HARRY S. TRUMAN
Harry Truman, a man who quietly did his work as a U.S. Senator, who became Vice-President without ever imagining the chance that he might become President, was sworn into the Nation's highest office of the country on April 12, 1945, one hour after the death of our late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Son of a Missouri farmer, Truman was educated formally as far as high school and studied law on his own. He worked as a farmer, and did several other obscure jobs before World War I took him to France where he became a major and returned a hero.

He was a minor politician when he was nominated to the Senate, who became vice-president in 1940, and in his second term when World War II developed, he became a national figure with his work as a Senate Investigator. By the summer of 1944, Harry Truman had shown that his record was that which made him a Vice-Presidential possibility. He was nominated to this office because he was not antagonistic to any of the large parties.

Pledging for cooperation, Truman made his first address to the nation when students of San Jose State College filled the Quad where the loud speaker system had been set up to keep him reminded the world

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
Dying but a few weeks before the victory for which he fought so hard was realized, President Roosevelt is with us in spirit today as we celebrate the conclusion of one phase of the world conflict.

Through three terms and the beginning of a fourth as the highest officer of the land, President Roosevelt led the people through every kind of crisis.

Standing before the nation's Capital on March 4, 1933, he said, "This nation asks for action and action now." And it got it. First came the dramatic Hundred Days; then, the Bank Holiday, Fireside chats, repeal of the 18th amendment, emergency agencies, and Supreme Court changes.

He and Cordell Hull negotiated reciprocal trade treaties, carried on the Good Neighbor policy, and instituted lend-lease and the peace-time draft.

Then came Pearl Harbor. The war was fought well, and the U.S. assumed a great nation's responsibility for the peace.

Franklin Roosevelt brought his nation triumphantly through a great war and started it on the road to peace of the world of our late President. "We have nothing to fear except fear," and to pledge himself to do his best for the nation and the coming peace.

DRESS REHEARSAL TONIGHT FOR ‘HAY FEVER’ PRODUCTION; PLAY OPENS TOMORROW 8:30

Full dress rehearsal is scheduled tonight in the Little Theater for the production of Noel Coward’s “Hay Fever,” scheduled to open tomorrow evening at 8:15. “Tickets are selling like wildfire!” stated Mrs. Mary McCreath, speech department secretary, yesterday in the Speech office where students lined up between classes to be sure of being able to see the San José Players-sponsored comedy.

Last night, at the second dress rehearsal, students from San José, Fremont, and Lincoln High schools acted on invitation as a test audience to aid Director Hugh Gillis in spotting the many laughs in the show.

A light, colorful set received its final touch over the weekend, and yesterday. Under the direction of Technical Director Wendell Johnson, speech instructor, and his assistant, Al Johnson, and stage manager, Dale Bower, the set was prepared by members of the stagcraft classes and interested students.

Working in the line of publicity, members of the Players, who each year sponsor a play, were notified about the contest for summertime jobs in picture gurth having little to do with the production of the play, but which suggested the title of “Hay Fever” as an “off the farm” style.

College Minority Problem Surveyed by SCA Committee

An extensive investigation of the minority problem is being conducted by the race relations committee of the SCA.

To start the investigation, the committee members are visiting boarding houses and co-ops to ascertain the various aspects of the college student on this problem. The questions being asked by the SCA members are:

1. If you had interests in common, would you room with a person of another racial group?
2. Would you vote for a racial discrimination party?
3. Do you believe colored teachers should be allowed to live in any neighborhood they desire?
4. Should well qualified Negro teachers be allowed to teach in our public schools?
5. Would you approve of members of the following minority groups being in boarding houses: Chine-

JUST AMONG OURSELVES
By Dr. T. W. Macquirre

Walter Bachriff's gone and George Campbell's gone, and they were the two men this community depended upon most to put over such things as bond drives, the Community Chest, and the Red Cross.

Now Jack O'Keefe, an insurance man down town, has taken up the work, but it's going to take him especially the bond drives.

A letter just came from his work occasionally, and so ran a superintendent of schools, and the interest draws and the children recite just the same, but that's not true with an insurance man. If I tried insurance once, and I had to give it up because I was never free. Never was there a moment when one could feel that I had done all I could to get the business.

The job is making a heavy sacrifice. The other insurance men will be just as busy as ever while he is giving almost all time to this great job, and it's a good thing for the rest of us to recognize that.
