RAIDERS CONFESS; THEFT OF SIGNS DENIED

By KEITH ALWARD

Climaxing the furor over recent paint-daubing raids on the campuses of both San Jose State college and University of Santa Clara, was the news that the College of Pacific administration had discovered the culprits among its own students.

According to word received by Dean of Men Paul M. Pitman, the guilty parties have confessed to painting the two campuses, but deny having had anything to do with the disappearance of the two signs which have been missing from the San Jose State college grounds since Monday.

Dean of Men Edward S. Betz of COP, in a phone talk with Dean Pitman, stated that "appropriate disciplinary action would be taken against the offenders." Dean Pitman, while saying that he did not know what it means at the Stockton school, added that at Santa Clara it would mean dismissal. When similar incidents came up last year, Dr. T. W. MacQuarrie went on record as promising dismissal for any San Jose State students apprehended in such vandalistic acts.

Emerson "Doc" Arends, student body president, indicated that no claim for damages against the COP student body is contemplated.

The damage incurred in the pre-football game excitement consisted of two raids on the San Jose State campus during which various COP slogans were daubed on the walks and buildings. Two rustic signs identifying the college disappeared during the second raid. They had been hit with paint during the first attack. Even harder hit, reportedly, was the University of Santa Clara campus in a raid which also took place early Monday morning.

JULIANO NAMED GAME CAPTAIN IN GAUCHO TILT

By PAUL CANE

Joe Juliano, 195 lb. left guard, has been named Spartan captain for the San Jose State-Santa Barbara game tomorrow night, Coach Bill Hubbard announced yesterday afternoon.

Juliano, despite his lack of height, has been a mainstay in the forward wall throughout the young grid season, and Hubbard is expecting the rugged linesman to offer his usual strong opposition to the Gauchos offense.

The possibility of rain for the CCAA opener would probably give an advantage to the Spartans, since the bulwark of the Santa Barbara attack lies in their backfield speed. Sticky underfooting would curtail their offensive punch, Walt McPherson, Sparta's backfield coach, asserted.

Both Dean Sophia and Junior Morgan were in action at left and right ends yesterday, and neither seemed to be plagued by their early season injuries. Both boys will see service tomorrow evening, Hubbard said.

The return of Bob Pifferini to the Spartan lineup has improved the already steady defense, and if yesterday's practice was any indication, the aggressive center should play a sensational game against the Gauchos.

If his team receives the kickoff, Hubbard intends to field the following eleven: Knupper and Stein, ends; Faulk and DeBisschop, tackles; Juliano and Blackwell, guards; Pifferini, center; Jackson, quarterback; Russell and Nomura, halfbacks; and Donaldson, fullback.

NOMINATIONS OPEN FOR CLASS OFFICERS

"Student offices open for candidates include all class offices, Student Court prosecuting attorney, and Revelries director," said Chief Justice J. Keith Pope yesterday.

Revelries director is the only appointive office, and it will be filled upon recommendation of Dr. Hugh W. Gillis, Speech department director, stated Pope. All other offices are elective.

Nominations assemblies will be held Tuesday afternoon. A Student Body assembly will be held in the Morris Dailey auditorium at 2:30. Class meetings will be held at 3:30; the seniors meeting in the Morris Dailey auditorium, juniors in room S112, and sophomores in room 124.

Pope emphasized that all petitions should be in room 32 by 5:30 p.m. Applications for the position of Revelries director must be in the Speech office by tomorrow afternoon. This position will be filled at the Council meeting Monday.

JUNIORS PLAN FOOTBALL HOP

"Plans for the Santa Barbara after-game dance in the Men's gym are nearly completed," said Bob Keller, dance chairman. The dance will be presented to the student body Friday night by the junior class and will cost only 30 cents per person, 50 cents for those without student body cards, assured Keller.

Tickets will be sold at the gym from 10 p.m. until 1 a.m. and the dance will feature the latest in records. Tickets will not be sold before the game but after the game. Two doors in the building will be open to facilitate the crowds expected.

VETS GET REFUND ON A.S.B. CARDS

Miss Edith Graves, cashier in the Graduate Manager's office, has announced that over 300 veterans have purchased student body cards on the new G. I. Bill ruling. Sales will continue in room 32 through Monday.

