, all wartime presidents have been of this type—completely independent of all restraining forces.

UNLIMITED EFFORT

"Government effort in this war must be unlimited; it must strain every resource to the utmost, and call for unprecedented sacrifices from the public. In such a situation it is only right that the president place himself at the top—as Roosevelt has now done. He has assumed active direction of the war effort and this is as it should be," Dr. Campbell said.

"Down to as late as Pearl Harbor, the president was far ahead of public opinion—in fact he pulled it along behind him. Since that time, however, the people have nearly caught up, but congress is still lagging. This last point was illustrated by the abundance of mail which has besieged congress, urging and prodding them to action.

TALENT SEARCH TO HIT CAMPUS

"Talent for Defense" campaign is about to begin on the campus, according to Betty Henley, service men's social affairs chairman.

An invitation is being extended to tryout for a part in a series of variety shows that will go on tour to various army camps in this region. Miss Henley stated that she is looking for good talent that can be used in producing shows of this type.

"We can use people interested in acting, singing, doing instrumental solo work, script writing, song writing, directing, stage crew technicians, dancing, or any other type of show work. Tryouts will be held soon," she stated.

Those interested in taking part in these shows should contact Miss Henley or sign up on the sheet just inside the Publications office door immediately.

Physics Exam Given Today For Students In V-1

The fate of many a student will partly be decided by the first physics examination of Dr. O. L. Brauer's pre-med physics class today. As many of the students taking the course are in V-1, the result of the examination will determine to an extent the probability of passing the Naval test in March, and will also indicate which students need the most help.

Dr. Brauer stated that there was no need for anyone to fail the course if he tries, but he admitted that it would require a great deal of studying.

He said that the attendance has been remarkably good in the Thursday study class. This fact alone indicates the determination of the students, as the class is voluntary.

files, commissions, and boards that have been set up are only to help develop greater centralization and a greater driving force in the war effort," Dr. Campbell pointed out. "That the president should be at the head of these co-ordinating groups is only natural," Campbell concluded.

MODERN DANCE GROUPS MERGE

Orchasis and Junior Orchasis have been combined into one organization, which will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m., participating in programs, symposia and demonstrations together.

TRYOUTS NOV. 3

Admission to the Junior group will be by tryouts consisting of the performance of certain specific dance skills. The tryouts will be held on November 3. In the meantime, all girls interested in joining the organization are invited to dance with Orchasis at a second guest evening on Tuesday, October 27, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. At that time the tryout requirements will be discussed and demonstrated.

REQUIREMENTS

To become a member of the senior, or master group, as it will be called, a girl must have been a member of Junior Orchasis for at least one quarter and must present an original dance for solo or group as her try-out problem. "In this way I feel sure that more girls who are interested in the dance as a means of creative expression will have an opportunity to share in this really worthwhile experience," Miss Marjorie Lucas, faculty advisor, declared.

"One reason why we are anxious to have everyone who is interested in modern dance join at this time," continued Miss Lucas, "is so that they may participate in the symposium to be held at San Francisco State college on December 5. This event and our own program are the two highlights of our calendar. The rest of the time it is just good, hard work!"

the news of this addition to the squad.

However, Diederichsen said that he would not play tomorrow unless he thought he was in shape for the contest. "It would be unfair to the fellows if I went out and played tomorrow after they have worked so hard during practice this week," he said.

After talking to Don Coach Frank Zanazzi the other day, Roy is beginning to worry a little about a Spartan win Saturday. The bay city coach has eleven second-year men returning and promises to give the locals no little trouble when game time arrives at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

Diederichsen will depend upon this starting lineup to carry the Spartans to their second conference win:

Sonntag, goalie.
Racoonin, center forward.
Zucca, right half.
Phillips, center half.
Borg, inside right.
Nelson, right wing.
