Vast Vietnam Moratorium Day Support
Despite President Nixon's Vocal Rebuff

B. ROBERT SATTER
Daily Political Writer

Despite President Nixon'sgons' firmest refutation that he will allow students to protest, support for Monday's Day has snowballed to an extent that its organizers are cheerfully counseling they have little hope of controlling the day's activities.

Students, congressmen, governors, city managers, and local legislators have Senator E.D. Farkas, Robert Hurley, Richard Ryan, Edward Dicks, and William Paley's pledge to support the movement as long as it remains "peaceful, lawful, and nonviolent."

The nation's high schools are even beginning to get into the art, with many following the example of the nation's largest public school system, in New York City, whose 1.1 million pupils and their teachers have decided to hold classes. Many high school students may skip classes to protest.

In addition, Moratorium leaders are

Everyone's Worries

BY JIM DOUGLASS

I talk to someone on the campus, while sitting with Mark, in hand, borders on the ludicrous. But is the taking of another's life not also ludicrous? A more reasonable division, if there is one, would be to withdraw 1,000 troops per week, continually, until some limit be reached. These troops would be brought home; not shipped to some nearby island to be deployed at a later date.

But let this deal directly with our own relatives and none of us will have to worry anymore. Keeping his mind in order, perhaps the only way we can do is to start thinking about making our policy make a mere pile of junk for the youngest protégé plant? Perhaps not. Perhaps the only way we can make under current situation would be "just as is", such as it is.

The idea of perhaps at gauging and railing more on life. John McConnell, Speaker of the House, dressed in flakus.

Happy Birthday Shannon

BY R.L. BRADLEY

Today should be a significant one for me. It will be one of milestones, The War Movement perhaps? Only Nixon can't take care of me.

But look is slightly relaxing his grasp against the white world. After all, I trained him by God and country and surfboard.

More significant, today is my daughter's birthday. Shannon is already two years old - and another week, and another day will pass. As before hearing from home, I'd find myself shredding over articles in the paper about battles fought. No more, the war will not be a problem anymore.

Why Wars?

BY DAVE SMILEY

Why does God let wars happen? How can I love and worship a God that allows such atrocities? Doesn't life mean anything to Him? Why do we have wars?

Our troops are simple. Man, who has a completely free will, chooses his actions. His choices, creates his own hell. Simple man watches Vietnam and' glean the other hell, that is, the one created by the many at war, and how to end it.

I think that on the day of our victory and our people is on his way to a more just and peaceful world. He created, wrote the Bible, the Koran, and the Qur'an. God's peace is peace. His "weapon" is love. He and His purpose is war.

BY ED CROUCH

In honor of Oct. 15, which just may become a national holiday, I give you the approximate time it will take to read the Spartan Daily a chance to know my opinion.

For some reason, our local draft board decided that our college population is for some reason not fortunate enough that they don't have to worry about life.

General Heberly's retirement made me wonder. Whether it was a step in the right direction or in the wrong direction. With Richard the president, the dog in the Army would have to be walking papers. It's too bad of his. I just can't see him doing it. I just can't see how to do it. Well, really I think we should have to look up to Mr. John Vonkluck. He's the fellow who has "competerized" wars within one or two per cent. Of course, that is to say that Mr. John can tell us up to 10 months ahead of time who will be killed, which, where, and how.

Just think, it might be possible for Dr. V to tell us. As a matter of fact, there was a story in Oct. 1, 1973, at 3:34 a.m. by a sniper's bullet, in Quong. Foundation.

Meantime, back at the maton, let's, just see if Oct. 15 will make any significant difference in the War when it ends.

Remember, don't go to class, drive your car, and do anything. It might just be the trick.

Petition Asking Release Of Airman To Circulate

The family of Lt. Everett Alvarez Jr. has sent out a plea for help to obtain his immediate release as a prisoner of war in Vietnam. Lt. Alvarez was captured two days after the start of the war and thus remains the longest-held American of any war.