In addition to the new buyers, Miss Graves stated that nearly 1200 veterans who had previously paid for their ASB cards have made application for refunds.

Deadline for refund applications has been set at 5 p.m. Monday. All veteran students attending school under P. L. 346 who have already paid for their student body cards should apply for a monetary return before that time.

COMMUNITY CHEST CAMPAIGN MEETS CHARITABLE STUDENT BODY REACTION

By BETTY McCONKEY

A favorable and charitable student reaction met canvassers yesterday at 10:30 as they opened the on-campus Community Chest drive with a quiet class-to-class appeal. Though the exact amount of money donated by students has not been determined, Patricia Polk, student drive chairman, was well pleased with the canvass, and marks it as a fast jump toward the $1800 goal.

"Students seem to realize the need of Red Feather agencies and their dependency on this drive. The Community Chest is not a charitable organization, but a benefit to all," explained Miss Polk.

Containers will be placed around the campus for further contributions, and it is the hope of campaign leaders that there will be no further need for class canvassing. The drive is scheduled to last just one week, with the goal to be reached by next Wednesday.

Many of the organizations benefiting from contributions to the campaign, like the CWC, YMCA, YWCA, SCA, and the Boy and Girl Scouts, are closely associated with San Jose State college students. Not so well known here are the services which give aid to every age group, and suggest a realization of the drive slogan—"Everybody Benefits When Everybody Gives."

NOW HEAR THIS

Will the five Pratt hall girls who were given a lift to school Tuesday morning in the car of a Mr. Harry P. Hough please check your books and binders for any religious pamphlets you may have picked up by mistake?

Mr. Hough is connected with the First Presbyterian church and needs the missing material as soon as possible. He may be reached by calling Ballard 1562.

SENIORS WILL HOLD BARBECUE

Tommy Pratt, who formerly was a member of Abe Lyman's orchestra, and his 13-piece swing band will be the feature attraction of tonight's Senior Roundup, and steak-bake entertainment program being held by the class of '48.

In addition to a steak dinner, which will be served to seniors and their guests, the evening's activities will include appearances by Don Brown, popular campus singer, and pianist Bob McFadyen. The 540 boys, consisting of Ken McGill, Boyd Schultz, Dick Fagerstrom, Dick Pritchard and Paul Murphy, are also scheduled to appear on the program as is Ed Mosher, well known magician.

Program for the evening: 6-8, barbecue; 8-8:30, movies of last year's Spauld and Grac; and at 8:30, variety program and bonfire. The barbecue pits will be the scene of the whole program.

FROSH OFFICES OPEN NOW

Elections for students nominated for temporary offices in the three freshman groups will be held next week in the respective group meetings, according to Milton Lanyon, advisor of the freshman class.

One group meets on Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. in room A1, another on Thursday at 9:30 in the Morris Dailey auditorium, and the third at 1:30 on Thursday in the auditorium, says Mr. Lanyon.

"Under the ASB constitution permanent officers may not be elected until February," says Dean of Men Paul M. Pitman. "However, temporary officers are elected so that the students may carry on freshman class activities," explains Dean Pitman.

Three groups have been organized through the Freshman Orientation class. Dean Pitman and Mr. Lanyon urge all freshmen to join a group so that they may enjoy the freshman class activities.

SONG GIRLS ADDED TO BAND ROSTER

Another innovation has been added to San Jose State college's marching band, adding three more names to the already crowded roster, which numbers well over 100, according to Armand Hanzad, Rally publicity chairman.

Titled the Song Girls, Ann Corwin, Shirley Hankins, and Barbara Rodenborn will make their debut Friday night, leading the rooting section in school songs.

MERMEN DUNK STANFORD 7-5 AT PALO ALTO

By JOHN GOTHBERG

A great San Jose State water polo team led by Ed Rudloff and Otis Keeler defeated the Stanford varsity, 7-5, at Palo Alto yesterday.

The Statemen trailed the Indians, 4-1, early in the game and Stanford led, 4-3, at the half. Playing smart ball, the local splashers held a 5-4 lead at the end of the third quarter. The Indians never overtook the Gold and White after that.

