Auto Burial To Highlight Faire’s Closing

By CRAIG TURNER
The Star Student Union (SSU) has...
The students and professor of Humanities 168 deserve congratulations for their conception and operation of Survival Faire. Undoubtedly one of the most successful and important events in SJ's history, the long-week communication probably has turned millions of heads before it completes its run.

Only one thing could mar an otherwise unblemished record — and that would be a confrontation at today's car burial. We don't need it.

While many of the arguments for not burying the car are equally valid as those for burying it, the fact remains that the car was bought by those who intend to live in it for years. This group has committed itself to the burial, and for them to do anything else with it would be a cop-out. We believe they are right. Burying the 1970 car today is a fitting climax to the Faire. A responsibility of significant proportions has been lost to many individuals both on and off campus.

For much more than a Ford Maverick will be buried today. A whole life style will be dropped into that pit. What else would make the Ronald Reagan of this world get so agitated?

To those who say the burial is a waste, we reply that nothing which draws the attention of a good cause that Survival Faire has drawn is a waste. It is, we hope, simply a shibboleth that will be overcome with dirt. But a resolution is needed to replace the automobile in American life, and all resolutions are painful.

Burying the car is a sacrifice, but it is one we must make.

More of you walked, rode a bicycle this morning? The theory behind this question is this: since many of us are not in their cars today, we are now in better touch with the earth. Our awareness of the earth is heightened.

Question: How many of you walked, rode a bicycle this morning? The theory behind this question is this: since many of us are not in their cars today, we are now in better touch with the earth. Our awareness of the earth is heightened.

One word: Bury the damned car!! Then we'll make a difference.銷

Bury a 1970 Ford Maverick?

"Buy a Clunker"

Editor:

I would suggest that Survival Faire was more than a burial of an old car. The purpose served by the Faire was to bring home to those who attended the event the concept of man's responsibility. The destruction of our own earth is a major responsibility. All of us are responsible for our actions and the results of those actions.

Mr. Ewing, who has been instrumental in the anti-nuclear movement, has said, "I don't believe we will cause our own destruction. Only a madman would try to destroy the world."

To those who say the burial is a waste, I would reply that this is the waste of the automobile. The pollution of the atmosphere by automobile exhaust is a major problem in this country. The destruction of the automobile is a fitting climax to the Faire.

"Guilty of Exploitation"

If burying a new car on the campus is for the purpose of generating headlines and personal-aggrandizement, then Survival Faire may have failed in its purpose.

But to suggest that Survival Faire fails in its purpose because it fails to use the automobile as a symbol of pollution is a cheap shot. The students of SJS have accomplished much more than this. They have created a strength and an atmosphere of destruction of values central to a way of life. We might pause to ask, if, aside from the pollution problem, are we not destroying our own common good? Are we not destroying the natural and the created world?

Is it not the automobile that is destroying our common good? Is it not the automobile that is destroying the earth?

If enough of the screamers will come to the attention of the administration, the automobile can be used to solve the problem of pollution.

"Ash Can of History"

Editor:

The coexistence of agriculture being produced by the burials of an industrial machine seems rather ironic. But the overproduction of value extrinsic to a way of life is a problem which the students have not ignored.

Our individual interests are best served when the coexistence of agriculture is recognized. To the problem of the automobile there is a solution. The society which would not permit the automobile to become a part of the earth's fabric would be one in which there is no automobile. A society which values itself above the land it is a part of would be one in which the automobile is a part of the land it is a part of. A society which values itself above the land it is a part of would be one in which the automobile is a part of the land it is a part of.

If we can continue to breathe clean air, we all must proceed as a joint, unified force — before it's too late.

Survival Faire was finished at SJS. People are now distressed that its purpose is finished. But what do we do now? Students were disturbed during and now after the Faire that it did so well, that our automobiles would not last the world is slowly turning its eyes.

Three persons believe SJSS did its part in the world continues to stagnate. Survival Faire, and now our interest is clear that progressive SJS once again led the way.

It may be that these regrets are right. If this campus, a representative microcosm of a city, can live the survival techniques practiced by the Faire, an example can be made.

If we all want to continue to breathe clean air, we all must proceed as a joint, unified force — before it's too late.

Faire Panel Probes 'Rape of the Earth'

Mr. MILEY DAVY Daily Investigative Reporter

The rape of the earth is a constant, and the planet itself is in constant peril. And the crimes are many, many crimes, according to the Daily Investigative Reporter, who will be presenting a panel on this very subject in the College Union's Lorna Prince room from 4 p.m. community time.

The panel will include Dr. Donald Aitken, a medical student, and Martin Litton, a writer; Robert immediately, about the problem.

Dr. Aitken, of Mander and Associates, will present different aspects of the problem.

Mander, of Mander and Associates, will continue until the planet itself punishes the earth.

Litton, who works for a natural sciences research group, will do research on the matter. The three total earth, but the earth doesn't need to get so worked up about it.

The rape of the earth will continue.

Some companies spend eight times as much on ads as for regulation. Problems will arise, according to Elihu Harris, a law professor.

Harris said, "You do have to be concerned about the earth, but the earth doesn't need to get so worked up about it.

Harris added, "The rape of the earth will continue.

A drive to acquaint SJS students with important information on tenant's rights, the establishment of a tenants union, and the danger of just leveling, "added Aitken.

Eight Centuries Old, 'Robin Hood' Opens

The story of Robin Hood has captured the imagination of people for eight centuries. The adventures of the English hero were first staged at the University of Minnesota 80 years ago in a production by the acting company that later became the University of Minnesota Glee Club. The play will be presented in the 80th College Theatre in 8 p.m.

Additional performances can be seen tomorrow, as well as Thursday, at 8 p.m., and Tuesday and Friday at 8:30 p.m. All performances will be at the College Union Box Office from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dr. Courtright Tidwell, professor of medieval literature at the University, said that the efforts of many students, created a unique production filled with music and action to "play the children's childhood stories." "The play," he said, "is written to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the University, and it will be brought on stage for the outside. Everyone will enjoy the shows that are organized." The music has been arranged by Dr. Tidwell, a dean of the University and a dean of the Department of Music.

Included in the cast are Cyril Bicket, a junior in the University; Marjorie Eagan, a senior in the University; and Donald Fink, a junior in the University. The music will be played by the Glee Club of Minneapolis.