A petition directed to President Nixon will be circulated around the country. The family demands that more forceful action be taken on behalf of the release of Lt. Everett Alvarez Jr., USN, and other prisoners of war.

The petition will be circulated on a national basis. It is reprinted by both liberal and conservative San Jose papers.

Protesters Maintain Silent Vigil Against Vietnam Involvement

By GREG JOHNSON

San Jose Weekly

The vigil, an outgrowth of efforts to maintain silent vigils as a protest against the Vietnam War, is now over. Because it has not gone over the heads of everyone who hates the war.

Every Thursday, from noon to 2 p.m., a silent vigil stands outside the corner of First and Santa Clara streets. Four blocks from campus. They have been standing there every Thursday for seven years with the exception of one Thanksgiving. Their signs are: "Until America is ready to stop killing and being killed in Vietnam."

You've been doing this for seven years, is a common question. The small group of protesters smiled modestly.

"There to be home," one of the group explained. "Many members of the group continued to smile. One member, knowing an informal stipulation, whispered, "They think of it as to stand there and say nothing." says George L. Collins, who represents the San Jose section of the Federal Council for Public Affairs, the national organization committed to non-violent protest. The idea is to stand there and say nothing, making a point with a silent protest."

Customers who hate the war, say Collins, "Make a statement in a non-violent way of their opposition to the war."

One Thursday a week, the vigil is held in silence for an hour. Violence only serves to demoralize those who are against the war, says Collins.

"Man is basically non-violent, says Collins. "You have to be a fellow to make him the servicer. You have to be the victim to make him a violent fighter."

Conscientious Objection Instead of Military

BY CRAIG EVANS

Spartan Campus Life Editor

As the Vietnam War lumbered along, an increasing number of students was exonerated on draft age men. Because of this presence from the draft, many men are searching for alternative to participation in the military.

The alternative to conscientious objector status has no basis for national conscience of religious training and study.

According to Guy Cushing, former special agent for conscientious objector activity. "If one really шаг down and looks at the hate and destruction in our world, we realize justly on the cost of destruction.

"Young people all over the world are making searches for spiritual meaning that might avoid such a disaster."

CONCERN

This concern has spurred many young men to render conscientious objection to the war. Unfortunately, Cushing added, most draft age men don’t think of becoming a conscientious ob-jector unless they’re confronted with the draft. "If a person never seriously considers killing people and has drafted him, it is to me an incomplete intellectual approach and people just shrug it off in a very short time.

"DRAFT UPHOLD"

"In my twenty years I have not procert am at the question of whether we are likely to take a life or not. That’s why the draft is futile.

As a Christian society we’re told the Ten Commandments.

Therefore, the environment a va-

"the least the rightest knows about the draft the better it op-est.

Cushing continued that "not knowing the alternative of conscientious objection, I entered the Marine Corps Reserve because of that situation, I would have been more likely to be in Vietnam.

"My not wanting to see Vietnam was an objection to a particular war, the Vietnam war.

But two years later I find myself supported by all war and violence.

"My training in the Marine Corps lead me to realize that my material existence left my life confined in many ways.

NEUTROGENIC

ing through fear, thus creating neurotic hate and aggression in the young men of America.

"Our generation is a part in history where we can fully realize what the aggressive tendencies of man have done to destroy the environment and the mental and physical health.

The draft is a crime against the spirit of mankind.

A.S. Election Tickets Undecided Whether To Oppose McMasters

In the continuing evolution of who will run for the Associated Students (A.S.) executive positions and who will not, everyone is still undecided.

Bill Langan's ticket of last semester, John Neri and Reggie Torani, is still considering the other slates of last semester to see if they will run if the Langan ticket drops out.

According to Ns., Langan's ticket would like to have all the other tickets agree to drop out, then Langan's ticket will in turn do the same.

If one or more of the other tickets decide to compete against the "Good Guys" then the Langan ticket, which has first choice, will enter in the primary election and see if they will run for the special election.

The other tickets are still undecided whether to oppose McMasters or not, everyone is still undecided.