Coach Walker was overjoyed by the showing his team made, but he stated that the Spartans were even better than the score indicated.

Captain Tudor Bogart, Howard Huweler, Dick Bartels, Bill Monahan, and Eugene Foley are men who helped lead San Jose to victory.

The State freshmen played a rugged game but were unable to overtake Stanford's early lead. The Papooses won, 8 to 3. Stanford's frosh displayed some excellent material for next year's varsity. Hofman, Santos, and Bogle made the Spartan goals.

The Spartan Frosh showed great improvement over last week's game with the University of California.

The freshmen will meet Palo Alto High this afternoon at 4 p.m. in the San Jose State pool.

THRUST and PARRY WE LIKE 'EM

Dear Thrust and Parry and ASB 1054:

This comes in defense of the "540 Boys," so nobly taken apart by you in Tuesday's edition of the Spartan Daily.

Not being a member of their organization, I am only one of the many here at Sparta who enjoy listening to their satirical representation of hillbilly music. The "540 Boys" have been more than helpful to us on the Rally committee during the past years. They have given us their time willingly whenever we asked for it, and have always been one of the most popular groups on the campus.

The fellows always have put a lot of time into their routines, and deserve to be congratulated rather than censored for their entertainment.

The "540 Boys" are an intelligent looking group, as you admit, and are also a swell bunch of fellows to work with. More power and good luck to the "540s."

MORAL

Dear Thrust and Parry:

I see that ASB President Arends received a prompt R.S.V.P. to his most "cordial" invitation to the COP boys.

Moral: the best way to get trouble is to ask for it.

Sincerely yours,

—ASB 1987

HEY, ROOTERS

Thrust and Parry:

October 25 marks the day when the San Jose State college football team plays an important conference game against San Diego State. It is only fitting that the team has a strong supporting rooting section.

Since this game is a Shrine benefit game when festivities will run high, the American Legion state championship band in San Diego will play for State college rooters.

If enough rooters participate, a block section will be roped off for San Jose State. Those who are interested in joining an unofficial motor caravan are urged to sign up on the Student Union bulletin board.

Remember this is not an official school caravan. Those who sign up must have a place to stay. Transportation will be arranged. Further, it must not interfere with your class schedule.

Tickets to be purchased in advance for the game will be available at a later date.

—ASB 2785 and 2338

Music Lovers Form New Class As Choral Ensemble

By ALICE JOY GOLDER

Today's lesson for more than 60 music lovers, under the direction of E. A. Thormodsgaard, is singing. The group, called the Choral Ensemble, is San Jose State college's newest musical organization.

Members, both non-music and music majors, meet as a class twice a week on Tuesdays and Thursdays to work on choral arrangements, says Mr. Thormodsgaard.

"The purpose of the organization is to provide training and experience in a variety of musical literature," explained Director Thormodsgaard.

"The music department," he added, "through the A Cappella choir, under the direction of William J. Erlendson, and the Choral Ensemble, endeavors to provide rich and thorough experience in choral music."

The director hastened to add that the singers do not need a great deal of experience, but require only an "interest in singing and lots of fire."

Arrangements, the vocal organizer pointed out, will vary from four to eight part music. He explained that the essential parts of bass, baritone, soprano, and tenor will highlight some selections while more difficult songs will subdivide the voices into six and eight part music.

"Lesson for the day," smiled Mr. Thormodsgaard, "will consist of learning and singing varied types of music, the purpose of which is to enhance the experience of the student."

Although only a half unit is given for the course, the present turnout and increasing interest prompts the director to believe that the class organization will soon number 100 novices.

"Again next quarter," says the instructor, "the course will be offered to the student body. Those who now have program conflicts are invited to join the ensemble winter quarter. If you enjoy singing, drop around and see about joining us soon."

ARE YOU IN A RUT, PROFESSOR? SURVEY GIVES HELPFUL HINTS

By HARRY FARRELL

Professor—have you bought a new suit lately? Maybe you should trot downtown and buy one next payday. Especially if you wear the same old gray pin-stripe to your lectures every day. You're in a rut.

And your students know it.

Eight Spartans, cornered by the Spartan Daily, have written conscientious, critical blurbs on "What's wrong with professors, generally?" They have listed amazingly similar major faults, almost all of which can be grouped under three big headings:

1. In-a-rut-ism.
2. Hyper-intellectualism.
3. Lack of the "human touch."

Wearing old suits is just one relatively insignificant example of in-a-rut-ism, mentioned specifically by only one person. The general idea seems to be that if a lecturer habitually wears the same drab suit, he probably delivers the same drab lectures habitually too.

The big objection in the "rut" category concerns faculty members who talk from the text, or from the same notes, season after season.

The second general classification of professional shortcomings, "hyper-intellectualism," seems best summed up by a post-graduate woman student in the Science department.

She says: "A few professors are Phi Beta Kappas, brilliant men who are authorities on the subjects they teach. This can be a break for their students, but it also can be a hinderance. Such profs often will get so wrapped up in their subjects that their lectures go beyond the mental range of their beginning students. The students don't understand and soon cease to care."

The third major category of

THEY DID IT TOO

In defense of the present ram-paging younger generation let it at least be said that they are not the first to cause their harassed parents to say, "Mergatroyd, go play out on the railroad tracks."

It comes to night that in the not-so-lenient days of our ancestors, the Puritans, there was the same reading of extra-curricular literature, singing of risque songs, drinking bouts, bundling and all the other naughty things that go to make each succeeding younger generation the most disgraceful that society has ever seen.

Vico Bondietti, reserve guard and fullback, has become the Spartan field goal kicking specialist. Vico booted four for four against College of Puget Sound.

faculty faults is lack of the elusive "human touch," and the undergraduate critics mention this in several different lights.

"Too many college teachers are swell guys outside of class, but once they get behind their lecture stands, they seem to feel they must terrorize their students to appear scholarly," said one Spartan, aptly expressing similar sentiments of several others.

Nothing annoys one junior so much as English profs who are "inhibited."

"They are afraid to speak out their honest sentiments on any subject," he writes. "They hedge everything they say with numerous qualifications. They're afraid to 'go overboard' on any opinion, no matter how strongly they believe in it. Most profs of this type always act like scared rabbits."

"Too stoloal," is the way many professors appear to a criminology student. "They're too aloof. They should be more friendly. Not that they should adopt a 'buddy-buddy' attitude toward their pupils, but a step in that direction wouldn't hurt."

Any professor who frowns on too much familiarity between himself and his students, however, can take consolation in the view of one individualistic Spartan who writes, "What I admire most in professors is absolute impartiality, strict attendance to the work at hand, aloofness, and downright discouragement of attempted soft-soaping."

The boy who wrote that probably will be a professor himself some day.

WRITER SURVEYS SPARTAN CHANCES

By BOYD SCHULTZ

Can San Jose State stay "up" for nine more games? Will the spirit which enabled the Spartans to turn back a 3 to 1 favorite in Hardin Simmons, ebb? Will six successive games away from home take off the edge?

Not a very nice way to talk about a team which currently has rambled past three straight foes after losing the opener to a fine USF eleven; a team which snapped the intercollegiate win streak of Hardin Simmons at 23, but coach Bill Hubbard is undoubtedly asking himself these very same questions. It's just as hard for a winning team to remain that way as it is for a losing team to suddenly become a consistent winner.

From all indications it looks like the San Jose Spartans will enter their remaining nine games established favorites. An enviable situation you say, but why then are coaches so prone to term their teams underdogs.

Why are they quick to point out the weakness in their own ball clubs and the strong points in the opposition? It may be they operate on the old saying if you're the underdog you have everything to gain and nothing to lose. At any rate, Hubbard finds himself in the position of facing nine more teams, all of whom will be pointing for the day they meet the Spartans.

A good many will have everything to gain and nothing to lose. Teams with this philosophy are always dangerous regardless of past records.

Then too the Spartans must travel away from home for all their remaining games following the COP game October 31. Six in a row away from friendly home crowds.

COP, Fresno State, and San Diego State are all vastly improved over last year and the Spartans should have no trouble getting in the right frame of mind for these games. But games with Cal Poly, Scofield barracks, and the Mollili bears are a different story.

They will be regarded as weak teams and the Spartans will find difficulty gearing up for them. College of Puget Sound, a football weak sister, made things mighty uncomfortable for State for 30 minutes. It's just hard to get all fired up for games like this.

It will take nothing short of magic to keep the boys right for all the remaining games, but then maybe Bill Hubbard possesses some of that Houdini medicine, at least we were strongly suspicious of it when the Spartans played the Hardin Simmons Cow-boys.

GAUCHO-SPARTAN CONTEST ONLY CONFERENCE GAME

By PAUL VON HAFFTEN

The lone conference contest this week is between the Santa Barbara college Gauchos and San Jose State college Spartans which will be held at the Spartan Stadium this Friday evening, according to the Men's P. E. department.

It is the opening football conference game for both teams and is especially important for the Spartans because they are defending the CCAA title when they won last year.

Both teams are in good condition and a much closer battle is expected this year. Last year, the Spartans won by a score of 20-0. We favor the Spartans to win this year after a hard fought contest.

In the most important non-conference tilt, more than 10,000 fans are expected to see the College of the Pacific Tigers and the Santa Clara Broncos clash in Stockton. The Broncos are favored to win their third straight victory. Last week, Santa Clara defeated Stanford 13-7, while OOP won from San Diego State by a score of 13 to 0.

There are three other non-conference games set for this week. Cal Poly is expected to defeat San Francisco State this Saturday in San Francisco. The Mustangs have lost two CCAA games but should have no trouble Saturday.

In San Diego, the San Diego Aztecs entertain the Occidental Tigers, while Fresno State meets Loyola at Los Angeles.

By PAUL VON HAFFTEN

The player of the week for the College of the Pacific was Bullet Bob Heck who starred for the Tigers in their game against the Loyola Lions.

POOR McKEEVER

USF's Coach Ed. McKeever is already worried about the 1948 football season. He believes that his Dons will be lucky to win 5 of the 10 games next year. Didn't Coach McKeever say the same thing about his squad this year?

San Jose State college isn't the only institution which is preparing for a successful wrestling season. More than 20 men including

FROSH PLAY SEAHAWKS

The San Jose State college freshman football eleven is scheduled to open its 1947 grid season against the Santa Cruz Seahawks

Friday evening at 7:30 in Santa Cruz. This is the first year since 1941 that the Spartans have fielded a yearling team.

Coach Bud Winter has a light but speedy backfield which averages approximately 150 pounds. His line isn't too heavy either. The average weight is 190 pounds.

The yearling squad is inexperienced but is composed of eager and aggressive football players.

The Seahawks on the other hand, are big and fast. They have experience and many former Notre Dame stars. Billy Rhyne who played at right half for the Spartans last year is a member of their squad. Their line averages a mere 210 pounds.

Hal Phillips, Texas seat back, led Coach Walt McPherson's baseball team in hitting last spring. "Tex" had a knee operation this summer and the operation has helped him considerably.

Pete Denevi, all-CCAA quarterback in 1946, comes from Los Gatos. Denevi played basketball for the Spartan cage five last year.

Lillian Bradshaw was elected president of the Swim club at the last meeting. Other officers elected were "Mike" O'Shea, vice-president; "Felix" Jones, secretary; Ann Corwin, treasurer; Shirley Hankins and Doris Perry, publicity chairmen.

The Swim club promises to have a full year since 50 girls have already signed up to take part in this year's activities, according to Miss Bradshaw.

At the present time members are working on formations for the coming Swim show and a meet with the Stanford Swim club planned for the near future.

NEW CO-OP NOW OPEN

Peter Jurgensen, manager of the new boarding co-op at 160 North Third street (basement of Unitarian church), announced yesterday that their organization began operating Monday.

"The present cost is $1.75 per boarder per day, and this should decrease as membership increases," Jurgensen stated. "There is also a five dollar initiation fee into the club," he said, which goes into the initial expenditures. The schedule for meals is as follows: Breakfast, 6:45-8:00; lunch, 11:30-1:00; dinner, 5:15-6:00.

It is entirely run by San Jose State college students and is a non-profit organization. All students interested may contact Manager Jurgensen at the co-op during any of the meal times listed above.
